GANDHI BALKS AT DOMINION STATUS IN INDIA

Wants Independence or Nothing.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ON BOARD GANDHI'S TRAIN FROM MARSEILLES TO LONDON, Sept. 11.—Puttering away at his spinning wheel as he watched the sun set over the green fields of France, so unlike the sunbaked plains of Hindustan, Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, sped north tonight towards London, where next week at the resumed session of the Indian round table conference he will begin fighting the battle of his life for self-government for one-fifth of the world's human beings.

He looked like an old wise man from the east as he stepped off the British liner Rajputana at Marseilles early this morning. He had only a cloth around his loins, to be sure, and a rough homespun shawl over his skinny shoulders.

Has Air of Confidence.

But there was confidence and sureness in his manner as he grinned through his two teeth and answered interviewers' questions with quick and ready answers.

Even with the army of photographers shooting at him from all sides he seemed to enjoy thoroughly at first, but after a few minutes they got so much that he slipped away into his second class cabin and announced that he didn't wanted to see him he must have to do it individually.

Sprawling on his bunk, his thin body barely touching the floor, he spun away industriously as he gave an interview.

Outlines His Demands.

What he said was the most important statement he has made since he consented to attend the London conference. It would seem practically to wreck all chance of any agreement being reached with the British government. His demands are these, as he himself outlined:

FIRST—Complete independence for India. Dominion status is not sufficient.

SECOND—The status of India within the British empire to be only on a co-equal basis.

THIRD — Safeguards during the transitional stage, if the first two conditions are accepted.

Blow to British Hopes.

This was the first time Gandhi had come out flatly against dominion status. It is known that the British authorities had believed he would take much less.

"My idea of independence," Gandhi declared, "does not exclude an alliance or partnership with the British. It does exclude absolutely dominion status. Two years ago I personally would have accepted dominion status. Now I believe it is impossible for India."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because dominion status, as I understand it, implies a family of nations made up of the same people," Gandhi replied. "Now, we are not of the same family as the English. Our race, culture and religion preclude that. We will take on a partnership with the British, but no dominion status."

He Expects a Rebuff.

"But do you think you have a great of a chance of putting these demands across in London?" I asked.

"Frankly not," Gandhi said. "Looking at the external side of things, there is not much chance for them to be ready to grant what I ask.

"But my position is clear," he added. "I am against dominion status, I tell you. I am not going to London to ask for that. I hope to be able to explain my position to the British statesmen, if they are accessible. That is all. Then, if there is any basis of accord—I mean on independence—the details can be filled in."

"Are you optimistic?" I asked.

"I am always optimistic," he said, and grinned those two teeth and twinkling eyes. "I admit I do not see land in sight yet, but neither did Columbus, so reports go, until the last minute."

Denies Barnstorming Plans.

Gandhi contradicted press reports that he hoped to make a barnstorming tour of England, making speeches everywhere.

"I don't even intend to make a speech at the round table conference," he said. "I will try to present my position to the workers of Lancashire." Hundreds of thousands of these cotton mill workers are out of work as

Wife Sticks to Story of Husband's Death.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The capture of the yacht Penguin by Long Island sound pirates and the fantastic behavior of the two strangely acting invaders as they ferried back and forth in the dark waters on Wednesday grew even more bizarre this evening as added details of the extraordinary adventures of Mrs. Lillian Collings were revealed.

E. N. EDWARDS.

The Long Island authorities have accepted the young wife's amazing narrative of a night of horror after thirteen hours of questioning, and the incident in the sound now takes its place officially as a murder case unparalleled in the metropolitan area, where weird crimes are not unusual.

Two days of ceaseless investigation have failed to establish the fate of Benjamin P. Collings, Yale engineer, who retired to a life of cruising and scientific study after winning a comfortable income in Wall street.

Income Reported Cut.

The present extent of that income, however, became a matter of police inquiry tonight. A member of the Collings family was quoted as saying that it had been $10,000 a year, but with the falling off of dividends and other losses had dwindled lately to $700. The father of the missing man said his son carried no insurance.

Collings' young wife insists two armed intruders bound him and tossed him into the water and then separated her from her five year old daughter, Barbara, and mistreated her.

For a time early tonight it appeared that the body of the missing yachtsman had been discovered and that Mrs. Collings' story had been substantiated. The hope was dispelled after investigation.

Capt. Richard Stafford, skipper of a ferryboat plying between Stamford, Conn., and Bayville, Long Island—the locality in which the crime is believed to have been committed—reported he had sighted what appeared to be the body of a man, face downward, hands bound behind the back, off Willy's point.

Find Two Fruit Crates.

Boatmen immediately set out for the point indicated. They combed the waters for two hours, but found no body. They did find two floating fruit crates tied together, which might have looked like a man if the observer was imaginative.

Earlier in the afternoon police boats had scurried to Hell's Gate bridge when a derelict motor boat named Oh Boy was discovered. The Oh Boy was in bad shape, cabin stove in and hold water filled. There were water soaked garments—a woman's dress and a flowered kimono—aboard, it was said. The police found no clothing, and tonight had been unable to link Oh Boy with the sound yacht mystery. They were of the opinion that the Oh Boy was a mystery all its own and that it would have to wait its turn.

Find New Clews on Penguin.

Then the investigators returned to Mrs. Collings. Earlier in the day she had gone aboard the Penguin and re-enacted the capture scene and subsequent developments. Her story at that time was virtually the same as she told last night.

The detectives, however, discovered a loaded pistol for which there was no license, a pile of western and detective story magazines, a hunting knife, scores of finger prints of which they took scores of photographs and a stained piece of upholstery. They cut the piece of upholstery from its place in the cabin for analysis, despite the frowns of Mrs. Collings.

After lunch the young wife, tearful at times and calm at others, was questioned again for hours. She clarified some of the points in the earlier story, but police said many discrepancies remained.

Mystery is Unbroken.

Tonight all the investigators have to work on is that story, told and retold. The young yachtsman himself has developed into a puzzling figure and there is not a tangible thing ex-

DRY LID HURTS TRADE, FINDING IN LAKE COUNTY

Because Lake county officials are strict in their enforcement of prohibition, merchants of the county are losing thousands of dollars in trade from citizens who journey across the state line to Wisconsin in search of good beer, the Waukegan Barbers' union, Local 716, asserted in a letter made public yesterday.

The letter was directed to all of the service clubs, trade unions and civic, fraternal and veterans organizations in the county. It urged those groups to adopt resolutions favoring a more liberal stand on prohibition by public officials, the return of 4 per cent beer, and the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The letter asserted that sentiment in Lake county was overwhelmingly in favor of more liberal conditions, as evidenced by the vote in various prohibition referenda.

ADMITS CHARGING LEHMANN 16% ON MONEY LOANED

Testifying in the Probate court at Waukegan, K. W. Kempf, operator of a loan business at 180 West Washington street, admitted yesterday that he charged 16 per cent interest on notes to the late Ernst E. Lehmann of Lake Villa.

He appeared as a witness in proceedings to collect $90,000 in claims from Lehmann's estate. The claims are being fought by Mrs. Clara Lehmann, Lehmann's widow, who charges the interest rates are excessive. According to her attorney, William Behannah, Kempf assessed interest ranging from 11 to 20 per cent.

Kempf estimated the rate at 16 per cent. He said that he does not now hold all the claims, having sold some of them to fifteen buyers at a profit of 4½ per cent. During the hearing Attorney Behannah told Probate Judge Martin Decker that the $90,000 claims should be reduced to $40,000 because of exorbitant interest.

Lindberghs to Fly Home by Way of Hawaii

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 12 [Saturday].—Charles A. Lindbergh told naval authorities at the Kasumigaura airdrome today that after their flight to Nanking, China, Mrs. Lindbergh and he will visit the Philippine islands on their way back to America by way of the southern route. They will stop, it was understood, at the Guam and Marshall islands on their hop to Honolulu and San Francisco. The Lindberghs planned to hop to Osaka today en route to China.

"We have enjoyed our stay here exceedingly," Col. Lindbergh said. "After we get home we will not be surprised if we want to go on another trip. We think that landing on the river at Nanking can be done easily.

"The Japanese workmen did wonderful work in repairing the leak in the oil tank and in varnishing the plane."

Clew to Missing Flyers.

SEWARD, Alaska, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Capt. H. Hanson of the passenger steamer Alaska, here from Seattle, said today he heard the motor of an eastward bound plane over his ship at 11 p. m. Tuesday about 30 miles offshore, near Lituya bay, southeastern Alaska. The plane in which Don Moyle and Cecil Allen were attempting a nonstop flight from Samushiro, Japan, to Seattle should have been in that region at that time.

The report, regarded as the most authentic since the flyers were sighted at Point Erimo, Hokkaido island, seventy minutes after their take-off from Samushiro beach at 12:30 p. m. [Pacific standard time] Monday, raised hopes that the aviators may be safe somewhere along the coast west of Juneau. They had no radio.

French Flyers Over Russia.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 11.—The first race for a nonstop distance flight record ended today when one of two French planes attempting a Paris-Tokio flight was forced down. The other continued toward Tokio.

At the latest word tonight, Joseph Le Brix, Marcel Doret, and Rene Mesmin, in their monoplane Hyphen IL, had passed Moscow and were headed for Kazan. Paul Codos and Henry Robida in the plane Question Mark, in which Capt. Diuedonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte flew the Atlantic, made a forced landing near Dusseldorf, Germany, because of a defective gasoline feed pipe.

This is the second attempt Le Brix and Doret have made to reach Tokio in a nonstop flight. In their first flight their plane was wrecked when Doret made a forced landing in Siberia after Le Brix had jumped with a parachute.

WHEN ANNABELLE STARTS OUT TO SWIM, SHE DOES

Coast guards dragging the lake off 47th street yesterday for the body of Miss Annabelle Heyser, 20 years old, of 4645 Lake Park avenue, were interrupted in their search by the appearance of Miss Heyser swimming toward shore.

Earlier she and Miss Bertha Ryley, 21 years old, also of 4645 Lake Park avenue, had started out on a swim to a four mile buoy. Miss Ryley swam out two miles and then turned back. Failing to see Miss Heyser following, she reported her drowned. Coast guardsmen were called and they began dragging the lake. It was an hour later that Miss Heyser swam into view on her way back from the buoy. She was picked up by Policemen Connelly and Tapscott in a boat. She was nearly exhausted but triumphant.

"That's nothing," she said. "I don't see why people should be surprised if I swim four miles out in the lake. My big ambition is to go over Niagara falls in a barrel, and then swim the English channel."

Heir Is Found Near Death in Broken Home

George M. Stevens Jr., manager of the group insurance department of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company, 1 North La Salle street, was in a serious condition from gas poisoning in the Highland Park hospital last night. He was found just before noon yesterday in the basement laundry of his home, 188 Hazel avenue, Highland Park, with the jets of a gas stove all open.

Town firemen worked an hour to resuscitate Mr. Stevens, but his attending physician, Dr. G. Q. Grady, fears that pneumonia may develop. He had been exposed to the gas for almost an hour, the doctor believes, and efforts to administer large quantities of oxygen to the patient in an oxygen "tent" were being resorted to. He was still unconscious late last night.

Her Father Arrives.

Late last night Mr. Stevens' father, a wealthy lumber dealer living in Mount Vernon, N. Y., and having offices in New York City, arrived by plane at the Chicago airport and went directly to the Highland Park hospital. Mr. Stevens Jr. is 28 years old. He was divorced early in August in Reno by Katherine Eva Carqueville Stevens, daughter of Alexander R. Carqueville, 176 East Laurel avenue, Highland Park.

Mrs. Stevens was married again on Aug. 29 to Robert Lee Le Chereq of Cheshire, Conn., whom she met in Europe this summer, and in a message from Buffalo, a stop on her honeymoon, she said last night that Mr. Stevens had also been married again—the ceremony having taken place Aug. 27. She did not name his bride. The former wife was believed to be on her way to Highland Park last night.

The Stevenses lived together for six years and had two children, Robert, 4 years old, and Barbara, 3 years old. The children were staying in Highland Park with Mr. Carqueville Sr. and his wife, the former Elsa Fisch, German motion picture actress, while their mother was honeymooning.

Stricken Father Found.

A nurse, Helen Chapman, and the gardener, David Barnett, went to the Stevens home to get the children's laundry at 11 a. m. yesterday. Entering the house they smelled gas and returned to the Carqueville home for help. There they found Jeffery A. Carqueville, 127 Hazel avenue, former brother-in-law of Stevens, who happened to be at his parents' house. He hurried to the Stevens home.

Guided by the gas fumes he went straight to the basement. Mr. Stevens lay near the gas stove, face down. Near him was the children's laundry which the nurse was to fetch.

Mr. Carqueville carried the unconscious man out, and Fire Chief Edward C. Hoskins soon arrived with a Highland Park inhalator squad. It was almost an hour before the heartbeat was strong enough to allow Stevens' removal to the hospital.

Morose Since Divorce.

Members of both Carqueville families said Mr. Stevens had been morose since the divorce, and Mrs. Jeffery Carqueville quoted him as saying that he "couldn't live" without his former wife. Thursday night, it was said, Mr. Stevens wired his former wife, then on a boat between Detroit and Buffalo, asking her to call. He signed the message "Jean," the name of his former sister-in-law. When Mrs. Le Chereq phoned from Buffalo Mrs. Carqueville Sr. told her that her former husband was morose and suggested that she come home. It was then that Mrs. Le Chereq mentioned that Stevens had been remarried.

Alexander Carqueville expressed a great affection yesterday for his former son-in-law, and members of both families installed themselves at the hospital, endeavoring to be of some aid to Mr. Stevens. Mr. Carqueville described the sick man as a serious-minded individual, devoting great care to his work, but given to constant worrying.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Chereq were married in Gurnee, Lake county, by Justice of the Peace John Williams. According to the family, she receives $1,000 monthly from the estate of her mother.

BARBECUE WILL LAUNCH TRAYLOR FOR PRESIDENCY

Columbia, Ky., Sept. 11.—(AP)—A typical Kentucky barbecue will be the setting Sept. 25 for the launching of a Melvin A. Traylor for President boom in his native county and state.

Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, was boosted for the Democratic nomination for President at a recent rally in Texas, where he met financial success.

The Chicago financier was born at Breeding, Adair county, of which Columbia is the county seat. The rally here Sept. 25 will be attended by members of Traylor-for-President clubs which have been organized throughout Kentucky.

400 OTHERS DIE; CITY OF BELIZE IS LAID IN RUINS

Hundreds Injured in British Honduras.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—As the appalling story of the hurricane at Belize, British Honduras, reached the outside world in more detail tonight, estimates of the number of dead rose to 400.

Communication in the first hours after the disaster had been meager, but as the full measure of the storm began to be seen, Pan-American Airways at the British town said 400 there were killed, several hundred injured, and most of the homes swept away. Some earlier dispatches had set the dead at so small a figure as 150.

Storm Moves to Mexico.

The storm that struck death in Belize, meanwhile had moved toward Frontera, Mexico, and another disturbance, which killed at least two in San Juan, Porto Rico, was expected by the weather bureau here to pass not far from Port au Prince, Haiti, at midnight tonight. Both were said to be of somewhat diminished intensity.

American Vice Consul Ott at Belize informed the state department the only known American dead were eleven priests and scholastics. He said if an American naval vessel were near it could do much good. He said the American consulate staff was safe with the exception of slight injuries to Consul Taggart. He stressed the need for medical aid.

List of American Dead.

The eleven Americans who died were members of the Missouri province of the Society of Jesus. They were killed in the destruction of St. John's college, a Jesuit institution. The death list was telegraphed tonight by Bishop Joseph A. Murphy, formerly of Chicago, who is in charge of Catholic work in British Honduras.

The dead included six priests of the order, four scholastics, not yet ordained priests, and one Jesuit brother. They were listed as follows:

The Rev. William Tracy, St. Louis.
The Rev. Bernard A. New, Buffalo, N. Y.
The Rev. William Ferris, St. Louis.
The Rev. Leo Rooney, Superior, Wis.
The Rev. Francis Kemphues, Cincinnati.
Richard Smith, Racine, Wis.
Alfred Baumeister, Cleveland, O.
Dato Burns, British Honduras.
John Rodgers, Reading, Pa., brother.

Some time earlier the navy and the Red Cross, at the request of President Hoover, had dispatched a marine corps plane from Managua, Nicaragua, with $2,500 worth of medical supplies. Other planes were en route from Panama.

Warships Stand By.

The gunboat Sacramento, which has little reserve medical or food stores aboard, was not very far away at Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua. The cruiser Rochester was ordered to pass through the Panama canal from the Pacific to the Atlantic and stand by for orders.

Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, aboard the Rochester, replied the ship would be at Colon tomorrow, ready to head northward with doctors and medicines if needed.

The mine sweeper Swan was at Trujillo, Honduras, only a few hours' run from Belize, and it proceeded at once to the hurricane zone. Other boats in Central American waters were held in readiness if needed.

CHURCHES DEMOLISHED

BY PHILIP WOODS.
[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 11.—(AP)—A hurricane which struck Belize with devastating results yesterday is known to have killed about 150 persons, and bodies still were being unearthed from the débris late today.

No house in the city was undamaged. The hurricane started at about 2:30 p. m. and lasted until 5:30, with a calm period of about half an hour.

Wireless communication was broken, and this message is being sent out through the courtesy of the Pan-American Airways' radio.

All churches in the city were demolished. St. John's college was destroyed and ten American Roman Catholic priests were killed. Eighteen boys lost their lives in the college building.

The government has organized special police to guard against the loot ing of stores and to conserve the food supply.

A tidal wave hit the city after the lull in the hurricane, and most of those killed lost their lives by drowning.

The loss to American companies is roughly estimated at $250,000. Estimates placed the total damage well over $2,000,000.

Drugs were ruined by rain and waves, and physicians are working under very difficult conditions.

A prison gang has been at work since daybreak digging trenches to receive the dead and the road to the cemetery has been cleared for vehicular traffic. Bodies were taken to the burial ground by motor truck.

First aid stations today presented a gruesome sight as the injured hobbled in or were carried on roughly constructed stretchers.

Government house was practically undamaged, although the servants' quarters and the kitchen were demolished.

Story Told from Airplane.

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 11.—(AP)—[Aboard Pan-American plane flying over city, via wireless to Pan-American Airways to New York and the Associated Press.]—The hurricane has wrought untold havoc in the city of Belize. Not a building is undamaged, and the entire town is washed out.

The houses of this once tranquil town are piled up like so many toys. One area, in the heart of the city, about six blocks square, is entirely wiped out.

Ships and barges, battered and hammered by the hurricane, are swept high on dry land. Houses have been washed out to the sea, and can be seen bobbing about in the water, nearly submerged.

The Belize river has overflowed its banks, and its turgid yellow waters inundate part of the region. The river itself is so full of debris that the natives have difficulty navigating it in their dugouts.

Our hangar [for planes of the Pan-American Airways] is a place of refuge for about 40 or 50 persons. None other of our buildings remains standing. [Signed]—E. S. Rodenbaugh, chief pilot aboard a Sikorsky mail plane en route to San Salvador from Miami, Fla.

Two Killed in San Juan.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 11.—(AP)—San Juan counted two dead, another slightly injured and considerable minor property damage today as a result of a 100 mile an hour hurricane that struck last night.

Although buildings were flooded, trees uprooted and public utility services paralyzed, the city escaped a major disaster, such as occurred three years ago, when a hurricane caused $100,000,000 damage.

A woman was electrocuted by a fallen wire and a waterfront watchman crushed under a roof dropped on him by the storm that lashed San Juan for two hours.

The disturbance was limited to an area 20 miles in diameter.

100 Houses Unroofed.

During a lull in the blow, F. Eugene Hartwell, head of the weather bureau, fell from an anemometer tower and was slightly injured. He was repairing the instrument after having issued a warning just before the hurricane struck.

Police estimated that 100 houses had been unroofed. Many windows were smashed and small craft was driven aground in the harbor. Communication lines were cut.

The rainfall, although less than two inches, soaked valuable paintings and tapestries in the residence of Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, who had sailed for New York on the steamer Coamo in the afternoon.

Fear Several Drowned.

Motorcycle police searched the territory adjacent to San Juan after it had been reported to Insular Chief R. R. Lutz that several persons had drowned during the storm, but the number was undetermined.

San Juan was in darkness tonight as all electric service was down.

The Spanish steamer Juan Sebastian Elcano was torn from her moorings during the height of the storm. All stern and midship lines parted, but the bow lines held. The vessel shifted about 200 yards, smashed into a bulkhead, and two small holes were broken through her plates.

WHERE HURRICANE SPREAD DEATH

Arrows show course of hurricane storms in the Caribbean sea. Belize, capital of British Honduras, was devastated and at least 400 persons were killed. The storm which struck San Juan, Porto Rico, was less severe and only two persons are believed to have been killed.

3 PRIESTS DEAD IN HURRICANE FROM CHICAGO REGION

Bishop Joseph Murphy Escapes Unhurt.

Three of the members of the Jesuit order who perished in the hurricane at Belize, British Honduras, and several others who were endangered came from the greater Chicago region.

The three killed were:

The Rev. Leo Rooney of Superior, Wis., a brother of Francis J. Rooney, 1236 Columbia avenue, secretary of the law school of Loyola university.

Scholastic Richard Smith of Racine, Wis.

Chicago Bishop Periled.

Among those who were periled were Bishop Joseph A. Murphy, who spent his boyhood in Chicago and was educated here, and the Rev. Marvin M. O'Connor, whose brother, Crescent P. O'Connor, lives at 8049 Maryland avenue. Bishop Murphy is director of the Jesuit vicariate-mission in British Honduras, under the jurisdiction of the Missouri province of the Jesuit society. The Missouri province has headquarters at St. Louis and includes Wisconsin in its jurisdiction.

Bishop Murphy is well known in Chicago and Milwaukee. He was formerly vice president and dean of the college of liberal arts at Marquette university. He made annual visits here and to Milwaukee. Father O'Connor has been at Belize for the last five years. He has relatives and many friends here.

Parents Live at Superior.

Father Rooney, one of the dead, was 40 years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rooney of Superior, Wis. He was a brother also of the Rev. Richard Rooney, pastor of the Catholic church at Florissant, Mo. He studied at Superior and later at the Jesuit school at St. Mary's, Kas. He was ordained ten years ago and except for occasional visits home, lived since then in Honduras.

Scholastic Smith was the son of Mrs. James F. Smith of Racine. He visited home only last June just before leaving for Belize, where he expected to remain several years. He formerly attended at the University of Wisconsin, but terminated his studies there to enter the University of St. Louis for Jesuit training.

Other Priests Assumed Safe.

Officials of Loyola university late last night awaited further news from Belize. Earlier Dr. Robert M. Kelley, president of the university, received a message from Bishop Murphy listing the dead members of the mission, and stating that St. John's college was destroyed and that Belize was in ruins.

It was assumed that the mission members not named in the dispatch had escaped unharmed. Among those who is believed to be safe is the Rev. James R. O'Neill, a native of Milwaukee. Relatives of the priest in Milwaukee received a letter from him yesterday advising them he expected to sail from Belize Sept. 11, yesterday.

VIGILANTES MAKE THREAT TO OUST CAPONE ALLIES

An East Chicago, Ind., "citizen's vigilance committee" yesterday threatened to take the law into its own hands unless the authorities ran Capone hoodlums out of town. The threat was contained in a letter received by Attorney General James M. Ogden at Indianapolis.

The matter was referred to Robert Estill, Lake county prosecutor, who announced that he would make an investigation. The letter was anonymous. A list of alleged gambling dens and vice resorts was included in the letter, along with the names of alleged Capone lieutenants.

Chief of Police Nicholas Makar of East Chicago scoffed at the whole affair. "Why there aren't any Capone joints in this town," he said. "And there aren't any places operating through police protection either. Somebody is probably sore at me, and thinks this is a good way to throw me out of my job."

OTHER TROPICAL STORMS WITH BIG LOSSES LISTED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Following are listed some of the previous hurricanes of recent years which have swept over the Caribbean with heavy loss of life:

Sept., 1926—Florida; 400 dead, 2,500 injured.

Oct., 1926—Cuba; 600 dead, 9,000 injured.

Sept., 1928—Porto Rico; 300 dead, 4,150 injured.

Sept., 1928—Florida; 1,150 dead, 2,849 injured.

Barbers of North Side Go Back to 75 Cent Haircuts

The dispute among members of the Master Barbers' association over price reductions ended yesterday when the north side barbers' group voted to return to the old price of 75 cents for a hair cut and 35 cents for a shave. The north side barbers precipitated the price war when they reduced prices to 50 cents for haircuts and 25 cents for shaves.

ONE DEAD, 34 HURT IN CRASH

Coal Creek, Tenn., Sept. 11.—(AP)—James Norman, a school teacher, was killed and 34 Briceville school children and teachers were injured, several seriously, in a school bus accident a mile south of here today.

U. S. LEGION BAND HAS ITS TROUBLES ON FRENCH VISIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 11.—While the labor ministry was still stubbornly maintaining its position that the American Legion band of the George Mealy post, Conasset, Mass., must not be allowed to disembark from the Leviathan at Cherbourg because it had no labor permit, debarkation was smoothly effected at daybreak today through magic worked by a "man high up in the French government."

But on arriving in Paris this afternoon they encountered new trouble when 19 of the 33 bandsmen who had made arrangements for hotel accommodations several weeks in advance, were confronted with the manager's demand for a week's room rent and money for meals in advance, or no rooms and no meals.

Dr. James Sparks, commander of the Paris post legion, was called into the breach. The hotel keeper was adamant until Dr. Sparks, knowing his French hotel managers, finally threatened to move the whole gang, bag and baggage, to another hotel. The manager agreed to take a chance and give the bandsmen food and one night's lodging, but he insisted that he must have one week's expenses in advance tomorrow. The latest reports are that the 19 bandsmen will hunt for new quarters tomorrow.

Hold Up Brewing Company Treasurer and Take $1,287

Two bandits waylaid Robert G. Drda, treasurer of the Atlas Brewing company, 2107 Blue Island avenue, and Raymond Zezulka, an employé of the concern, near the Kaspar-American State bank at 1900 Blue Island avenue yesterday and robbed them of $1,287. The bandits ignored a package which Drda carried, containing $10,000 in checks.

"PUBLIC CHARGE" ACT CUTS DOWN NUMBER OF ALIENS ADMITTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Enforcement of the "likely to become a public charge" provision of the immigration act by American consular officers as a means of preventing aliens from coming to this country during the present unemployment situation, has resulted in a big decline in the number of Canadian aliens entering the United States, the state department announced today.

Consular officers are empowered by the state department to use their own discretion as to whether an applicant for an immigration visa is likely to become a public charge, and therefore to be excluded from this country.

During July, 1930, according to the department, only 673 visas were granted to Canadians, as compared with 4,803 granted during the same month of 1929. During the ten month period in which "the public charge" clause has been enforced, the department pointed out that only 6,298 visas were issued, as compared with 25,764 issued during the same period of the previous year. Enforcement of the "public charge" provision went into effect on Oct. 1, 1930.

JUDGE PUTS BAN ON PICKETING OF MOVIE THEATERS

Grants Independent Owners' Plea.

Judge Marcus Kavanagh of the Superior court issued an injunction late yesterday restraining the Motion Picture Operators' union from picketing, distributing handbills, or otherwise molesting independent theater owners who have been running their houses for almost three weeks with non-union labor.

THEODORE LEVIN.

Attorney Theodore Levin, counsel for the Allied Theater Owners of Illinois, asked the injunction, and supported the request with a bill which included fifteen affidavits from owners and managers stating that a series of near terroristic activities have been directed against them since the non-union operators were brought from New York by airplane to open the closed theaters.

Theater Owners' Charges.

Speeches have been made, the bill charged, in which some of the 80 reopened theaters have been described as dangerous, and constant picketing—both in automobiles and on foot—has been employed. The New York operators have been licensed by the city and are being paid salaries lower than the $90 to $175 weekly scale the union operators were receiving.

The latest attempt to molest one of the theaters—the throwing of a stench bomb in the Jackson Park theater, 6711 Stony Island avenue, Thursday night—seemed for a time yesterday to promise a solution of the murder of Jacob Kaufman, a movie operator who was slain in June.

Viewed by Witnesses.

One man arrested for the bombing, Arthur Donovan, 28 years old, 1210 West 79th street, was taken to the state's attorney's office, where Assistant Prosecutors C. E. Lounsbury and Charles Bellow summoned witnesses to the killing in an effort to identify Donovan. They were not able to do so, it was announced, but Donovan was taken before the grand jury, where he refused to answer questions. He was reported named in a true bill charging him with malicious mischief in connection with the throwing of the bomb. It was reported his bond was set at $20,000.

Donovan was arrested in the theater by Policeman F. K. Johnson when he arose from his seat just as the air became filled with the odor of the stench bomb. He was taken to the Woodlawn police station, where Thomas E. Maloy, indicted business agent of the union, tried to see him. Maloy's request was refused.

Robbers Bind and Gag Woman in Her Apartment

Mrs. G. L. Bodie, 26 years old, was seized by two men when she returned to her home at 7321 South Shore drive yesterday afternoon, bound hand and foot, gagged and tossed on to a bed. The men, who were in the house when she returned, then took her $600 diamond ring and ransacked the apartment. Mrs. Bodie freed herself after the pair had fled. She is the wife of an official of the Bodie-Hoover Petroleum corporation, 1101 West 37th street.

BUSINESS BUREAU FINDS AUTO LOAN SHARKS ACTIVE

Public Warned Against Unlicensed Lenders.

The loan shark who advances small sums on wage assignments and exacts 240 per cent interest is not the only type operating in Chicago, according to the Better Business Bureau, which says this city is the most delinquent in the United States in the stopping of usurious practices.

There is the automobile loan shark, who makes loans with which to repossess cars that have been taken over in default of installment payments, charges usurious rates of interest, acquires possession of the car and then collects on a judgment note. There are many legitimate, licensed automobile loan companies, say the Better Business Bureau, officials, but there are others, unlicensed to do business, who exact usurious rates of interest.

A Case Now in Court.

A case in which such a money lender allegedly sought to collect $329.72 interest on a loan of $403.78 and failed to turn over the car after the first installment of the loan had been paid is pending in the Municipal court.

A note for $733.50, signed by Charles F. Stoddard and guaranteed by Hugo Heller, was given to J. F. Shapiro, 100 North La Salle street, doing business as the American Auto Investment company. Of this amount, $240 was to be used to pay the balance due on Stoddard's automobile and $163.78 was to have represented a loan, making the total advanced by Shapiro $403.78. The $733.50 note was to have been paid in twelve monthly installments of $61.15.

In consideration for the note, Stoddard and Heller were to acquire immediate possession of the automobile. But Shapiro is alleged to have informed Heller that he could not turn over the car, on advice of his "finance committee."

Allege Auto Sold for $304.

Heller then stopped payments on the note, and confessed judgment was executed by the money lender. The automobile was allegedly sold for $304 despite the claim of the borrower that he had a purchaser ready to pay $800 for it.

Shapiro admitted that the borrowers did not owe him the face value of the note, but claimed $503 after deducting the sale price of the automobile and adding attorney's and other fees.

Heller filed a petition in the municipal court to vacate the judgment, charging usury, fraud and circumvention, and a counter claim for $2,000, of which $500 is claimed for the alleged loss in the sale price of the car and $1,500 for damages and other losses, including charges for renting an automobile for business purposes.

Judge Hears Plaintiffs.

Judge Frank M. Padden allowed leave for Stoddard and Heller to appear and defend their claims and to file an affidavit of merits. Attorneys Ben Aronin and John H. Ehardt contended that a judgment by default could not be vacated after the expiration of thirty days, but Attorney Leonard J. Grossman replied that such a petition was in the nature of a bill in equity.

Citations were produced showing that a judge can vacate a judgment by default at any time if it is shown that some fact which would have precluded the entry of judgment was withheld from the court. Then it was contended that Shapiro could only receive the principal involved, the Illinois statutes providing that usury works a forfeiture of all interest.

The case has been transferred to Judge Donald F. McKinlay and is to be set down for a trial on its merits Tuesday.

Robber Flees from Crowd in Sheridan Road; Caught

William Hanley, 27 years old, 2616 North Clark street, an unemployed bell boy, was arrested last night after a brief chase in Sheridan road in which more than a score of men participated. Hanley, after eating a dinner in Sally's restaurant at 4650 Sheridan road, walked up to the cashier, Miss Jewell Hutcheson, 4652 Sheridan road, and told her he was a robber. He reached into the till, took $8, and fled, pursued by other diners. The chase ended when Hanley ran into the arms of Policeman Louis Miller, who was off duty.

Wife Confesses Fatal Stabbing of Her Mate

Mrs. Nora Hogan, 36 years old, confessed to the police last night that she had fatally stabbed her husband, James Hogan, a printer. Hogan was found in their home at 1611 North Irving avenue early yesterday, suffering from a knife wound in the leg. He died from loss of blood in the County hospital. Mrs. Hogan at first denied the stabbing. Afterwards she told Capt. Charles McGurn she had stabbed her husband after he had struck her. The stabbing occurred shortly after the Hogans returned home from a speakeasy.

Sues Her Parents-in-Law for $150,000 Damages

Mrs. Mildred C. Waterman, 7822 South Green street, yesterday filed the praecipe of a suit for $150,000 in the Superior court against her father-in-law and mother-inlaw, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Waterman, 7849 Eggleston avenue. Attorney Justin G. Turner said the suit was for alienation of affections.

YOUTH KILLED AS MOTORCYCLE UPSETS AUTO

Chester Ciszewiski, 17 years old, 3650 Colfax avenue, was fatally injured and a friend, Joseph Banaszewski, 17 years old, 3550 Colfax avenue, sustained possibly fatal injuries yesterday when their motorcycle, traveling at a high rate of speed, smashed into and overturned a small sedan at 85th street and Kingston avenue. The automobile was driven by Roman Luczak, 23 years old, 3331 Colfax avenue.

All three were taken to the South Shore hospital, where Ciszewiski died within an hour. Banaszewski's skull and left leg were fractured. Luczak suffered a broken nose and minor bruises.

JUDGE GIVES HIS SIX CHILDREN A LESSON IN COURT

A graphic lesson in civics and in the proposition that "crime doesn't pay" was given yesterday by Judge J. William Brooks, presiding in the Boys' court. His audience consisted mainly of his six children.

As offenders were arraigned before him, Judge Brooks explained the cases to the children. "It is necessary for them to know the pitfalls that are ahead of them," said the judge. "I think the dangers will be impressed on their minds more effectively in this way than in any other."

Judge Brooks' children are Thomas, 13 years old; J. William Jr., 9; Florence, 7; Alice, 6; Carroll, 5; and Mary Adele, 4.

TROOPS AT TENT CHURCH; PASTOR EXHORTS PEACE

Olive Branch Held Out as Bayonets Gleam.

Jonesboro, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The Rev. Joe Jeffers, Baptist evangelist and center of dissension that has split the ranks of the First Baptist church here, held out the olive branch of peace in opening his sermon tonight, while National Guardsmen with machine guns and fixed bayonets surrounded his tent tabernacle occupied by some 7,000 persons.

Mr. Jeffers asserted "we are gathered here to worship God and we want to tell the people of Jonesboro, the state of Arkansas, and the people of the United States that we are peaceful, law abiding citizens."

Takes Up Collection.

After the preliminary talk, the collection baskets were passed and Mr. Jeffers exhorted the people to give liberally, explaining that last night only $79 was taken in.

He also announced that the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister of Fort Worth, Tex., would come here Sept. 22. Norris is editor of the Fundamentalist, Baptist publication which allegedly published an article regarding the Rev. D. H. Heard, pastor of the First Baptist church here, whom Jeffers has assailed.

Guardsmen were on duty around the tent tabernacle to take up visible guns, but no guns were seen. No one was searched.

Mayor Issues Statement.

Mayor H. J. Bosler made the following statement tonight:

"Col. Garrett [Lieut. Col. C. S. Garrett, assistant adjutant general of the Arkansas Guard] is in charge of troops patrolling the tent area and the troops are in complete charge of that district.

"Parties who were arrested in a fight at the First Baptist church Wednesday at prayer meeting will be tried in Municipal court Saturday morning.

PLANS TO MAKE EACH COP CURB DIVES ON BEAT

Mayor Aroused Over Dance Hall Case.

Mayor Cermak yesterday was considering an order to the police department that would hold patrolmen traveling beats responsible hereafter for the existence of gambling or other resorts on their beats. In the past the policy of the department has been mainly to hold the captain responsible for law violations in his district.

Under the plan proposed by the mayor the patrolman on whose beat an unreported resort is raided would be subject to a thirty day suspension, if not to trial before the civil service commission. With this threat over the policeman's head the mayor believes that many resorts now unreported would be reported.

The three taxi dance halls which were raided Thursday night by the mayor's new vice and gambling squad operating under Capt. Martin E. Mullen must stay closed Mayor Cermak ordered. One place was found running without an amusement license, and the licenses of the other two have been ordered revoked.

Mayor Orders Inquiry.

"Those places were rotten," Mayor Cermak said. "I have ordered a report on why the patrolman assigned to license inspections in the district where the unlicensed hall was found had not found it and proceeded against it. The assignment of a patrolman in each district to inspect licenses will be stopped, and those men sent back to walking beats."

Mayor Cermak was aroused at a report on the complaint of Mrs. Mary Ruzumski, wife of Dr. Michael Ruzumski, 1225 Montana street, which he received yesterday. She was arrested for a parking violation by a Lincoln park policeman when she stopped her automobile for a moment on the wrong side of a boulevard to let her four children out at a theater entrance, her complaint charged.

Locked Up in Police Station.

She was taken to the Town Hall station, and the desk sergeant there refused to let her communicate with friends to obtain bail, it was charged. She was sent then to the women's annex at the Racine avenue station and locked up for several hours in a cell with a woman who, the mayor was informed, was being held for murder. Mrs. Ruzumski's husband found her there and posted bail.

"A desk sergeant who wouldn't let this woman call her friends or wouldn't keep her automobile as security and release her to find her own bail, ought to be sent to the psychopathic hospital," the mayor said.

An order to all desk sergeants to be cautious in releasing prisoners on bond was sent out last night by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock. He said Judge Robert McMillan had complained to him that in some instances two prisoners had been released on the same bond.

CAFE BANDIT IS SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

Bonham Weeps as He Hears Fate.

Howard C. Bonham, 29 years old, 18 West Ohio street, was sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair for the murder of Paul Tulupan, 39 years old, 5633 North Campbell avenue, who was slain by a gunman in his restaurant on Dec. 13, 1930. Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court, set Oct. 23 as the execution date.

JUDGE JOSEPH BURKE.

A jury found Bonham guilty of the murder on July 14, after deliberating one hour and twenty minutes.

When the sentence was pronounced, Bonham burst into tears, his first display of emotion since his arrest, police said. "I'm innocent," he cried. "There's no blood on my hands, but there will be on those who are responsible for my death."

New Trial is Denied.

Judge Burke had overruled a motion for new trial earlier in the week. At that time he continued sentence until yesterday in order to allow Emory Smith, defense attorney, time in which to present alibi affidavits.

Attorney Smith told the court that witnesses who could establish Bonham's presence at another place during the shooting were not able to appear at present. Judge Burke examined the affidavits before passing sentence.

Identified by Witness.

Bonham was positively identified by one witness as the bandit who shot Tulupan with a sawed off shotgun in the Claridge Hotel grill, 1244 North Dearborn street, then scooped up $35 and fled.

The defendant was seized a week later. He admitted several robberies, but later refused to take the stand for fear his record might prove damaging to his case. Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marovitz conducted the prosecution.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL.

C. N. Catrevas, 68 years old, was found dead, apparently of heart disease, in his room at the Carlos hotel, 8534 Stephen avenue, early yesterday.

City Opens Campaign on Court Writs.

The temporary injunction, that legal decree beloved of gambling house proprietors, was found flourishing in strange surroundings in a survey completed yesterday by Assistant Corporation Counsel Otto F. Weiner.

OTTO F. WEINER.

An amazing number of these orders have been granted in the last five years, Mr. Weiner discovered. His investigation, ordered by Mayor Cermak several months ago, included also the revelation that court records of many injunction proceedings have been removed from the files. Thus the city finds itself hampered in its efforts to dissolve these writs.

An Ornament to Any Den.

The writ of injunction when posted to restrain the police, is a document of cheerful appearance. It is usually printed on bright yellow paper and makes a pleasing ornament to a steel door. With its judge's signature at the bottom and its solemn warning to police against "interference with a peaceful business," it has afforded comfort to many an operator of games of chance. Also it was revealed, many taxi halls are receiving this judicial protection.

With its survey completed, the corporation counsel's office plans to launch a court campaign to dissolve all such restraining orders.

"Temporary injunctions have been granted almost automatically," said Assistant Corporation Counsel Weiner. "But the mayor has ordered me to make every effort to rid the town of them. They are only a legal cloak for the operation of vice and gambling dens. It has been the practice of the courts to grant such temporary writs against the police as a matter of course after hearing only the owner's side of the case."

Taxi Dance Turned Down.

The corporation counsel's office received its first encouragement yesterday when Judge Michael Feinberg refused a temporary injunction to Tony Rossi, proprietor of a taxi dance hall at 1208 East 63d street. The judge indicated that such places could no longer claim the protection of his court on a one sided hearing.

A list of some of the places now operating under injunctions was prepared by the city attorney. It follows:

Edward L. Block's Dancing school, 643 North Clark street, taxi dance, temporary injunction granted by Judge Feinberg, Dec. 3, 1930. Raided Thursday night.

Filipino Welfare association, 642 North Clark street, taxi dance, temporary injunction granted by Judge Denis E. Sullivan, Jan. 30, 1931.

Neighborhood Benefit club, 2238 Roscoe street, gambling, temporary injunction denied in February, 1930, by Judge William J. Lindsay, who verbally ordered police not to interfere until final disposition of case. Proceedings pending since then.

Semrab Social and Athletic club, 4745 North Kedzie avenue, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Feinberg, March 21, 1929. A gambling house at this address was raided last night by a squad attached to Capt. Martin Mullen's vice and gambling detail. Eight men were arrested.

Englehart's Cigar store, 815 North Cicero avenue, gambling, temporary injunction granted in Circuit court, Oct. 25, 1930. Case still pending.

Club Floridian, 676 West Madison street, taxi dance, temporary injunction granted by Judge Robert E. Gentzel, July 2, 1930. Raided Thursday night.

Van Buren Woman's Social club, 2222 West Van Buren street, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Lindsay, June 15, 1931.

Farquharson's carnival, operating in various parts of the city, gambling, temporary injunction granted Sept. 1, 1930, by Judge Lindsay.

Ashland Woman's club, 6518 South Ashland avenue, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Lindsay, Oct. 30, 1930.

D. J. Brennan's Dancing school, 5755 South State street, taxi dance, application for injunction pending in Superior court.

Chicago Manhattan club, 2418 West North avenue, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Feinberg, April 3, 1931.

Farmleaf Social club, 4039 North Cicero avenue, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Denis E. Sullivan, Aug. 3, 1931.

A. J. Mancin Social and Athletic club, 1923 West Van Buren street, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Lindsay, June 22, 1931.

Falls Social club, 4215 Milwaukee avenue, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Lindsay, July 21, 1931.

Aquarium Social club, 514 Diversey parkway, gambling, temporary injunction granted by Judge Joseph Burke, Sept. 12, 1931. Raided several days ago.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Weiner pointed out that in two cases the former city administration had allowed so much time to elapse that the city had lost its right to attack the injunctions by ordinary legal procedure. These injunctions cover the Corker club, 7938 South Halsted street, and the Dorle Social and Athletic club, 3631 Ogden avenue. Gambling flourishes in both places, according to Mr. Weiner.

The assistant corporation counsel cited other cases. The Arvia Dancing academy, 6154 Cottage Grove avenue, is one of the worst taxi dance halls in Chicago, he declared. Hattie Slad, the proprietess, has a petition for an injunction pending before Judge Ross Hall.

Mayor Cermak recently revoked the license issued to the Ritz, café, 343 East Garfield boulevard, a black and tan cabaret. Arthur Brown, proprietor, has a petition for a temporary injunction which will be heard by Judge Otto Kerner next Tuesday.

GEN. PERSHING HERE ON WAY WEST FOR HIS 71ST BIRTHDAY

Passengers paused to watch this man of medium height with the gray mustache and whitening hair. He swung a cane. They recognized him immediately as Gen. John J. Pershing, former commander in chief of the A. E. F. The general was met by a reception committee of American Legion officials and Greeter Gaw.

Gen. Pershing was on his way to Lincoln, Neb., on a purely personal errand.

"I'm going to spend my birthday with my son, Warren, and my sister," he said.

Gen. Pershing will be 71 years old tomorrow. Almost as important to his way of thinking is another anniversary falling on the same day. It is the thirteenth anniversary of the battle of St. Mihiel, when the American troops, fighting their first time as a separate army, delivered a heavy blow at the Germans.

EXONERATE TWO BERWYN COPS IN BRUTALITY CASE

Policemen Frank J. Svec and Charles Truska of Berwyn were exonerated last night of brutality charges by the Berwyn board of police and fire commissioners. The finding praised the policemen for their efficiency.

The "third degree" charge was preferred by Raymond Grant, 414 South Irving avenue, who alleged that the policemen had beaten him and his companions, Bee Davis and Ernest Gage, on Jan. 19 in obtaining a confession from them that they planned to assault Joseph A. Derrig, 1533 South Maple avenue, Berwyn, superintendent of the American Automatic Devices company.

Their confession related that they had been bribed to beat Derrig by John Werlick, business agent of the Metal Polishers' union, local 6, for $150. Derrig had incurred the enmity of Werlick.

The accused policemen testified that Grant attempted to dispose of a revolver when arrested. Derrig testified that no violence had been used in obtaining the confession.

CUBA DEPORTS 4 AMERICANS FOR HELPING REBELS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Sept. 11.—Four Americans, Arthur Walter, George Fraser, Isodoro Miller and James Russell, were deported today by the Cuban government on charges of having been connected with the recent revolutionary movement.

The four arrived in Cuba during the tense days of the insurrection, motoring to Camaguey, where they were arrested and held on account of being unable to give a satisfactory explanation of their presence in this country. It is reported that nothing definite could be proved as to their relations with rebels, but the circumstances were such as to lead the authorities to believe they were headed for Cibara, where the only large filibuster expedition from the United States landed.

Gunmen Hold Up Three in Air Line Office; Get $60

Two gunmen entered the office of the Continental Airways at 5032 West 63d street last night, terrorized the ticket agent, Donald Cunningham; John Bastin, a watchman, and the dispatcher, Albert Cossey, and escaped with a tin box containing $60. The robbers drove away in an automobile.

CUT IN TONNAGE FOR LEVIATHAN WILL SAVE FEES

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Presumably to save port dues in New York and Southampton the Leviathan of the United States Lines has been remeasured by the admeasurer of the custom house. First reports received by the commission of navigation in Washington have revealed that there will be a decrease of about 10,000 in gross and net tonnage.

With port dues at 30 cents a net ton a year, $3,000 a year will be saved on the Leviathan entering New York. The saving in Southampton will be $1,200.

The gross tonnage of the Leviathan in Lloyd's register of shipping for 1931 is 59,957 tons and the net is 27,696 tons, so that the reduction of her tonnage by 10,000 will bring it down to 49,957 gross and 17,696 net, ending the controversy over her size as compared with that of the Majestic, which has a gross tonnage of 56,621.

Governor Refuses Prison Parole to Martin Durkin

Gov. Emmerson refused yesterday at Springfield to grant a parole to Martin J. Durkin, who is serving a thirty-five year term in the Joliet penitentiary for the murder in 1925 of E. C. Shanahan, an agent of the United States department of justice. The governor also refused clemency in twenty-two other cases, five of them being those of prisoners sentenced to the penitentiary from Chicago.

ROTARIAN SCUTTLED; DIVER FINDS GAPING HOLES IN OLD BOAT

A diver wading around in the river bed ooze at the Clark street bridge and scraping the incrustations from the warped hull of the old Rotarian yesterday solved the mystery which for the last year has hung over the sinking of the ancient craft. He learned that the boat had been scuttled.

Gaping sea cocks open to the muddy river told the story of how, but not why, the former home of the Cook county Democracy club and chop and fish house of Walter Powers, brother of the late alderman, became a menace to river navigation and a thorn in the side of a former administration.

After being jacked up a final ten inches preparatory to the starting of pumps capable of throwing six thousand gallons of water per minute, a diver was sent down to search for leaks. He found the two seacocks, each nine feet by two feet, had been knocked out.

John Murphy, the last of a series of salvage contractors, and the first to approach a successful conclusion, stated that the boat will be afloat and ready for towing by tomorrow.

BALANCE BUDGET, MARSHALL FIELD HEAD WARNS U. S.

Simpson Cites Britain as Example.

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam is going into bankruptcy eventually unless he proceeds forthright to get "within his budget" and stay there, James Simpson, chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago, warned upon his return home from Europe aboard the Berengaria today. Mr. Simpson has been in Scotland for the last month or so grouse shooting.

JAMES SIMPSON.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Simpson, their two sons, William and John, and William Watts, a school chum of the boys.

The Chicago merchant said he felt very strongly that America could find a very helpful lesson in the way in which the political parties of England have put aside their prejudices of hundreds of years and joined hands to form a coalition government to deal with the present economic emergency confronting the nation. Their action showed, he said, that they were willing to put the interests of the public above politics.

Encouraged by British.

"The best indication toward improvement in world economics I have seen in two years—and there has been little—is this action of the British government in adopting such heroic measures to balance its budget," said Mr. Simpson. "The costs of the government of England just had to come down. They have to come down in this country.

"The expense of our government is too great a burden on the people. We should adopt a program of 'pay-as-you-go' and slice down every expenditure, and keep on slicing it down whether of armament or pensions, until we are again without our budget. Unless we do this each year, the deficit will grow greater until inevitably we will fall into bankruptcy.

Need Heroic Measures.

"The English action takes a heroic course. It has arisen above cheap party politics. While it is a terrific tax, 25 per cent of one's income, don't forget that while the little man has to pay, the burden falls upon those who are best able to pay; yet all in proportion. That is where it is right and just. Only a united people could do a thing like that. In time of war, we of America do things like that. Politics block too much in times of peace. This is an emergency as grave as war and there should be no politics in meeting it."

Mr. Simpson said he leased Guthrie castle on Drumtochity moors for his grouse shooting vacation. He spent a week in London before embarking for home.

Curley Gives 20 Per Cent of Pay to Boston Jobless

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Mayor Curley announced today that he would donate 20 per cent of his salary of $20,000 per year to the unemployment relief fund of the public welfare department.

ITALIAN BANK SHY $170,000; 3 IN CUSTODY

Wife, 2 Sons of Missing President Held.

Mrs. Minnie Ariani, cashier of the closed First Italian State bank, at 1201 Taylor street, and two of her sons, who occupied minor positions in the institution, were in custody of the state's attorney's police last night.

Still missing, however, were Savario Ariani, husband of the cashier and president of the bank, and a sum believed to be in excess of $170,000. The bank is owned by the Arianis, an Italian family, and most of the depositors are residents in the west side Italian colony. An examination of the bank's vaults during the day resulted in the finding of only $9,800 instead of the $160,222 the records showed as held there. Most of the $9,800 was in silver and $1 bills.

Believe Ariani Has Money.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers and representatives of State Auditor Nelson's office believe that Ariani has with him the missing $150,000 taken from the vaults and an additional $23,000 he cashed in two cashier's checks drawn on the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company on Sept. 5 and Sept. 7.

Mrs. Ariani, who says she was merely a figurehead as cashier of the institution, which was closed on Wednesday, was taken into custody, with her 18 year old son, Romolo, in the Lakeshire hotel, at 4126 Clarendon avenue, by Sergt. George Williams of the state's attorney's forces. They had registered there under the name of Jordan.

In graphic terms last night Mrs. Ariani told of the terror that had gripped the entire family when it became apparent to them on Tuesday that the closing would be forced by the state auditor on Wednesday.

Wife's Story of Fear.

"We had a conference," she said. "All of us were there—my husband, the four boys, and my daughter. My husband was desperate, not because he was to blame, but because he was scared we would all be killed by the angry depositors.

"He told us: 'All of you get out of town tonight. They'll kill us, they'll bomb the bank and our home, they'll stab us in the streets, and shoot us down wherever they see us. When you are all gone and safe I will go on Wednesday to the state auditor and tell him all that I know.'

"I haven't seen him since then. I don't know where he is. What happened in the bank I don't know, but he was innocent of anything wrong and if any money is still where he can get it Savario will give it up."

The Family Separates.

After the conference the members of the family separated, leaving their $40,000 home at 246 South Marion street, Oak Park. Nothing was heard from any of them on Wednesday when the state auditor's examiners made a quick search of the bank records. But on Thursday, after Auditor Nelson had threatened to blow open the vaults of the bank, Carlo Ariani, son of the president and the cashier, called the auditor's office and gave the safe combination.

He was persuaded that it was his duty to surrender for questioning yesterday. When he appeared he was taken to the bank. Prosecutor Ayres was requested to be present and handle any criminal matters that might be brought to light. Under questioning during the day young Ariani disclosed information that caused the investigators to summon Margaret Cozzi and Vincent Scafa, employés of the bank. They were questioned, also, but were released last night. The mother and her two sons were kept in custody in a hotel.

Another who was held for a short time and released was Anthony Caliguri, brother-in-law of the missing banker.

Open Deposit Box Today.

Today Auditor Nelson plans to open a safety deposit box in the First National bank, where Ariani's institution is reported to have placed securities with a face value of $800,000. On the showing made there depends, to a large extent, officials, said, the return that will be made to the depositors of the First Italian State, which had deposits at the last report of $888,000.

For their benefit, too, there will be the missing $173,000, if it can be found, and the property of the missing president. Besides the home, he owned the bank building. Both places were under police guard last night, Ariani having confided his fears of bombing to the state auditor as well as to his family.

This guard is to be maintained until fear of direct action for revenge by depositors is eliminated. Carlo Ariani told the investigators that the patrons of the institution were "of an excitable temperament and might resort to violence."

Summoned by Waukegan Jury.

At Waukegan yesterday State's Attorney A. V. Smith ordered a subpoena issued for C. P. Peach, who was a bookkeeper for the National Bank of the Republic, to appear next Monday before the Lake county grand jury which is investigating the affairs of the closed Waukegan State bank. Peach will be asked to outline dealings between the Waukegan bank and the National Bank of the Republic, which is now merged in the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

Others to be summoned as witnesses include Lucius Teter, Gustave Fisher, William Miller, all of whom were connected with the National Bank of the Republic, and Samuel Hastings, who was a director of the Waukegan State bank.

J. R. FORGAN HEADS BENEFIT DIVISION OF RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Another unit was created yesterday in the organization to obtain $8,800,000 for the relief of the unemployed and distressed families this winter. This division will raise funds through charity benefits, such as sports, theatricals and dances.

J. Russell Forgan of the investment house of Field, Glore & Co. was made chairman. As chief assistants he selected Stephen Y. Hord of Lee Higginson & Co., as vice chairman, and Frederick J. Ashley, publicity director of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"Other members of the committee will be announced in a few days," said Mr. Forgan. "We plan to sponsor athletic events, social affairs, amusements and other forms of benefits, and believe that considerable money can be obtained in this way. The Cubs-Sox baseball game indicates what can be accomplished along the line of work assigned to this committee."

BANK PLAN GOES AHEAD

Progress in the organization of the proposed new Park National Bank and Trust company, successor to the defunct Washington Park National bank, Cottage Grove avenue and 63d street, was announced yesterday by W. H. Vanderploeg, former president of the closed bank. Of a total of $600,000 of stock necessary for the reorganization, he said, $300,000 has been subscribed.

The deposit liabilities of the closed bank are approximately $7,000,000. If the reorganization is successful the plan is to make immediate payment at once of 70 per cent of the depositors' claims. No payment is to be made until the plan succeeds or fails. R. B. McCandless, receiver, has announced. If the plan fails, the receiver is to make immediate distribution of the cash on hand and follow with further payments.

Receiving New Subscriptions.

"Representatives of the organization committee are at the bank daily receiving subscriptions for new stock," Mr. Vanderploeg said. "The depositors are asked to subscribe approximately 10 per cent of their deposits in the old bank to the new institution.

"This will be taken out of their deposits; they need not put up additional money. Depositors are supporting the plan. We feel the plan will be a success with their aid."

Grants Depositors' Petition.

Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh yesterday granted 800 depositors in the defunct Armitage State bank, 3400 Armitage avenue, one of the chain of 12 closed Bain banks, the right to file an intervening petition in the receivership proceedings pending before him. The order allows the depositors the right to be party to all court proceedings.

Attorney Irving S. Abrams, representing the depositors, said they should be accorded the right to participate in the proceedings as they are vitally interested in the expenses of receivership and the distribution of assets. Attorney Dudley Jessup of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green and Martin objected to the petition on the ground that the court proceedings are mere routine and depositors need not be represented. The petition is the first of its kind granted depositors of recently closed banks.

ATTORNEY DIES IN OFFICE.

Harry Irwin Cromer, patent attorney, dropped dead of a heart attack yesterday in his office in the Monadnock block, 53 West Jackson boulevard. He lived at 124 Wesley avenue, Oak Park. He was 65 years old.

LABORITES ROW IN COMMONS OVER 'DICTATOR' PLAN

MacDonald Puts Airship Up for Sale.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Dictatorial powers were demanded from parliament by the emergency national government today during the second reading of the economies bill. The object of this bill, which was introduced Wednesday and passed its first reading on that day, is to "authorize the making of economies by order in council." This will enable the government to enact its reform program by decree.

Prime Minister MacDonald opened today's debate with a justification of the measure. He encountered considerable difficulty in making his speech, since the Laborites kept up a continual chorus of accusations against the bankers. Fenner Brockway declared that Mr. MacDonald is premier in name only. He was loudly cheered and jeered from both sides of the house when he added that the real head of the government is the governor of the Bank of England.

A Peace Time Precedent.

Resort to orders in council would set a peace time precedent, and John R. Clynes, former Labor home secretary, warned the house that the Socialists would not forget this expedient when they come into power.

Mr. MacDonald in his speech declared there is no time to talk. All the economies planned by the government, he said, must be effected simultaneously and immediately. Orders in council, which would be allowed for a month under the terms of the bill, would have the same affect as acts of parliament, he insisted, since laws so decreed could be repealed only by acts of parliament.

Says He Speaks for Labor.

Mr. MacDonald declared that in urging many of the budget economies he was speaking for the Labor party. Immediately interrupted by turmoil from the opposition benches, the premier wheeled and, facing his former colleagues, declared:

"They can take the label from my back, but they cannot take the label from my mind."

Mr. MacDonald revealed in his speech that there is now a second hand airship for sale in Great Britain. The government has decided to dispose of the R-100, companion craft of the ill fated R-101, and to reduce the staff of the airship works at Cardington to bare necessities to care for the buildings.

Laborites Fight Among Selves.

Mr. Clynes replied to Mr. MacDonald for the opposition. He was stopped twice by outbreaks among his own followers. W. J. Brown, rebellious secretary of the civil servants' union, insisted on obtaining the floor, which Mr. Clynes refused to relinquish. The speaker advised the quarreling Laborites to settle their dispute outside.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, concluded for the government with the assertion that $280,00,000 of the total of $850,000,000 in economies planned by the emergency government had been approved by the Labor government before Arthur Henderson, former foreign secretary, led the revolt and caused the resignation of the Labor régime.

The effect of the economy budget on the stock markets today was slight. The budget imposes no greater hardships than the nation had expected, and the markets were comparatively cheerful in the face of the increased taxation.

Securities Stage Recovery.

The British government securities section was principally affected. After opening weakly, with falls of about a half point, practically all government securities staged a strong recovery and showed advances of from one-fourth to five-eighths on the balance.

Influential support developed, evidently in connection with preparations for a new conversion loan. The luxury taxation scarcely affected tobacco shares, but breweries' stocks weakened and oil shares became dull because of the increased gasoline tax. The iron and steel group was easier because of profit taking.

GIRL, NATIVE OF LATVIA, FINDS SHE HAS NO COUNTRY

Miss Yelena Serge Pavlinova of 3413 East 60th street yesterday learned that she was a girl without a country and likely to remain so.

Inquiring of Shirley D. Smith, district director of immigration, Miss Pavlinova was informed that she could not become a citizen of the United States because she had not entered the country with a permanent passport. She cannot be deported, however, as there is no country to which she can be deported.

Miss Pavlinova last spring was a graduate student in the University of Chicago, studying for a doctor's degree.

She explained that she was born in Latvia when it was a part of Russia. After the war, when it became a republic, she was in Turkey and therefore unable to establish Latvian citizenship. She was refused Russian citizenship because she was born in Latvia. She finally came to the United States on a temporary student's passport, which soon will expire.

Mr. Smith said that the authorities were not eager to remove her because she was a desirable citizen—although she could not be a citizen.

Judge Imposes Fine in "Drag" Star Test Case

In a test case to determine the constitutionality of the city ordinance against "I Gotta Drag" stars on automobiles, Municipal Judge Alfar Eberhardt yesterday imposed a $5 fine on Trygve Svendson, 33 East 113th street. The defense was given 60 days in which to appeal and Svendson was released on $200 bond. The ordinance forbidding the stars was adopted by the city council on June 10. A petition for an injunction to restrain the city from enforcing the ordinance was denied Aug. 28 by Circuit Judge Daniel F. Trude.

GANDHI BALKS AT DOMINION STATUS FOR MOTHER INDIA

Wants Independence or Nothing.

a result of the Indian boycott of British cloth.

Before returning to India Gandhi will see Romain Rolland, famous French man of letters, in Switzerland, and he may, perhaps, visit Rome.

"I am not going to America," he said. "I would like to, but it is not proper at this time."

Gandhi also reiterated that he would not renew his civil disobedience campaign in any case before the end of the London conference.

Sea Trip Improves Health.

Gandhi looked much better than when I saw him six weeks ago in India. He said the sea trip had greatly improved his health.

When the boat swung backward into the dock at dawn this morning, Gandhi was standing by himself on the upper deck. Factory whistles blew a note of welcome. Gandhi liked it and smiled.

He was accompanied by a good sized party, who helped to carry off his baggage. There was not much—a couple of spinning wheels, a few changes of loin cloths, mattresses, blankets, cans of goats' milk, and utensils from which he eats his meager food. He wore just a little more than the traditonal loin cloth. It was the ordinary Hundi Dhoti—a piece of cloth wrapped around his legs. Ordinarily he only wraps it around the upper portion of his legs, but today it was chilly and he covered his limbs to the ankles.

Accompanied by High Priest.

With Gandhi was Pandit Maliviya, high priest of the Brahmins, a fine looking old man who brought along many jugs of holy water from the Ganges to keep himself purified from the contaminations of old Europe. He is 70 years of age and one of the most learned men of the east. It was his first trip to Europe and he seemed a bit baffled at the bustle of Marseilles. Like Gandhi, he spent last year behind the bars.

Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, the flashing, witty Indian poetess, was there, too. She occupied a de luxe cabin aboard the ship. She still looked a bit worn from her long jail experience last year. Gandhi beamed on her approvingly, for she is one of the bright stars in his all-India congress cabinet. She is an independent delegate to the round table conference, but she will follow Gandhi implicitly.

"When the conference is over I am going to America, unless the British jail me first," she said. "And I am not going to lecture on poetry."

Admiral's Daughter There, Too.

Strangest of all the weird troupe was Madeline Slade, or "Mirabai," as she is known in India, daughter of the late Admiral Sir Edmond Slade, former society girl, and now Gandhi's personal assistant.

Tall, gaunt, freckled, and masculine, with her hair shaved off, she was attired in a coarse homespun sari. She looked like a ghost. She was sad and not particularly pleased to be back in Europe.

"No, I am not thrilled to be back. I have been away six years now, six happy years, and I have no desire to return," Miss Slade said. "My past life is dead and buried and let it be. I came back only because Gandhi brought me. It is the last time."

Mirabai said she would visit her mother, Lady Slade, and then Romain Rolland. It was the latter who first advised her to go to India to join Gandhi.

Also accompanying Gandhi is Dr. Jivarj Mehta, dean of the King Edward Memorial hospital in Bombay, who acts as the mahatma's medical adviser.

Prince Also Aboard.

Also on the boat was the Nawab of Bhopal, chancellor of the chamber of princes and a cordial friend of Gandhi. Nobody noticed him in the struggle to see the holy man. In the east he is one of the greatest potentates.

The first move on the part of certain British interests to prevent Gandhi stealing their show in London was when newspaper men were excluded from riding on Gandhi's boat train.

Twenty-five correspondents requested accommodations and were refused, but one or two managed by hook or crook to board the train anyway.

A prominent ship's officer said Lord Inchape, who controls the Peninsula and Oriental line and who has amassed a great fortune in Indian trade, personally ordered that no outsiders would be allowed to board the train. Outsiders today meant newspaper men. Lord Inchape personally is said to be a bitter enemy of Gandhi and the Nationalist movement.

GANDHI DECLARES HIS 'POOR REPUTATION' AT FRENCH CUSTOMS

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 11.—(AP)—When Mahatma Gandhi landed on French soil here today he was asked by a customs inspector to declare the items he was bringing into the country. The holy man replied:

"I am a poor mendicant. All my earthly posessions consist of these spinning wheels, some dishes, a can of goat's milk, six homespun loin cloths, a towel, and my reputation, which can't be worth much."

"Have you any cigarets, cigars, alcohol, firearms, or narcotics?" the inspector asked.

"O, no. I neither smoke nor drink." the mahatma replied. "Besides, being an advocate of nonviolence, I never carry firearms."

A British journalist asked Gandhi whether he would be ashamed to go about the streets of London and to appear before King George wearing only his loin cloth.

"Well, in England you wear plus-fours, while I prefer to wear minus-fours," the mahatma replied.

Democratic Chiefs to Work Together.

Predicted peace among the Democratic chiefs apparently became an established fact yesterday when Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, who has been urged to run for the governorship nomination, made a friendly call at Mayor Cermak's office.

At the conclusion of their interview each said the talk had been entirely friendly and implied that they will sit in together with representatives of other sections of the state when the time comes to draw up the organization slate.

Party Is Reassured.

During the state fair there were fears that the accord in the party was about to be disrupted by governorship activities of Igoe partisans. Igoe was then in Europe. The danger was eliminated by Cermak's attitude that it was too early to talk candidacies and Igoe's visit to him upon his first opportunity since his return from abroad was considered reassuring by friends of both.

Another ardent anti-prohibitionist candidate for congress has appeared on the west side. Irwin R. Hazen, former municipal judge and former alderman, announced his candidacy in the new Twelfth district.

"I pledge the voters of the district," he said in his announcement, "that I will loyally support and vote for a change in the 18th amendment legalizing the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines with proper restrictions against the return of the saloon.

Would Abolish Speakeasies.

"I will vote for any law changing the 18th amendment with proper regulations for the sale, manufacture and transportation of alcoholic beverages so that speakeasies will be closed and the profit taken out of the illicit liquor traffic with its attendant crime and corruption, 'to the end that law in America may again reflect public opinion and respect and deserve obedience from all good citizens.'"

Mr. Hazen also pledged that he would vote against any form of dole and for a program of necessary public construction to relieve unemployment.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The week's best dole story was told in Birmingham court today when a man, who was summoned regarding his wife's separation order, was alleged to have $15,000 invested and to have been drawing the dole since January.

The man, a Welshman, admitted he lived in his own house and drew $6.50 dole weekly. He also admitted that his two sons each brought home $5 weekly, and another son a $4.25 dole weekly; that he owned another house, six gilt edged investments, and had cash in the savings banks.

His wife accepted his offer of $6.75 a week during the separation and it was argued he was still entitled to draw the dole.

MIDWEST AND EAST SWELTER IN HEAT WAVE

Lake Gives Chicago Some Relief.

A Christmas Reminder

The railroads yesterday announced a Christmas holiday rate of a fare and a third for round trip tickets from California, Arizona and Nevada to Chicago and the Atlantic coast.

Beneath a baking sun and hot winds, Chicago and the central and eastern portions of the country continued to swelter in the unusual autumn heat wave yesterday. Temperatures were above 100 degrees in several cities. Chicago was cooled somewhat by a lake wind.

In Chicago the official government thermometer mounted to a peak of 91 degrees at 1 p. m. Then a southwest breeze blowing in from the lake started the mercury to sliding. By 4 p. m. the temperature had dropped to 87.

New England Swelters.

The hot weather extended into the New England states, with Portland, Me., reporting 92 degrees, the highest temperature for Sept. 11 in 50 years. In New York the mercury climbed to 94, setting a record for the date and for 1930. Six heat deaths were reported in Wisconsin, and there were three heat fatalities in Toronto.

Temperatures around the 100 mark were reported in many places in the central states. Moorhead, Minn., and Huron, S. D., reported 100, and at St. Paul the maximum was 95. The mercury reached 98 at Oshkosh, Wis. In Madison, Wis.; Omaha, Neb., and Winona, Minn., the schools were closed on account of the heat. Peoria and Springfield reported readings of 96. At Aurora a temperature of 96 was two degrees above the previous September record.

Heat to Continue Today.

Forecaster W. P. Day predicted continued warm and fair weather here today, with slightly lower temperatures tomorrow.

Beaches and parks were thronged with persons seeking to escape the heat. Supt. John J. Meyers of the Navy pier announced that the pier would be open all day until midnight to those who wanted to take advantage of the lake breezes there.

Pupil Runs Into Teacher in Hall; She's in Hospital

Stop and go lights may have to be installed in the corridors of the Elgin High school. Miss Nellie E. Purkiss, instructor in social sciences at the school, was knocked down and suffered a fractured knee yesterday when Paul Burlingame, sophomore, ran into her while rushing to get to a classroom on time. Miss Purkiss was taken to the Sherman hospital.

FRANCE INSISTS ARMS PACT MUST STRESS SECURITY

It's the Only Way She Can Make Reductions.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 11.—France remained silent on Italy's proposal that the nations of the world abstain from any increase in armaments until the end of next year's disarmament conference when Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, made his speech before the league of nations' assembly today.

The grizzled foreign minister emphasized France's ardent desire to reduce military forces even further, but he entirely ignored the concrete suggestion of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, to pare military budgets to the bone and abandon all new expenditures pending the results of the international disarmament conference scheduled to open here in February.

Neutrals Back Italian Plan.

The wartime "neutral group," Holland, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, however, rallied sharply behind the Fascist proposal with a definite resolution which they submitted to be the assembly today. It calls on all "governments summoned to the disarmament conference to show their firm will to bring to a conclusion their efforts for peace and reestablishment of mutual confidence by abstaining, until it is concluded, from all measures tending to increase the present level of armaments."

Briand in his speech flatly denied rumors that France wanted to adjourn the disarmament parley.

"If any attempt is made to postpone the opening, France will oppose it," he thundered. "The race in armaments is over—France has reduced her reserves two-thirds, and her army one-half.

At this point, however, Briand reiterated the old French refrain, that security must be provided before France can agree to any further reductions. Establishment of this security, the giving of guarantees which will make war impossible, will be the great work of the disarmament conference, he said.

He said the Kellogg peace pact is a step toward security, since war, formerly legal, is now made a crime.

Then he urged Viscount Cecil, British delegates, to resurrect the Geneva protocol of 1924, which the British government under Prime Minister Baldwin rejected after Ramsay MacDonald's first cabinet had sponsored it.

M. Briand mournfully reminded his listeners that the slogan of last year's assembly, "have no fear; there will be no war," failed to dissipate the hard times, but he insisted that it caused an enormous economic improvement, because it restored confidence temporarily.

He paved the way for his coming visit to Berlin with France's premiere, Pierre Laval, by reminding the assembly that France and Germany for the last five years have been striving to establish effective collaboration. He forecast complete success for the forthcoming Berlin meeting.

He also dignified rumors that a Franco-German rapprochement is inimical to England's traditional policy of balance of power with a denial.

"I protest such slanders," he said. "Britain has always assisted us to live together, has done everything to promote good feeling between Germany and France, and keenly desires them to become the best friends in the world."

54th Wheatland Plowing Contest to Be Held Today

The 54th renewal of the classic contest of the farm, the Wheatland plowing match, will be held today on the John Patterson farm on the Lincoln highway, five miles southwest of Aurora. Homer Lapp of Wheatland, the grand champion of the last three years, will defend his title. He will drive a three horse team. Most of the plowing is now done by tractors, although there are events for both horse and tractor drawn bottoms.

PRINCIPAL URGES MORE MONEY FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Advocates Both Income and Sales Taxes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

"What education in Illinois—particularly in Chicago—needs is not less revenue but more revenue," asserts Aaron Kline, chairman of the finance committee of the Chicago Principals' club.

This is the one sentence put in capital letters of his 1,000 word statement making "suggestions for the financial relief of the Chicago public schools" and presented to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission. The Principals' club is the first organization to advocate higher taxes.

The recommendation comes on the heels of the announcement on Thursday that the governor's commission is unalterably opposed to more taxes, is committed to a reduction in real estate taxes, and is aiming to make that reduction $90,000,000.

Costs Up 314% in 15 Years.

In 1915 the entire cost of conducting the public schools of Chicago was $15,549,248. Last year the expenditures were $56,141,992, and by appropriation the board has authorized the spending of $72,716,078 during 1931.

In the 15 years between 1915 and 1930 Superintendent of Schools Bogan has said that the number of pupils increased 81 per cent, while the cost has increased 314.36 per cent.

Mr. Kline advocates the adoption of both an income tax and a sales tax. He argues in his statment that an income tax would be constitutional because such a tax is operating in Missouri, Arkansas, Georgia and Mississippi, where, he says, the constitutions are similar to that of Illinois. His argument for a sales tax reads:

"In the years immediately following the world war France was tottering financially—many predicted it would fail. The French government abandoned practically all forms of taxes except the sales tax. As a result France today is reputed to be the strongest nation financially in the world."

Asks $50,000,000 a Year.

Principal Kline asserts that "Illinois is far behind many of the states in state support of public education." His suggests that the state should provide $50,000,000 a year instead of $10,500,000, as at present. This would mean an annual increase of $39,500,000 in state taxes, of which more than half are paid by Cook county.

Concerning the present predicament of teachers and school employés, Mr. Kline asserts that the teachers are not getting their fair share—when paid—of the present school income.

"If there are employés not needed for the efficient service of the schools, they should be dismissed," says his statement. "If there is graft and waste it should be stopped."

Regarding the alleged improper distribution of funds, Mr. Kline says: "There has been a tremendous increase in the amount spent for non-teaching service. Salaries of the non-teaching groups were raised over a 15 year period from 200 to 300 per cent, while teaching groups were raised from 25 to 66 per cent. As a result teachers are now among the lowest paid of the board of education employés.

The Difference in Pay.

"Janitors start at a yearly salary of $1,540, while teachers start at a yearly salary of $1,500. The maximum salary of principals of elementary schools is $4,800, while the maximum salary of engineers of elementary schools is $5,340.

"In 120 schools engineers are paid higher salaries than principals in the same buildings. Painters, plumbers, carpenters, glaziers are paid a higher per diem wage [$13.60] than the maximum salary [$12.50] paid the regular elementary teachers.

"We do not advocate cheap labor. The evil should probably be corrected by raising the salaries of the teachers rather than lowering the salaries of the nonteaching groups. This means greater revenue, not less revenue."

The school trustees are to be heard by the governor's commission on Thursday and the Chicago Real Estate Board on Wednesday.

FRANCE TO SEND DELEGATION TO YORKTOWN FETE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A delegation of fifteen distinguished Frenchmen, many of them direct descendants of French volunteers in the war for American independence, has been named by the government of France to represent that country at the Yorktown sequicentennial celebration, the state department announced today.

MARSHAL PETAIN. [Acme Photo.]

The delegation, appointed in response to an invitation extended recently by this country, and headed by Marshal Henri Petain, world war hero and now head of France's anti-aircraft defense, are due to arrive in Chesapeake bay on Oct. 15 aboard the French cruisers Duquesne and Suffren.

Bathers at South Park Beaches Triple in Year

There were three times as many bathers this summer at the four bathing beaches of the south parks as there were in 1930, according to figures made public yesterday by V. K. Brown, superintendent of playgrounds and sports. Attendance for 1931 so far has been 1,575,000. In 1930 the number was 473,000. The figures are for the Calumet Jackson park, 31st street, and 12th street beaches. It was also shown that the attendance at the fifteen pools operated by the board increased from 760,000 in 1930 to 925,000 in 1931.

REVIEWERS GET HELP TO FINISH 1930 TAX WORK

Accept Clerks from Recorder's Office.

The board of review yesterday agreed to a compromise arrangement with County Recorder Clayton F. Smith whereby the reviewers will get the extra help necessary to complete their work on the 1930 assessment rolls on time.

At the same time Mark Levy, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, said the executive committee of that board will be asked to approve an advance of $35,000 to the board of assessors, to hire expert appraisers for a drive to increase personal property assessments. The realtors' offer is contingent upon the county board agreeing to reimburse them out of the 1932 budget.

Emergency Plea Turned Down.

The assessors and reviewers originally asked emergency appropriations totaling $174,800 from the county board. The grant was vetoed by President Emmett Whealan and the board refused to upset the veto.

County Commissioners Maurice Kavanaugh and Peter M. Kelly, Recorder Smith and Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, conferred yesterday with Charles V. Barrett, chairman of the board of review. He agreed to use thirty clerks, trained in handling tax matters in the recorder's office, to help the reviewers' own staff.

Barrett's consent was won by the agreement that the board of review appoint five of the thirty clerks, the others to be selected by the recorder.

Pledges County Board Action.

To put the plan into effect the county board will have to authorize Recorder Smith to transfer $30,000 from his regular pay roll fund, in which he has effected savings of $70,000 this year, to an extra and overtime fund. That action will be taken at the county board meeting on Wednesday, Commissioner Kavanagh promised.

While the help furnished by the recorder will cost only $30,000, the reviewers originally asked the county board for $59,800. The $35,000 which the real estate board has tentatively promised the assessors is $5,000 less than the assessors asked of the county commissioners for personal property appraisers. They asked $75,000 for other purposes.

Tax Warning to Closed Banks.

Assessor John E. Conroy secretary of the board, sent a letter yesterday to State Auditor Oscar Nelson, asking the names of receivers for all closed banks in Cook county. Letters will be sent to the receivers warning them that they must set up reserves in the assets of the defunct banks to pay taxes due the county.

GOV. EMMERSON DELAYS TRIP TO SEE SICK FRIEND

Gov. Emmerson yesterday postponed his departure from Chicago for a national Masonic convention in Detroit and hurried to Aurora, to satisfy the wish of an old friend, who is critically ill, to see him.

The friend is James McCredie, 71 years old, who has been active with the governor in Masonic affairs for several decades. Both men are 33d degree Masons. Gov. Emmerson was accompanied to Aurora by W. R. James, president of the west park board. He spent 45 years with Mr. McCredie.

Mr. McCredie, a wholesale coal merchant, is chairman of the trustees of the Masonic Orphans' home at Sullivan, and has held a number of high posts in the order.

Doctor Orders Col. Sprague to Work Only Part Time

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, has been ordered on a part time working schedule by his physician until he recovers from a stomach complaint, which has been aggravated by overwork since he took office as a member of Mayor Cermak's cabinet. Dr. Milton M. Portis, his physician, issued a statement yesterday denying that Col. Sprague would go to a hospital for an operation. Col. Sprague was at his office yesterday morning and returned to his Lake Forest summer home in the afternoon.

URGE PRESIDENT TO ASK RAISE IN FEDERAL TAXES

Party Leaders Still Split on Question.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The movement for tax revision at the coming session of congress gained new momentum today through the disclosure that some of the President's most influential advisers have recommended passage of legislation which would increase the national revenues.

While it is too early to state what position the President will take, there were strong indications today that he may initiate steps which will lead to some revision of the tax rates. It is understood, however, that he is opposed to a sales tax as recommended yesterday by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] and Representative Isaac Bacharach [Rep., N. J.], a ranking member of the house ways and means committee.

Would Increase Taxpayers.

Although treasury officials decline to discuss the tax situation, stating that they are still studying the problem, there now seems no doubt but that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his advisers will recommend tax revision which will have the effect of broading the tax base and increasing revenue through adding to the numbers of those who pay income taxes. The treasury, it is known, has given up hope of balancing the budget for the current year and is prepared to accept a deficit well above a billion dollars.

The treasury view as now interpreted is that steps should be taken to bring national expenditurbs and receipts closer together during the 1933 year through cutting government costs and by an increase in taxes. The goal at present, it is understood, is a balanced budget in 1934.

Treasury Against Sales Tax.

Although support for a sales tax on retail commodities has sprung up on many occasions in congress, it always has been fought by the treasury department. Indications today were that the treasury will oppose a sales tax if tax revision is taken up by congress.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced today that his organization will mobilize all its strength against the sales tax proposition.

Although there is no doubt but that the President is giving much more serious consideration to tax legislation today than he was even two weeks ago, any improvement in the business situation almost certainly would forestall a tax increase.

The fact that income tax revenues have constantly dwindled in recent weeks is cited by supporters of a tax boost as an argument that something must be done shortly to increase federal revenues.

Party Leaders Divided.

The split in the Republican party over tax revision was further widened today when Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader in the senate, came out flatly in opposition to the Reed proposal of yesterday that a sales tax be enacted. Senator Watson, speaking immediately after conferring with the President, said any attempt at tax revision during this session of congress would be a mistake.

"When things pick up then we can talk of tax revision," said Senator Watson. "An increase in taxes now would simply add to the business confusion."

Senator Watson said he was opposed to the sales tax as proposed by Senator Reed. He added that he did not think it was necessary to worry about the treasury as long as "Uncle Andrew Mellon" was the head of that department of the government.

JOBLESS RELIEF OUTLOOK CALLED LESS ALARMING

News Encouraging to Gifford Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Reports reaching the Gifford unemployment organization set up by President Hoover indicate that the unemployment crisis will not be as serious this winter as had first been anticipated. According to information passed on to high administration officials by this organization the public need not be unduly alarmed over the situation.

While conditions due to unemployment may be as bad or possibly worse than last winter, administration officials said today that there is no question but that all in need will be given adequate relief by the state, local, and national agencies already functioning. It was pointed out that due to improved condition on the textile industry there will be less unemployment in New England last year.

High Figures Discounted.

Although no figures have been compiled by the Gifford organization it is estimated that something between 3 and 6 millions will need some sort of relief aid during the winter. Reports that 20,000,000 would need relief were termed untrue in reports made to the White House by members of the Gifford organization and charity agencies.

Within the last few days many communications have reached Washington urging that less emphasis be placed on the depression and unemployment relief.

Affects Buyers' Confidence.

The direct result of overemphasis of unemployment relief measures has been diminished buying on the part of those who have funds to spend, it was learned. It was pointed out by those close to the Gifford group that machinery now being set up will take care of all citizens in need.

It was estimated today that between 2,000,000 and 5,000,000 people were aided last year during the height of the depression.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SIGNOR GRANDI'S CONVERSION.

It must be difficult, even at Geneva, for an orator to achieve eloquence with his tongue in his cheek. But that seems to have been accomplished by the Italian foreign minister when he proposed a naval holiday before the league assembly Sept. 8.

We are not implying that Signor Grandi's government does not favor a temporary cessation of naval building. It would be advantageous to Italy, both from the military and the financial viewpoint. It is known that France is dissatisfied with its present naval situation and is in somewhat the mood of a past generation of Britons who sang "We've got the men we've got the ships, we've got the money too"—only the French do not think they have the ships they need and are all for building them. Meanwhile, money is not so plentiful at Rome in these tight days, and French influence, backed by a full purse and a great army, is making formidable inroads in fields which Italian ambition aspires to cultivate.

Thus to stop a competition which Italian means cannot afford has tangible advantages, and a government which lately was appearing before an uneasy world "in shining armor" now reappears with the dove of peace upon its shoulder.

But what most intrigues us is the report in Europe that this transformation, so gratifying at least to the pacific inclinations of our ingenuous American statecraft, was the beneficent flowering of the American secretary of state's recent call at Rome. If this report is true, is it a regrettable cynicism that inquires what Mr. Stimson offered for this concession to our pacific purposes? Our relative naval position has been steadily lowered during the period of our activities on behalf of armament limitation. A cessation of naval building would put us at a greater disadvantage, as Chief Justice Hughes, when he was secretary of state took pains to warn us, and our government is now actively engaged to insure another limitation conference in February. If, as he pointed out, we are to enter conferences with proper weight, it is important we should build, not stop building. We are already more than 13 per cent below our treaty quota and shall be 20 per cent below by the close of this year.

If Mr. Stimson, as reported was responsible for Signor Grandi's—that is, Signor Mussolini's—spectacular conversion, was it a triumph of his arts of persuasion or was there something to bind the bargain? Certainly we find it difficult to believe that an American diplomat of the present mode would escape paying something down to induce any foreign government to do anything, even though it were more profitable to it than to us. For nearly a decade we have been paying European governments for the privilege of making concessions of our strength to their advantage.

The explanation for this peculiar course is not far to seek. The prompt support of Signor Grandi's proposal by Lord Cecil gives the key of the mystery. Great Britain would profit even more than Italy by the cessation of naval building. It is in critical need of every possible retrenchment of expenditure, but, apart from that, the check in naval building fixes the present naval preponderance of the British navy, and by arresting American building insures our entrance into the February armament conference under precisely those disadvantages against which Secretary Hughes warned us. It is not for nothing, we think, that Mr. Stimson has been hobnobbing with Mr. MacDonald, and it will pay us to reflect that those inspiring if mysterious talks on the Rapidan did not later in London result in any change in the aggressive advancement of British naval interests. So far as the realities in the situation are appraised, the relative naval strength of the United States, which Secretary Hughes exhorted us to maintain has been in no essential respect bettered by our diplomacy. On the contrary, we have a representative of our government running about Europe like an errand boy of the British foreign office.

Our recent activities in foreign affairs have been viewed rather vaguely but complaisantly in the United States, because they have been assumed to be motivated by the passion for international peace and the reduction of irksome expenditure upon armament. But the American people will do well to ask themselves why they should repeatedly pay by disproportionate sacrifices for relief much more urgently needed by Europe than by us. The answer is that our affairs are conducted under the influence of a desire to curry the favor of Europeans rather than by a self-respecting and realistic regard for the interests of America. Social subserviency and snobbery cannot produce a stalwart American foreign policy.

A NATION ENSLAVED.

A reading of the provisions of Chancellor Philip Snowden's scheme to balance the British budget leaves no doubt that Great Britain stands at the crossroads. Single men who earn as little as $10 a week and married men who earn as little as $15 a week will have to pay income taxes. The wealthy will have 70 per cent of their incomes taken from them. A single man earning $1,800 will have to pay more than $353 to the government.

We do not think any argument is needed to establish the fact that such taxation is self-defeating. It can be continued only at the cost of a permanently lowered standard of living, the snuffing out of initiative and the dissipation of the accumulated capital which alone can provide private industry with the means to keep its plant abreast of the times. Chancellor Snowden's proposals are heroic as the charge at Balaklava was heroic and just as futile. The price of such taxation, if persisted in, must be the debasement of the nation and industrial and commercial decline. The result is already apparent under present exactions. The new and higher rates must hasten the process.

The British government has been trying to advance two projects, both of them expensive. It is attempting to maintain a mighty empire with all it costs for navy, army, and colonial administration; and it is trying at the same time to establish a socialized state with all it costs for pensions, doles, and subsidies. Great Britain might afford one luxury or the other, but it cannot afford both, particularly with the heavy burden of the war debt as a handicap.

Parliamentary acceptance of Mr. Snowden's proposals does not mean that the problem is solved. It means, merely, that the solution of the problem has been momentarily postponed. The choice between the empire and the socialized commonwealth has still to be made and the decision cannot be long delayed.

The navy and the dole are the symbols. One or the other must be sacrificed. If the navy goes, then the Britain which has dominated Europe and the world since the days of Elisabeth is to be a thing of the past. Another imperial sun will have set and England will be just another Holland or Sweden a charming country, but not a great power. Without imperial strength England cannot hope to pay a dole. On the other hand, the abolition of the dole may well bring on civil disturbances of a sort which England has happily escaped for hundreds of years.

The choice is a difficult one. No doubt the great majority of Englishmen would prefer to avoid making it, but the issue is one which will not down. No government in the world, however well intentioned, can exist at the cost which the British people are being called upon to pay for the maintenance of theirs. The more vigorous, the more skillful, the more imaginative and resourceful elements in the population will not permit themselves to be permanently degraded in their standard of living, deprived of the honest fruits of their labor and, in effect, enslaved in the effort to support a government which is attempting the impossible.

BRIDGES FOR THE WATERWAY.

The news from Washington that the Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway will be given priority in the river and harbor program is most welcome to Illinois, which already has contributed so liberally to this great national public improvement. Priority is justified not only because of the outstanding importance of the work, but because of the initiative and substantial material support the state has given to its accomplishment.

As to the report that work on the waterway though greatly needed at this time, has been delayed by failure of the state to get in with its bridge program, it is to be said that the delay should not affect the program of the federal government. Bridges are not an essential of a waterway and not the responsibility of the federal government. The federal work should be pressed and the waterway opened as soon as it is completed. If Illinois has not got its bridges built that is its misfortune and its fault. With that clearly understood the bridges will be built in good time.

Editorial of the Day

TRAYLOR FOR PRESIDENT.

[The Birmingham News.]

It is logical that Melvin A. Traylor should be boomed for the Democratic presidential nomination, for his eminence as a Democrat and his tremendous ability as a man undoubtedly mark him as presidential timber.

It is natural, too, that the Traylor for President boom should have originated in Texas, although his home for many years has been Chicago, where he is president of one of the country's largest banks and has many other important business connections, for it was in Texas that Mr. Traylor spent his youth and early manhood and there that he attained the first successes in one of the most remarkably successful careers in modern American business. He is a native of Kentucky, and now a resident of Illinois, but Texas claims him as its own, and with ample justification.

This newspaper regards the movement in Mr. Traylor's behalf with sympathetic interest. Next to its own choice for the Democratic nomination, Owen D. Young, it knows of no man who is better qualified to lead the party in 1932 or to serve in the presidency at that time, when economic problems are the foremost problems of the United States and of the world. As president of the First National Bank of Chicago and as a former president of the American Bankers' association, Mr. Traylor has long been one of the great bankers of America. His is the type of mind that is needed at the political helm of this country today. It is much the same type of mind as that of Owen D. Young.

Indeed, Mr. Traylor is like Mr. Young in many respects. Like Young, Taylor is a self-made man. Like Mr. Young, he retains the "common touch," that genuinely sympathetic interest in the welfare and happiness of his fellow men. Like Young, he started out as a lawyer and became a great business man, largely by virtue, no doubt, of his legal training, coupled with his natural aptitude for business. Again like Mr. Young—and this is probably their most notable characteristic in common—Mr. Traylor has a profound knowledge of and interest in world economic affairs.

This, and still more, the two men have in common. This paper hopes that the Democratic party will turn to Owen D. Young for the nomination, and that Mr. Young will accept. But next to Mr. Young it knows of no one better suited to the particular needs of the party, of the country, and of the world at this time than Melvin A. Traylor, one of our truly outstanding Democrats.

LOADING UP WITH LIME.

It appears that the human animal is likely to need more lime than he gets, and to suffer some of the consequencer of his need. If he is less than about three years old, and lives in a city, he is likely to need lime to escape rickets, or to be cured of that disorder.

If he manages to get by without developing rickets, he is in danger of tetany, or some other nervous disorder which is caused by an insufficient supply of lime. If he escapes both of these, and his lime supply is below requirements, he may show the deficiency by having croup, bronchitis, or something like that.

If the question is one of summertime conditions, he may develop hay fever, urticaria, or some other disorder in which a low lime level has been demonstrated. If it is a matter of winter and its dangers, the person who lets his lime run low is in danger of repeated colds, bronchitis, and asthma.

In old age, most people think it best not to have an excess of lime on hand in the body, lest it be laid down in the dangerous locations—in the heart and blood vessels, and, possibly, also in the joints. However, even old people sometimes develop softening of the bone as a result of getting no sunshine and trying to live on a low lime supply.

Physicians have given much thought to methods of getting lime into the body. It is not difficult to supply it into the digestive tract. The difficulty is in getting it into the blood stream and the tissues.

Mr. A. L. Lieberman has investigated the various preparations of calcium with a view to deciding which was the best, and what was the best method of administering it. He found for calcium gluconate. As compared with calcium lactate, the gluconate does not raise the lime level of the body quite as high, but it holds it up longer and acts more satisfactorily generally. Either of the lime salts is absorbed very well, if given with food and in large doses. If it is given before meals, or on an empty stomach, it causes diarrhea. A German advocate of the use of lime preparations as a medicine advised mixing calcium chloride with the dough and baking it with bread, thus assuring its use with food rather than on an empty stomach.

Lieberman thinks well of injecting calcium gluconate into the muscles. He is opposed to injecting it, or any other form of lime, into the blood stream. He has found that an excess of lime in the blood begets a dangerous condition, the symptoms of which are like those found in digitalis poisoning.

STRAWBERRIES AND BEER.

C. A. N. asks: Is there proof of the following common beliefs?

1. Milk and fish eaten at the same meal are unwholesome or poisonous?
2. To eat strawberries and drink beer at the same meal is injurious?
3. Is it injurious to eat fresh cucumbers unpeeled?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.
3. It is somewhat hazardous to eat the peeling of any vegetable or fruit. The peeling is sometimes contaminated with disease producing bacteria, such as that of typhoid, and some that are sometimes spread by rats and mice. Since spraying is so universal now there is some danger that the peel will carry some arsenic or other poison. So far as these points are concerned, the answer is yes. Except for them, the answer is no.

Now, let us go back to your statement that these are common beliefs. Ninety per cent of such statements are not common beliefs. They are food fadderz, promoted by food faddists. By the use of radio and the printed page food faddists sometimes push this foolishness to the point where a fair minority of the people accept it. In a few instances they put it over enough so that it comes to be a common belief.

FACTS NOT CLEAR.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1927 I built a home. T. & S. supplied the hardware and paint. The waivers of lien were signed paid in full by T. & S. 1. Has the claimant a right to bring suit, using his credit book for evidence without my signature, as he claims that part of the bill is unpaid? 2. Has a J. P. court right to issue a judgment without any proper specification? And if not, what shall I do about it? J. H.

1. You should have secured waivers of lien signed by the subcontractors and material men, hence we would answer this question in the affirmative.
2. We do not understand the question.

REPAIRS ARE NOISY.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a garage across the alley in the back of the flat that I live in that has been causing a great deal of disturbance all summer. They work all night, repairing fenders, hammering, grinding, etc., until a person can't sleep when they finally quiet down. They are not content now to work in the garage with the back doors open, but of late have started to do part of their work in the alley. Can't something be done to force them to close their back doors at least at night? R. L. A.

Investigation was made of this complaint and it was found that the garage in question repairs cars during the day and night. Interview with the sales manager resulted in his promise that he would have the noise discontinued and that the repairing of autos in the alley would be stopped. He was not aware of the fact that they were repairing cars in the alley. In the future they will keep their rear doors and windows closed.

JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Commissioner of Police.

UNPAID TAXES.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a $5,000 mortgage for which foreclosure proceedings have to be undertaken. Taxes on this property for the year 1929 have not been paid and most likely said property will be sold for taxes. 1. I understand after two years the property will be sold and if there is only $5,000 realized for it [2] who gets paid first, the party who bought the property for taxes or my mortgage of $5,000? A. H.

1. There is little or no real bidding at the tax sale. Ordinarily the property is sold for only a little more than the taxes.
2. As far as we know the land owner has never gotten any proceeds out of a tax sale in Illinois. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MISTER GANDHI of India announces that he doesn't give a hoot what is said at the first day's session of the round table conference in London, he's not going to sass back or make wise cracks or give any kind of answer at all. This is because the round table thing starts on a Monday and Monday is Gandhi's day of silence. All day long every time Monday rolls around Mister Gandhi remains mum. It's his day for silent contemplation, and he silently contemplates, no matter what happens. His wife may rush in and say, "Jiu Hookoo is on the telephone and he says you're an ossified mutt if you write any notes to the viceroy. What about it?" Mister Gandhi looks at the lady gently and keeps right on being silent. Somebody may rush up to him in the street and shout: "Why, bless my soul, if it isn't old Mat! 'Member me? Bingo, class of '09. Sure, sat right next to you in English major. Well, well, how's the boy?" Gandhi just gives him a single look and passes right on. If Gandhi were drowning and somebody asked him if he needed help, there would be no reply; Mister Gandhi would keep right on being silent. It's a good idea. It would be lots better for the world if the rest of us would shut up for one day every week at least. We all talk too much and do too little thinking. This machine age of ours is an age of blab. Maybe we get into the habit of talking as loud as we can and all the time so's to be heard above the roar of the machines. And what a grand thing it would be if our financial giants would keep still one day every week about prosperity being around the corner. Maybe if they would have a day of silence and concentration we might get somewhere. And what a great thing it would be if all the commissions running around loose curing the farm troubles and unemployment and prohibition tangles and depression and everything would only sit down one day a week and keep their faces closed all day and just think and think. That might get us out of our troubles a whole lot sooner. Write to your congressman right away. And tell him to shut up one day a week, too.

STOLE AWAY.

Though the lake is as fair
As it has been for days,
There's a change in the air—
There's an amethyst haze
O'er the blue of the skies;
And there isn't a breeze—
But a soft stillness lies
Over grasses and trees.

Not a farewell's been said,
Not a sign made that shows it;
But summer is fled,
And all nature knows it.

MARJORIE F. W.

MAYOR CERMAK tries to quiet the indignant citizen who writes to him voicing earnest objection to Greeter Gaw, his white automobile, and his two motorcycle cops, and insisting that the cops be put back to work doing a little plain and fancy copping for the city. Hizzoner says that Greeter Gaw receives no salary from the city, the white auto is a gift from an automobile company, as are also the motorcycles, and that the policemen who ride them are phonies, being employés of the same company and are loaned without pay. But, Mr. Mayor, Greeter Gaw and his entourage give us a pain in the neck just the same. And every time Greeter Gaw says something about "kiddies" we feel we just can't stand it any longer, Mr. Mayor; we just can't stand it any longer.

NEW YORK is all excited over the story that its coast line is being ravaged by pirates, reg'lar pirates with the skull and cross bones on a black flag, dripping with blood, burying treasure chests and everything of that kind. New York has pirates all right, but they don't sail the Seven Seas. They drive taxis, hang around Tammany Hall, sit on the judicial bench sometimes, and sell tickets to the theater now and then. And Wall street—gosh, that place is just full of pirates!

"IT'S UP TO THE VETERANS to decide," says Sen. Reed of Pennsylvania in opposing full payment of the world war veterans' bonus certificates at this time on the grounds that it would stop navy building, "to decide which war we are going to pay for—the last one or the next one." Ah, senator, you said a mouthful! Don't you think that if nations were made to pay for the last war they've had before they start another rumpus that they might be a little bit slower on the trigger? Let's pay in full for our last war and maybe we'll decide the darned things are so expensive that we won't want to mix up in another one for quite some time.

LA VIE POUILLEUSE.

Vermin-infected,
I wasn't dejected
Though shavetail-directed,
In France

At one buck a day
I had opulent pay
And dumbly could play
At romance.

But civic-complected
And routine-connected
I'm fat and affected
And glance

In a dull, obese way
At the world, and obey;
I don't dare, as they say,
Take a chance.

THE SOLICITOR.

AND WHY, may we not ask, is not a national commission appointed to see about this unprecedented heat wave that is assailing us? Let a commission be appointed immediately. It would not make us cooler, but it would soothe us a lot to have the commission running around asking questions.

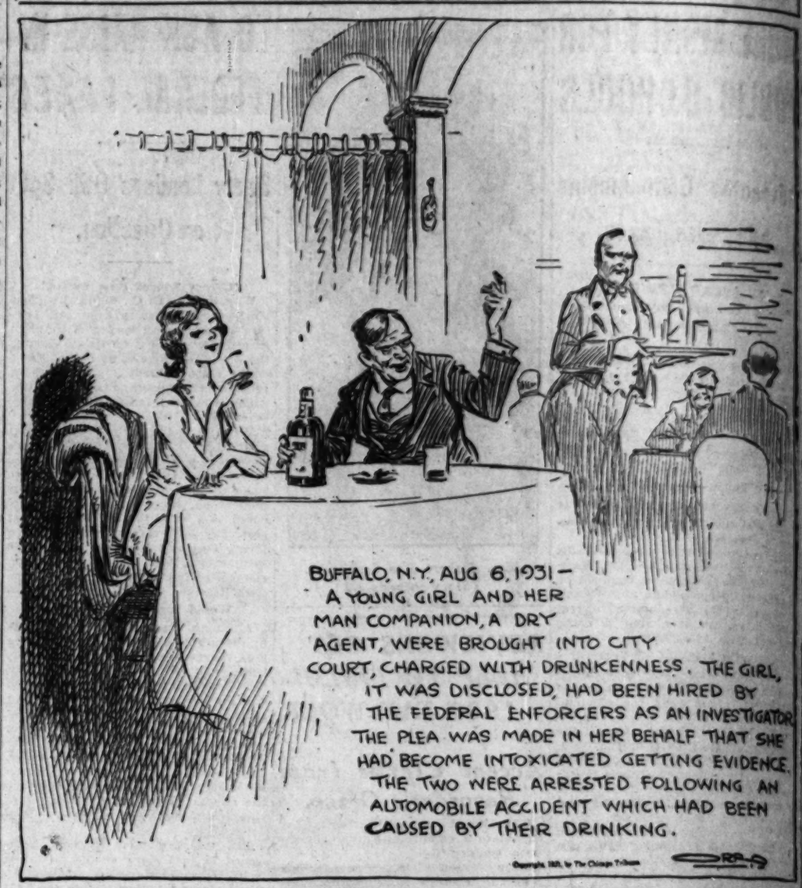
ATROCITIES OF PROHIBITION



BUFFALO, N.Y. AUG 6, 1931—
A YOUNG GIRL AND HER MAN COMPANION, A DRY AGENT, WERE BROUGHT INTO CITY COURT, CHARGED WITH DRUNKENNESS. THE GIRL, IT WAS DISCLOSED, HAD BEEN HIRED BY THE FEDERAL ENFORCERS AS AN INVESTIGATOR. THE PLEA WAS MADE IN HER BEHALF THAT SHE HAD BECOME INTOXICATED GETTING EVIDENCE. THE TWO WERE ARRESTED FOLLOWING AN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT WHICH HAD BEEN CAUSED BY THEIR DRINKING.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—The department of justice has decided to call the attention of United States District Attorney Marshall of New York to the evidence regarding the case of James F. J. Archibald, the American correspondent whom the Austrian ambassador, Dr. Dumba, admitted he had employed to bear secret messages to Vienna. The department of justice officials let it be known that it will be the policy of the government to prosecute every American citizen or amenable alien who is deemed guilty of participation in the conspiracy to cripple the industrial plants of the United States.

BERLIN—[Via London]. The German foreign office and admiralty stated that they had no news regarding the Hesperian incident, concerning which Ambassador Gerard asked information. The question of whether Americans lost their lives when the Hesperian was blown up will probably have a bearing on the ultimate answer to Washington. The Germans thus far have heard nothing to indicate that the ship was not destroyed by a mine instead of a submarine.

NEW YORK.—What purports to be the views of the German government, as expressed by Count von Bernstoff, the German ambassador to the United States, since this country's dissatisfaction with Berlin's note on the Arabic case became apparent, were set forth by the Evening Sun. The interview gives Von Bernstoff's opinion that if the United States severs diplomatic relations with Germany war would almost immediately follow.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1901.

BUFFALO.—President McKinley continues to show remarkable recuperative powers, and thus far there has not been the slightest unfavorable symptom five days after his shooting by Leon Czolgosz. His temperature has been reduced until it is far below the danger line, and his general physical condition is such that he needs little attention except the care of his family physician Dr. P. M. Mixey.

CHICAGO.—Police authorities here received notice on the Buffalo police that it is up to them to furnish evidence linking Emma Goldman and nine other anarchists under arrest here with Leon Czolgosz, for the attempted assassination of President McKinley. Unless Buffalo officials act quickly Emma Goldman may be released on bail, although when she was arraigned in the Harrison street police court on the charge of conspiring to murder the President, her case was continued to Sept 19 and she was refused bail.

WASHINGTON.—The Schley court of inquiry will meet promptly at 1 o'clock tomorrow, organize and begin an investigation to determine the facts in the famous controversy with Admiral Sampson arising from the battle of Santiago.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 12, 1881.

LONG BRANCH.—President Garfield is again undoubtedly in a very critical condition. The raging fever which the President has had all day is explained by the discovery of an abscess in the right lung. Dr. D. W. Bliss calls it a local lobular inflammation and he says that it is not necessarily very dangerous but that there is the greatest danger that it will develop pyaemia. During the day the President's pulse at times reached 131, but at the time the evening bulletin was issued it had dropped to 110. Secretary Blaine's dispatch to United States Minister Lowell at London is of an extremely gloomy tenor.

CHICAGO.—There was not a vacancy in Hooley's theater yesterday morning when the Rev. Hiram W. Thomas, convicted by a church court of heresy, arose to talk. He called attention to the fact that he had been found guilty of heresy and forbidden to preach until the conference meets. He said he concurred in the judgment of his counsel that it was not right or proper for him to refuse to obey the order of the ecclesiastical court and introduced the Rev. Dr. Miller, who preached a very eloquent sermon.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE OLDEST WESTERN UNIVERSITY.

Johnsville, Ky., Sept. 10.—Chips blazing the trail through the Kentucky wilderness were still flying when Transylvania college was born. This was just four years after the "Spirit of '76" marched up and down the colonial highways, piping the fife and beating the drum of freedom.

It was in the spring of 1780. A small group of hardy pioneers—one of my own ancestors being among them—who had followed Daniel Boone into the blue grass region, met in conclave and sent Col. John Todd to represent them in the Virginia assembly. It was largely through his efforts and the farseeing policy of the scholarly Thomas Jefferson that Transylvania came into existence. Through them the Virginia assembly set aside first 8,000 and later 12,000 acres of escheated lands "for the cause of public education in Kentucky."

It was from the sale of these lands that money was raised to establish the first college west of the Allegheny mountains.

The beginning was a humble one. The institution was first housed in a double log cabin near the little town of Danville, Ky. Early classes were often disturbed by conflicts with Indians.

In 1791 Transylvania moved to Lexington. From that day to the present she has flourished on the same site—14 acres of its campus mounted in the very heart of the city and the prettiest spot in this country. In 1798 she became a university. The colleges of medicine and law were opened; also the first west of the Allegheny mountains. Today she is a school that is nonsectarian in principle and teaching.

The Rev. Herbert Pfister Jr. seems to be well acquainted with the history of Ohio and the Northwest Territory, but doesn't seem to know about the mother college of 'em all in the west.

Transylvania has a student body of 500. Her grounds are valued at $300,000. Her buildings and equipment are worth nearly $600,000. Her library contains more than 25,000 volumes.

Transylvania has made the richest contribution to American life of any college west of the Alleghenies. One hundred and forty-eight golden years rise to praise her worthy past. There is something of the spirit of the famous men who have trod the campus, either as student or member of the faculty, that hovers over that place—men like Henry Clay, Jefferson Davis, Champ Clark, James Lane Allen, and John Fox Jr.

JOHN C. PEARL.

THE INVENTOR OF THE AUTOMOBILE.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—As a direct descendant of Sigfried Markus, the inventor of the automobile, permit me to thank you for the article and pictures concerning his invention, conceived as early as 1865. My father, Berthold Loewenthal, who passed away recently in his 85th year, having lived in Chicago for 64 years, often told me of his cousin, through whose idea the entire modern world has been revolutionized.

In Vienna the Automobile club has erected a monument in recognition of Sigfried Markus' great invention.

GRACE L. KATZ.

QUIETING A ROOSTER.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—In your Friend of the People column of this date it is set forth that, on the complaint of a citizen that he had been kept awake by the crowing of a rooster owned by a neighbor, the said rooster has been condemned to death and Chief of Police Alcock has agreed, by inference, to carry out the sentence. In the interest of other owners of chanticleers whose salutations of the dawn disturb the matutinal slumbers of nearby neighbors, I beg to say that this subject was given careful consideration by the city council many years ago and an examination of the council records of that time will show that, on motion of the late Alderman Edward F. Cullerton, an order was passed that owners of roosters be obliged to keep the fowl at night in places so built that the rooster could not raise its head higher than the level of its back. Inability to throw its head upward and backward makes it impossible for the rooster to crow.

JAMES CONWELL.

HE GOT HIS MONEY BACK.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 5.—On Sept. 3 there appeared in this column a criticism of the service rendered by the Chicago Rapid Transit company relating to the train guards acting as collectors in the absence of the regular ticket agents, this criticism having been submitted by the undersigned.

It gives me pleasure to state that an official of the elevated lines was good enough to spare himself from his usual duties long enough to personally interview me, explaining that it was an explicit order of the transit company that the train guards be adequately supplied with these tickets for Evanston riders. He also reimbursed me for the excess fare which I was obligated to pay on the occasion mentioned, and it is with justifiable pleasure that I compliment this institution for its interest in the charges that were made.

ANDREW J. HALVORSEN.

RATES COMPARED.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—I bought a bookcase from a mail order house which was shipped from Rockford, Ill., to Chicago, 85 miles. The railroad freight bill was 50c. A trucking company hauled the bookcase from the railroad freight house to my home, 11 miles, and charged me 60c. If the railroads were granted the 15 per cent increase in freight rates they are asking for, their rates would still be less for an 85 mile haul than what a truck gets for a 11 mile haul; and yet some claim freight rates are high.

WALTER DU BOIS.

DIAGNOSIS OF THE DEPRESSION.

Pittsfield, Ill., Sept. 9.—The cure for our present condition is to restore to the consuming public its former purchasing power. This done, all the so-called surpluses will soon vanish. (Our present plight is due not to overproduction but to underconsumption.) When business is regarded as a means for public usefulness and not as a device with which to plunder, we shall soon have the purchasing power of the American people restored to normalcy and our depression will be then ended.

BOOKS

Author Travels Underworld of Berlin Streets

Emerging with His Much Battered Hero.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Alexanderplatz, Berlin," by Alfred Doblin. [Viking.]

TRAILING clouds of critical glory such as no novel since "Ulysses" has elicited, comes "Alexanderplatz, Berlin," in two volumes. It is a picture painted on a vast canvas in three dimensions—four, perhaps, it is better to say, for besides the three dimensions of life which it chronicles, undimensional thought also is a vivid part of the picture. The result is a vast panorama of life, as incoherent at times as life itself, as shifting in its scenes, as alternately tense, gay, sorrowful, tragic . . . vivid.

ALFRED DOBLIN. [Drawing by Hortense Ansorge.]

The author, a Berlin doctor, has chosen for his background and his characters the underworld of Berlin. For his palette he has chosen the gaudy colors of thievery, hunger, vice. He applies them in a strange, impressionistic stipple. First he puts on a dab of description. Beside it a spot of thought. And next a few words of conversation. It is the technique which James Joyce used in "Ulysses." It is a technique which is extremely confusing to the reader at first, but one which, by the time he has got well into the second volume [for "Alexanderplatz, Berlin" is heroic in size], he has grown accustomed to and it has become inevitable to the reader's mind. The book demands a little distance between the reader and the page, as it were. A page lifted out of the book is nothing. Twenty pages are nothing. One volume is a little less nothing. The whole book is a new and vivid and powerful creation. The spots mingle into a vast, colorful impression of life.

"Alexanderplatz, Berlin" is a hard book to read. Nothing in it is facile. There are no aids to the reader, as there were in Eugene O'Neill's "A Strange Interlude," where the unspoken thoughts were printed in a different colored ink in the printed text spoken in a slightly different tone on the stage.

The thoughts of the characters in "Alexanderplatz, Berlin" are a part of the running text. There also is a sort of Greek chorus of biblical, historical and literary references. These must be the observations of the author, as they could not possibly have been generated in the minds of the characters, who have had no possible contact with the classics.

In addition there are the obvious observations of the author as to his principal character's progress. The book might be called another and a modern "Pilgrim's Progress" if it were more didactic.

The author intends that it shall teach a lesson, one infers from the explanation which precedes the first book. In that he says the book reports the story of Franz Biberkopf, who has just been discharged from prison, "where he has been doing time because of former incidents, and is now back in Berlin determined to lead a decent life."

And at first he succeeds. But then, though economically things go rather well with him, he gets involved in a regular combat with something that comes from the outside, with something unaccountable, that looks like fate. Three times this thing crushes against our man. . . . It drives and beats him with foul play. He finds it a bit hard to get up after its buffeting; they almost count him out. Finally this fate torpedoes him with huge and monstrous savagery. Thus our good man, who had held his own till the end, is laid low. He gives the game up for lost; he does not know how to go on. He appears to be done for.

But, before he puts a definite end to himself, his eyes are forcibly opened. . . . He is most distinctly given to understand how it all came about. To wit, through himself, that's obvious, through his scheme of life, which looked like nothing on earth, but now suddenly looks entirely different, not simple and almost self-evident, but prideful and impudent, cowardly withal, and full of weakness.

This awful thing which was his life acquires a meaning. Franz Biberkopf has been given a radical cure. At last we see our man back on Alexanderplatz greatly changed and battered, but, nevertheless, bent straight again.

To listen to this and to meditate on it will be of benefit to many who, like Franz Biberkopf, live in a human skin, and, like Franz Biberkopf, "ask more of life than a piece of bread and butter."

Thus reads the prologue. So the author evidently does look on his book as didactic, as teaching a lesson. To the average reader the lesson perhaps will be lost in the amazing technique which the author has chosen for his anatomical sketches of the genus man, as it were.

The color, the cruelty, the savagery the passionate rhythm of the underworld is vividly set down in stipples of characters, thoughts, swift snapshots of places, all mingled in what seems to be incoherence at first, but which takes on a powerful and definite pattern. "Alexanderplatz, Berlin" is a remarkable, an unforgettable book, but also, like "Ulysses," its almost a life's work to read!

MAUGHAM GATHERS HIS PLAYS IN 3 VOLUMES; ARGUES IN PREFACE

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Somerset Maugham's plays are being collected into three volumes for publication within the next few weeks; and the author has contributed to this new collected edition an argumentative preface. Like other dramatists he has a few words to address to his critics, and where, if not in a preface, can the author reply to misconceptions and misrepresentations?

W. SOMERSET MAUGHAM.

Those who know how briefly and pointedly Mr. Maugham can express himself will not need to be told that the preface is full of good things. It is in fact a candid statement concerning Mr. Maugham's habit of not giving interviews about his plays, and it may considerably annoy a few dramatic critics.

It will be remembered that "Cakes and Ale" was erroneously supposed by some readers to have some reference to the late Thomas Hardy, and that a well known novelist also was said to have inspired one of the minor characters.

Mr. Maugham comes down decidedly upon the inevitability of the use of actual experience in novel writing. His suggestion is that the writer who claims to create his own characters as it were, out of the void, never creates real human beings, but only bloodless shadows.

Praises Story of Indian Boy; Won Prize, Too

Critic Delighted by Armer "Waterless Mountain."

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

[Director of Children's Work for Branches of the Chicago Public Library.]

"Waterless Mountain," by Laura Adams Armer. [Longmans-Green.]

The shadows which prize books cast before them are so often bigger than the books behind that the reviewer, accustomed as she is to many disappointments in this line, cannot help but send up a shout of joy when one comes to hand which is in every sense worthy of the honor bestowed upon it.

Such a book is Laura Adams Armer's "Waterless Mountain," the story awarded the $2,000 prize in the Longmans Green juvenile contest recently closed. It is a beautifully told story of a Navajo Indian boy of today who finds in the deserts and canyons of northern Arizona the mystery and the magic which form part of the religion of this ancient people. Younger Brother, the hero, is only eight years old when he is introduced to us, but even then as he herds his mother's sheep and attends to his practical duties in the family life, he talks to the clouds, the whirlwind, and the shooting stars which for a second light up the darkened heavens, and feels a kinship with them all.

For him, there is majesty in the huge crooked rocks at whose base the sheep forage. There is perhaps no more beautifully descriptive incident in current juvenile literature than that in which the small earthbound boy stands gazing up into the eyes of the great eagle, monarch of the air, perched on the crest of the rocks, and its strong unblinking eyes look down into his. The space between them is annihilated and heart speaks to heart. Even the wind is still as the message passes from boy to bird and the compact of friendship is sealed as the great bird sails off into the brilliant heavens, and a tail feather flutters down from the heights and settles at the boy's feet. One can almost hear the sob of joy with which he picks it up and holds it to his heart, as the silence is broken and life moves on again.

The story carries Younger Brother through the eight years of his training for his chosen calling of Medicine Man, and throughout it all is woven the tale of the everyday life of the tribe, their legends and traditions, their mysticism and reverence. It is a story of Indian life which is unusual and inspiring, picturing for us the Indian as he lives and understands his own life based on the beliefs and traditions, the hopes and fears, which are a part of his age old heritage.

The author has spent many years in the southwest among the people she writes of and is well known there for her paintings of Indian legends which she has made for the Rockefeller museum of Santa Fé. That she is in very intimate touch with those of whom she writes none can doubt, after reading this story.

Shaw Letters, Those of Ellen Terry Will Appear Next Month

Bernard Shaw's preface to the collection of his and Ellen Terry's letters has been received by G. P. Putnam's Sons. The correspondence will be published in October under the title "Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw: A Correspondence." Shaw's preface starts amusingly: "In allowing everybody who cares about Ellen Terry to read this correspondence, I must warn them not to judge it according to the code of manners which regulate polite letter writing in cathedral towns. As a correspondence between a church warden and a deaconess its implications would make its publication impossible."

A little farther on Shaw makes this provocative statement: "An actress is not a lady: at least when she is, she is not an actress." A lady, he says, is carefully schooled always to hide her true feelings, while an actress is trained to show her emotions to the world. He goes on to tell how Mrs. Siddons once terrified a shop assistant by the intensity with which she asked regarding a piece of cloth, "will it wash?"

Pursuing the same theme, Shaw gives the following anecdote of Robert Buchanan, who exclaimed: "What! No good women on the stage! There are thousands of them—and only about six actresses."

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined. She leases a Mexican rancho and moves her starving herd there. She is barely settled when a revolution breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is the leader. Hanse Brennan, a former foreman of Lee's, is his right hand man. Brennan was discharged by Lee and swore revenge. Lee hires a new hand, who is recognized by Dune Daggett, an old ranch helper, as Jack Hadley, a millionaire oil man of California, whose father owned a mine near Lee's ranch and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley is searching for the murderer of his father. Hadley and Lee call on Megares, who is, apparently, friendly to them. Megares calls at the ranch for dinner and is infatuated with Lee's guest, Mrs. Doris Silver. Next day while out driving Lee and her ranchers are attacked by a band of soldiers. Megares comes to live at the rancho, to protect them, he says, though they really are prisoners. Doris is rescued by airplane by her husband. Lee refuses to leave her ranchers—and Jack Hadley, whom she loves. Harold Silver promises to return with an armed plane for their rescue. Lee and Jack are brought before Megares for trial.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

AT SUNSET.

Witnesses were called. The first ones were Mexicans who testified that while they were riding peaceably through the hills they had been attacked by four or five Americans and two women. Taken by surprise, they had defended themselves after two had been killed and three wounded. Jack and Lee were identified as two of the assailants. It was quite clear that they were parrotting a tale they had learned by rote, but neither Hadley nor Brennan were able to shake their testimony.

In rebuttal the defense brought in Juan, Ysela, Dune Daggett, and one of the Lazy R riders who had been present when Lee and Doris rode in to get help. All of them testified that neither of the women were armed. The riders who went to the rescue of the besieged men swore that they found Hadley and Stumpy in a position of defense above the rimrock and that those scattered in the canon below must have been from their position the attackers.

Megares had craftily selected Maj. Marcos as the prosecutor. He was not sure enough of Marcos to give him a vote as one of the judges. Therefore he had assigned him the position of court advocate.

The major showed no animosity toward the prisoners. He examined the witnesses fairly enough. He asked the officers sitting on the bench to weigh the evidence and if they found the prisoners guilty to assess such punishment as seemed to them just. His own opinion he did not give in the case of Hadley. As to Lee, he said he felt it only fair to say that he had great doubt as to her participation in the fight. He was inclined to believe that she had not been armed.

Brennan spoke bluntly and briefly in fluent but faulty Spanish. His emotions were mixed. He did not understand them himself. He had sworn to get even with this girl for the way she had treated him. Now he had his chance and he discovered that his anger against her had evaporated. She was an American girl in trouble. It was up to him to support her.

"I've known her since she was so high," he said, measuring a space from the floor with the palm of his hand. "You're crazy with the heat if you don't let her go. She's straight. The worst I know of her is that she's got mixed up with this fellow Hadley here. I don't care what you do to him.

His body straightened.

Give him the limit. But don't convict this girl. I tell you she's all right. She didn't have a gun with her. She never harmed any one in her life. Some of you may have daughters of your own. Maybe——"

He sat down abruptly, mopping his face with a handkerchief. Nothing could have surprised him more than the glow of anger surging through him at the outrage under way. He ought to have been satisfied. He had promised out of a bitter heart to ruin her, to drag her pride through the dust. Well, here was his chance. All he had to do was to stand aside and watch complete disaster fall upon her. But he couldn't do it. Somewhere inside his callous being there burned a spark of decency that was being fanned to a flame. He wasn't going to stand for any lousy Mexican outlaw hurting her to feed a grudge.

Jack did not talk long. He addressed what he had to say not to Megares but to the other officers. That they would find him guilty he knew. No use wasting time trying to save himself. He spoke for Lee, with a crouched and forceful directness. She was an American lady, wealthy, well known, with hosts of powerful friends. If they did the thing Megares wanted them to do, if they convicted her against the evidence and contrary to all sense of justice, her country would demand vengeance. The revolution would be doomed, and the men responsible for the crime would be dragged from thir holes and executed. He urged them to remember that. He begged them as officers and gentlemen to release her and to send her in safety across the border. As for himself, he was innocent of this charge. Their party had been attacked, probably on orders given by Gen. Megares. But if a victim was needed, let him alone pay the penalty.

The prisoners were removed. At the door of the room, while being led away to await the verdict, Lee and Jack came face to face.

"Courage, little comrade," he said, smiling at her.

She mustered an answering smile, but it was wan. "It's for you I'm afraid, Jack. They won't . . . do much . . . to me."

"I don't think they will. The fear of Uncle Sam is in their hearts."

"But you—surely they can't find you guilty on such a trumped up charge. But, O, Jack, they will—they will." She broke down and wailed the last words in a little cry of fear.

The guards pushed her through the door and led her along the corridor to the stairs. Following her, Jack watched the girl, woe in his heart. She was a fine, brave young thing, sensitive and strong and eager for life. What an evil trick fate had played on her! He would have given all he had to save her, and he could do nothing. His strength was of no avail, any more than his youth or his wealth.

Lee waited in her room, all her being submerged in dread. She could read the handwriting on the wall. Megares had written it so that a fool could have guessed what the verdict would be. It did not matter about her. She did not know what they would decide. But as to Jack—had not Megares told the result before they had even gone through the farce of trying him? They would take him away to his doom. He would go, with that light, easy stride of his, head up, smiling ironically, to meet the death they were even now voting for him. It couldn't be. She would wake up and find it was a ghastly dream. It wasn't reasonable to think of death in connection with one so quick with life, so strong, so valiant. He was inextinguishable. All that vitality couldn't be put out. God would not permit it.

She prayed—wildly—desperately.

A guard opened the door. She looked up at the brown immobile face in swift appeal. The man knew only that she was to be brought back to the courtroom.

As she entered she saw the judges sitting at the table. Megares was telling some jest and laughing at it. Jack came in a few seconds after her. The prisoners stood side by side. Jack's hand caught her cold fingers. His heart smote him because she was so pale and tired and shaken.

She looked up at him, grateful for the warm grip. At the contact life seemed to flow from him to her. The pressure of that warm palm was like a song of hope. It gave her a vision of his soul, still strong and undefeated. For a moment only. Then the weight, cold and heavy as lead, settled again on her heart.

". . . and in spite of weighty affairs pressing upon us we have taken valuable time to give you a fair and impartial trial. Only after mature deliberation have the findings of the court been reached."

He broke off, holding the verdict back, to gloat over them as a cat does over a mouse before the kill. His black eyes searched Hadley's face. He wanted to quench that sardonic smile, to bring fear into the cool, contemptuous gaze.

His rhetoric flowed on. A cynical grin belied the unctious periods. "The members of this court, ever inclined to mercy, regret the necessity of trying this case, but we have been driven by an urge higher than personal considerations. Only the good of the country has been in our thoughts. The verdict has been forced upon by us overwhelming evidence. One of the accused has threatened us with the vengeance of a great and greedy power if we do our duty, but we are not to be deterred through fear of our individual safety."

Suddenly grown tired of his own verbiage, Megares flung away indisposition. His body straightened. Words came with the sharp snap of a whip lash. "As to the prisoner John Hadley—guilty. The sentence of the court is that he be taken at sunset to the west wall and there shot to death. As to the prisoner Lee Reynolds—guilty. The sentence of the court is that she, too, be shot to death, but the time and place of the execution of this sentence is left to the discretion of the general commanding the patriot armies in this district."

Lee swayed. Her head drooped. ". . . taken at sunset to the west wall and . . ." The world had ended with that sentence. She did not even know what they had determined in her case.

Later she thought she must have swooned for a moment on her feet. When her mind picked up again the scene Jack's arm was around her shoulders. He was looking into her eyes.

"Courage stout," he whispered.

"Today," she quavered. "At sunset."

"But the sun is still high."

"It can't be. There must be some way . . . some way . . ."

Megares watched them, black beads smoldering behind the narrowed lids. He was confirming a suspicion.

Jack held her slack body close. Once more the contact drove back the chill and brought to her warmth and some faint reflection of his intrepidity.

"You won't leave me today. You'll stay with me," she begged.

"Unfortunately, impossible," the bandit chief answered. "Remove the prisoners."

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

"Is there a doctor in the house?" cries the great Chatrand.

There is.

There needs to be!

"The Spider," adapted from the stage play of the same name by Fulton Oursley and Lowell Brentano, is, save for several padded stretches, a thriller that keeps you thrilled.

Most of the action takes place in a theater where the great Chatrand is giving one of his remarkable demonstrations in legerdemain. The performance is interrupted by a murder, which is solved by this same hypnotizin' man.

Crowds scream and rush for the exits, to be forced back by the police who have their hands full managing the excited customers. A boneheaded inspector conducts himself moronically while his chief lieutenant, portrayed by Warren Hymer, is autocratic and asinine, thereby greatly adding to the confusion. Comedy is introduced by a distraught lady who has left her husband home to mind the baby; would-be comedy is forced upon you by El Brendel [ick!] as one Ole, who is present with a smartaleck small nephew.

Enough of the story.

Lighting, photography and "atmosphere" are bang-up. The "magic" is fascinatingly presented, and Edmund Lowe as Chatrand gives a performance for which he has my permission to carve another nick in his gun. Lois Moran hasn't much to do, but she makes a sweet little heroine. Howard Phillips as Alexander, Chatrand's mysterious hypnotizée, is convincing. Purnell Pratt and Mr. Hymer overdo their respective rôles of police inspector and policeman, and while Ruth Donnelly is pretty funny as the lady with the baby, she's not as comical as was the character in the play. Other rôles are well enough handled.

Despite lack of terseness in direction, you'll find "The Spider" a hair raiser. If hair raising's what you go in for.

Texas Co-ed Brings Her Ponies to Help Schooling

Lubbock, Tex., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Driving a string of cow ponies, Virginia Wester, 16, rode into Lubbock today with the intention of establishing a riding stable to pay her way through Texas Technological college.

Ten days ago she left her ranch home in the Sangre De Cristo mountain, 30 miles west of Las Vegas, N. M., with her nine ponies. She plans to establish her stable near the campus and rent the horses. College officials will aid her.

L. A. WAGENHALS, EVA FAY ARE DEAD; NOTABLES OF STAGE

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The theater lost two of its glamorous figures today with the death of Lincoln A. Wagenhals, Broadway producer, and Eva Fay, probably the best known of vaudeville mind readers.

Both had been in retirement for several years, but had planned returning to the theater.

Wagenhals, who was started on the road to success by a robber's bullet, died at the age of 52 at his home, Montrose-on-Hudson. He suffered an attack of pneumonia several days ago and failed to rally.

Eva Fay, daughter-in-law of the original mind reading Anna Eva Fay, died from injuries in an automobile accident that occurred while she was returning from a New York theater to her home in White Plains last night. She was 53.

It was back in 1906 that Wagenhals, then a low salaried manager, got his first "break" paradoxically enough by being shot in a box office holdup attempt. An insurance company paid him $5,000 for the injury.

He promptly took the money, and, with his partner, Collin Kemper, promoted the Astor theater on Broadway. It immediately became a "house of hits," and the firm of Wagenhals & Kemper rose to a leading position among the world's theatrical producers.

After having amassed fortunes, both Wagenhals and Kemper went into their second retirement several years ago. But Wagenhals insisted he would return when he found a suitable play.

Their first retirement ended in 1920, when they came back to produce successes such as "The Bat," "Spanish Love," and others.

Besides his widow, the former Hope Latham, actress, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Hannum of Columbus, O., where he was born.

It was a general slackening in vaudeville engagements, caused by the depression, that sent Eva Fay into what she hoped would be only temporary retirement two years ago.

Born near St. Louis, Mo., and educated in a convent, she had spent more than thirty years on the stage. She entered vaudeville after her marriage, about 1898, to John Fay, son of Anna Eva Fay, a mind reader.

When John Fay's mother retired his wife took her name and carried on the act, becoming famous throughout the United States, Canada, and Europe. Her husband died in San Francisco in 1901, and a few years later she was married to Hal Marlette, who had worked in her act. They were divorced.

Doctors Urge Veterans to Drop Project of Own U. S. Hospitals

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Announcement that the American Medical association would ask the American Legion to use its influence to halt the erection of veterans' hospitals was made here in a statement today by Dr. Thomas S. Cullen, a trustee of the association.

Dr. Cullen, Johns Hopkins Medical school professor, said, however, that the association does not plan to ask congress to abandon a policy of rendering hospital and medical benefits to veterans with disabilities not due to military service.

A resolution calling on congress and the American Legion to substitute a plan of disability insurance benefits for the policy of providing benefits for disabilities not incurred during military service was approved at a recent session of the medical association.

The last congress appropriated $20,800,000 for more veterans' hospitals.

Dr. Cullen said the approach to the Legion would be "in a very friendly spirit" and the proposal for a direct appeal to congress would be disregarded.

"The proposed veterans' hospitals will cost millions," Dr. Cullen said. "Much time and expense will be required to furnish surgeons and physicians equal to those in the existing hospitals, and in 30 or 40 years most of the veterans will have died and the veterans' hospitals will be of little further use."

Dr. Cullen said the government would be saved hundreds of millions of dollars by the plan approved by the medical association whereby disabled veterans would make use of existing hospitals, which he said "now have a hard time to meet expenses."

Tests Reveal Noises Fatigue Human Nerves

Scientist Also Says U. S. Diets Lack Lime.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Stuffing cotton in the ears is one way for a city dweller to deaden wear and tear on the nervous system from the roar of traffic and commerce. But it doesn't work so well if he misses a warning blast, and steps into eternity by arguing the right of way with an automobile. So Dr. Donald A. Laird, physiological psychologist of Colgate university at Hamilton, N. Y., proposed a different solution on his arrival here last night.

At his suite in the Palmer house, where he will spend a few days between engagements of a lecture tour, the jovial scientist discussed the experiments he has been conducting over the last few years, with the effects of noise on the body. And revealed that he intends to evolve a special diet to build up resistance to any clamor, which will also be beneficial in other ways for 90 per cent of the race.

"If you consume a lettuce sandwich at lunch, let us say," he illustrated, "you probably congratulate yourself on having absorbed the proper number of vitamins. Now the fact is, this country is too vitamin conscious. We'd be better off if we thought less about vitamins and more about different elements in our food.

"Suppose we add a chocolate malted milk to that lettuce sandwich. We then obtain a percentage of energy foods through the sugars in the milk. We raise the calcium metabolism of the body through the milk and the malt, and that, I may add, is an important matter. Much more important, say, than spinach, which is about the most overrated food there is. Lettuce, too. We expend a lot of energy chewing lettuce, which after all contains only one vitamin, and the rest is cellulose, which doesn't digest well.

"Calcium metabolism is one thing that is deficient in the American diet. Holland and Denmark both are above par in that regard. We are below par, especially in the winter time, when we don't eat sufficient eggs and other foods containing calcium.

"Our tests were undertaken partially because there was a real need for them, and partially because it was a field in which no one else was working. We have eight 'human guinea pigs,' as we call them—boys who hire themselves out by the hour and permit us to make tests on them for the effects of noise and fatigue. It's not a bad life. They thrive on it.

"For a while we had them sleeping in beds under which was a small motor attached to the springs, making a humming noise slightly above a conversational tone, and keeping up a vibration rather less than that of a railroad coach or a small steamer. Tests showed that the noise and fatigue left them with a dark brown taste in the mouth, due to the hum causing the moderate fear reaction in the subjects, and a slight paralysis of the digestive tract. They also had headaches and circles under the eyes which grew worse as the experiment proceeded.

"Then we tried experimenting with various foods to determine which would best answer the needs of the fatigued system. It developed that energy foods, or carbohydrates, had the most beneficial effects."

New Postal Rates Tie Up Mail to Canada, Britain, Erin

Large quantities of mail addressed to points in Canada, Newfoundland, Great Britain, northern Ireland, and the Irish Free State are being delayed in the foreign section of the Chicago postoffice because of the senders' unfamiliarity with the new postage rates to those countries.

ARTHUR LUEDER. [De Gueldre Photo.]

This was announced yesterday by Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder in explaining the new rates to those countries, which became effective on Sept. 1. The rates for Canada and Newfoundland, including Labrador, have been increased to:

Letters, for each ounce or fraction	3 cents
Postcards [single]	2 cents
Postcards [double]	4 cents

The new air mail rates for those countries, including postage, are:

For each ounce or fraction	6 cents
For each additional ounce or fraction	10 cents

The postage rates for Great Britain, northern Ireland, and the Irish Free State have been increased to:

Letters, for the first ounce or fraction	5 cents
Letters, for each additional ounce or fraction	3 cents
Postcards [single]	3 cents
Postcards [double]	6 cents

It is very important, Postmaster Lueder explained, that postage be prepaid in full on mail addressed to foreign countries, since articles on which it has not been fully prepaid are subject to special treatment, involving delay. Furthermore, he said, the deficiency in postage, double in most cases, may be refused by addressees.

WEDS HEIRESS

ELISHA DYER HUBBARD. [Associated Press Photo.]

Elisha D. Hubbard of Middletown, Conn., married Miss Muriel McCormick, daughter of Harold F. and Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago at Deep Cove, Me., Sept. 10. There were no attendants at the wedding, and guests were limited to immediate members of the families. The bride is a granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller. The ceremony was performed on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock of Chicago. The bride is 23 and the groom is 53.

Older Students to Guide Steps of Freshmen

Northwestern Ready with New System.

College careers for about 1,200 freshmen will start Monday morning at Northwestern university when the convocation is held at 8:30 o'clock in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The exercises will start freshman week, prior to the actual opening of the fall term on Sept. 21. Upper classmen, with the exception of some 200 group leaders appointed last spring, will not be represented on the campus during the first week.

Those upper class leaders have been assigned to groups of ten or twelve freshmen each. They will act as mentors and guides for the incoming class, both about the campus and in filling schedules of work, seeing that the freshmen attend the various mental and other tests and social affairs, and are advised about organizations.

At noon on Monday the entire freshman class will assemble for luncheon on the roof of the Orrington hotel in Evanston. The afternoon will be given over to mental tests and vocational conferences. Tuesday at noon separate luncheons will be held for the girls and the boys of the class. Monday evening the annual dance, sponsored by merchants of Evanston, will be held in Patten gymnasium, following the cap crowning ceremony under auspices of the student council.

At the University of Chicago, freshman week will open Sept. 24, and the autumn term will begin on Oct. 1. This year begins the new system of education on the Midway, under which examinations will be waived, and progress will depend more than ever upon the energy expended by the students. For the last five years the freshman class has been limited to 750. Already approximately 1,000 applications have been accepted for entrance.

An extended advisory system of deans will be put into operation during freshman week, and the new dormitory for men, accommodating 400, will be used for the first time, as the new students arrive. Another event of the initial days will be the psychological tests and the aptitude tests in English. Students revealing a weakness in that subject may be recommended for tutoring or for special courses.

Loyola university will try a new system in registering freshmen for the college of arts and sciences, in the north shore gymnasium on Monday. All advisors and faculty members will be seated at tables in the gym, where they easily may be consulted by the students in the making of schedules. It is believed that the registration can be done in one day by this plan, whereas before it took two, as the students had to go from one building to another.

About the same number of entrants are expected this year as last, when the college of arts enrolled 240 freshmen. In all schools of the institution, including the college of commerce, downtown, and those of medicine and dentistry on the west side, the freshman class totaled 1,090. Total enrollment for last year was 4,675.

A luncheon for the freshmen will be held in the Loyola cafeteria on Wednesday, which will be freshman day. Afterward a sightseeing trip will be given them.

Upper classmen at Loyola will register on the north shore campus on Tuesday and Wednesday. Classes will begin on Thursday. The medical school opens Sept. 30, the law school Sept. 21, the school of commerce on Monday, and that of dentistry on Oct. 4.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

While Constance Bennett paid her peeved respects to movie theater men who raised a recent outcry about her receipt of $30,000 a week, her father, Richard Bennett, stunned the working force at United Artists this week by suggesting that he must have been overpaid there for his first two weeks work on the new Helen Hayes-Ronald Colman film "Arrowsmith."

It seems Bennett really worked before the camera only about fifteen minutes in two weeks, and conveyed word to studio executives that he felt ashamed to take $2,500 a week for so little actual work. Bennett offered to throw in his services working some kind of a part in Gloria Swanson's picture, "Tonight or Never," if they had anything they wanted him to do, during the weeks he was receiving his high salary and just standing around.

Bella Bennett is to play Martha Washington in a film of the life of the father of his country, which private capital is backing in an effort to produce something which will compare with D. W. Griffith's "Lincoln" of the current year. The actor to play Washington is not yet chosen. Charles L. Forrester prepared the script and will supervise the production, which will lease studio space here when shooting is to commence.

Junior Durkin and Charlotte Henry, who played together and made a hit in "Huckleberry Finn," are cast together again in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which Paramount is to film shortly.

Speaking of local color: Don Dilloway walked onto the set at Columbia where he is to play a football player in "Men in Her Life," limping, with a gashed head, broken finger and a cracked rib. He and the girl friend, Dorothy Jordan, had been out automobiling and their car was hit by a truck. Miss Jordan was unhurt.

Personality of Wife Decisive Factor in Husband's Promotion

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Wives—some of them—have a habit of looking with envious eyes upon the accomplishments of their go-getting business sisters. Anyway, there are moments when they think their jobs as wives aren't so much in comparison with the work of a successful business woman.

Time and again they're heard to say in deprecation of their domestic duties: "But she accomplishes something. She has something to show for her work." The "she" being the woman out in the business world.

The wife's own influence as a factor for success in the business world probably never occurs to her. The fact that she may be studied and judged by her husband's employer as an important deciding factor in her husband's advance may be a foreign thought. Yet, in a current monthly, she might read how the head of the largest chain of department stores in the world feels on the subject of wives.

"We have always paid close attention to men's wives," he says. "Unless a man's wife is in complete sympathy with her husband, unless she is willing to go to some out of the way town and sacrifice for a few years, we are not interested in hiring him. . . . A wife who has complete confidence in her husband and heartens him with cheer and courage can go a long way toward banishing the blighting bugaboo of fear."

He is not the only big employer who figures on the "little woman" when he's figuring on the man for promotion. Nor is he the only employer who believes "a man's home is the cornerstone of his success," as the great department store founder puts it.

If the wife is there, then, with all the necessary character equipment to spur her man on to success, isn't she just as great a success as any business woman?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Two Sisters.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with the younger of two sisters. Must I include the sister when we wish to go out? A. L."

It is not necessary to invite the sister when you go out, but it would be thoughtful to include her in your outings occasionally.

Fine Sheen to Locks Results from General Hair Consciousness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

All that has to be done to insure an overwhelming improvement in a certain physical feature is that fashion limelight that feature. The history of the silhouette bears this out. The wholesale remaking of legs during the abbreviated skirt era is another evidence. And now hair is having things done to, by, and for it, with most satisfying all around results.

I'm thinking particularly of the advance in permanent waving—in the operation itself over the early days—but more particularly of the care the women themselves take of their hair, both in advance and following a permanent setting, with the consequence that often you are in doubt as to whether it is not a natural, large, loose wave in hair of excellent caliber.

Of all the ticklish hair business, permanent wave getting, outside of dyeing perhaps, is the most ticklish. Not through the fault of conscientious operators, but through women's own carelessness. Recklessness you may call it when a woman gets one permanent after another without any personal attention to her hair. Too, there are some bad permanent wave givers in the business whose chief object is to make a quick turnover, as seen in those many dried out, frizzy heads noted here and there. The standard of good work, however, is fairly high on the whole.

Then there is dyeing work. Simply ghastly sights you see as the one in front of me on the bus with the gray ends showing beneath a top coating of orange red henna. Possibly home done by a painfully amateurish hand. On the other hand, beautiful dyeing and bleaching jobs are done by expert workers.

And then the hair of girls in stores and offices! It's the exception to note a girl whose hair is not attractive both in texture and dressing.

So that when a woman does stand out from the multitude of cared for heads she is due for the severest form of criticism—and rightly, too.

Wedding and 4 Debuts Today on North Shore

BY THALIA——.

FROM 4 until 7 o'clock this afternoon traffic along the north shore will be fast and furious, with people dashing hither and yon to attend a wedding and four début parties.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Johnston and Conway Howard Olmsted of New York will plight their troth at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest. After the ceremony there will be a reception at the house of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. De Forest Hulburd.

The bride and groom will be attended by a large retinue of young men and women, most of whom have come from out of town or hurried home from vacations to take part in the service. The bride's cousin, Mrs. Willard N. Boyden, and her sister, Miss Ethel Johnston, will be matron and maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Eleanor McCormick, Miss Florence Crane, Miss Jean Stevens, Mrs. John Valentine, Miss Dorothy Ranney, and Mrs. Willis S. Gould of New York. Marie Louise Hulburd, the De Forest Hulburds' young daughter, will act as flower girl.

Henry Olmsted will be his brother's best man and the ushers will be the bride's brother, Hugh McBirney Johnston, Lawrence W. Dickey, Arthur A. Haughton, Robert O. Bishop, Orton P. Jackson, William P. Emmet, and Jacquelin A. Swords of New York; Peter Baldwin and William L. Elkins of Philadelphia; Richard Warren and Forester Clark of Boston; George S. Tiffany Jr. of St. Louis, and John W. Valentine and John H. Pierce of Chicago.

The groom's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Vance McCormick of Harrisburg, Pa., and his two sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haughton of Corning, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Nauman of Hartford, Conn., are here for the wedding and attended a family dinner at the Morris L. Johnstons' house last night.

Theodora Shaw's Among Debuts; Margaret Hamill's Another.

Miss Theodora Shaw, daughter of Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw, will make her formal bow to society this afternoon in the lovely gardens of Ragdale, her mother's Lake Forest estate. The debutante's sisters, Mrs. John T. McCutcheon and Mrs. Clay Judson, will receive with her and her mother, and in the background there will be a decorative corps of assisting buds, including Margaret Chapman, Alice May Dickinson, Patty McCormick, Jane Valentine, Chloe Watson, Eleanor Wheeler, Marjorie Horton, and Polly Perry.

In Winnetka this afternoon there will be the debut parties of Miss Margaret Hamill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Hamill and of Miss Marion Calkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Calkins. Both teas will be out of doors, and practically the same group of contemporary Winnetka debutantes will do double duty as assistants. Miss Calkins has an out of town house guest, Miss Mary Dean of New York.

Still another debutante of the day is Miss Catherine Pearson Molloy, who is to be presented by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Joseph Molloy, at a tea in Lake Forest. Miss Jane Wasey of New York City, and Miss Virginia Eaton of Akron, O., are here to augment Miss Molloy's group of assistants.

Few Spills Mar Horse Show's Opening at Fort Sheridan.

The opening program yesterday of the annual Fort Sheridan two day horse show included an interesting variety of events. There were enough exciting jumping classes to keep the audience constantly diverted and, although there were several spills, none was serious. Mrs. Thomas F. Van Natta Jr. fell during one of the morning events, but was up again immediately and rode in the next class.

Young Bobby Strom's performance in the "Touch and Out" class, which he won riding June Moon, was one of the highly applauded features of the afternoon. The Grab Bag class, in which the entrants, all women, drew lots to determine which of the 14th cavalry troop horses each would ride, was won by Miss Elizabeth Chase, riding Jiggs. Mrs. William R. Odell Jr. was second on Monk. The triple bar jump was won by Frank Cox's Wayte-A-Whyle, on which Miss Laura Sprague rode. John T. Pirie's entry was first in the Team of Three Hunters class; Libby Chase's entry was second; troop A, 14th cavalry's, third; Frank Cox's entry, fourth. Maj. Gen. Frank G. Parker's bay, Ampere, was first in the officers' chargers class, and Capt. C. E. Davis' placed second.

The horse show audience was colorful, in summery attire suitable for the blazing hot day. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter S. Crosley of Great Lakes occupied one of the center boxes, with Mrs. Scott Durand, wearing pink crêpe and a large black garden hat, and Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, in oyster white, black, and chartreuse green sports clothes, as their guests.

Others in the boxes included the Benjamin Leslie Behrs, Lieut. and Mrs. John Hinton and their three youngsters, Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson, her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Spencer; Mrs. James Minotto, Mrs. Samuel J. Walker; Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., wearing a white eyelet frock and a large white linen hat piped in red; Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, her daughter, Mrs. Ronald Boardman; Mrs. Allen Ripley, and the Robert S. Piries.

Returning Travelers and Some About to Start on Trips.

One thing and another . . . Mrs. William H. Bush and her daughter, Miss Carol Bush, motored back from the Wianno club at Wianno on Cape Cod, arriving day before yesterday. . . . The Ladies of the Consuls of Chicago are to have their first fall meeting and luncheon next Tuesday at the Lake Shore Athletic club. . . . Miss Barbara Bullard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sellar Bullard of Highland Park and Miss Janet Bard, daughter of the Ralph Bards of Highland Park, are to sail today with Miss Bullard's aunt, Mrs. L. J. Knight of Santa Barbara, Cal., for a motor trip in England and Wales, after which the girls are to enter the Chateau de Groslay school just outside of Paris for the winter. Caroline Bullard is to return to Wells college on the 22d. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graf are to give a debut tea for their daughter, Miss Barbara, on Nov. 11 at the Woman's Athletic club, and a ball at the Blackstone on Dec. 30. . . . Mrs. Claude Burnham of Kenilworth and her sons, David and Philip Burnham, sail today on the Empress of France for Europe. Mrs. Burnham to remain for about a year. . . . Mrs. Oliver Dennett Grover has returned to her studio at 151 East Ontario street after a seven weeks' motor trip with her sisters, Mrs. Edwin C. Bolton of Detroit and Mrs. Nicholas Lehnen of St. Paul, Minn.

Chloe Watson Makes Debut in Garden of Winnetka Home.

Miss Chloe Watson wore a pale blue crêpe and lace frock for her debut tea yesterday afternoon in the gardens of the Cornelius B. Watson's residence in Winnetka. Her assistants included Miss Virginia de Vilbiss of Toledo, and the Misses Valerie and Frances Depew of Bloomfield, Mich., who were her classmates at Miss Hall's school, and a dozen north shore debutantes who are to be presented this month.

Mrs. I. Newton Perry, just back from a summer stay in northern Michigan, is undertaking the job of spreading publicity about the annual St. Luke's fashion show to be held on Oct. 20. She reports that many of the committee chairmen are at work already. Mrs. John W. Gary is general chairman of the show, and the assisting committees and chairmen include Mrs. Walter B. Wolfe, exhibitors; Mrs. John J. Mitchell, tickets; Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and Mrs. Gardiner Hammond, boxes; Mrs. E. I. Cudahy and Mrs. Chauncey Borland, tea and dinner; Mrs. William L. Hodgkins and Mrs. Harold C. Smith, properties; Mrs. Raymond Ashcraft, flowers. Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr. is co-chairman of publicity with Mrs. Perry.

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. James Gamble Rogers of New York City and Black Point, Conn., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine Gamble Rogers, to De Forest Van Slyck, son of Mrs. James Lincoln Ashley of New York.

Miss Rogers is the granddaughter of Albert M. Day of Lake Forest and of the late Joseph M. Rogers and has a wide circle of friends in Chicago. She attended the Chapin school and was graduated from Vassar in 1924. She is a member of the New York Junior league and holds an executive position in the Association of Junior Leagues of America. Her father is one of the leading architects of New York and is well known for his work at Yale.

Mr. Van Slyck attended the Taft school and was graduated from Yale in 1920. He was a member of Skull and Bones and Delta Kappa Epsilon.

The marriage of Miss Helen Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Howell, to John Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Ludington Barnes, will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the Howell apartment on Lake View avenue. Miss Howell's cousin, Miss Virginia Faulkner of Omaha, Neb., will be her maid of honor, and Miss Christy Mann, Miss Betty Kellogg, and Miss Jane Lucey are to be bridesmaids. Nelson L. Barnes Jr. will be best man for his brother, and the ushers will be Ezra Warner Jr., Edwin Faulkner, and Summitt Boone of New York.

TO TRAVEL IN ENGLAND

MRS. THOMAS M'DONNELL SMYTH.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark Emery announce the marriage of their daughter, Marion, to Thomas McDonnell Smyth. The ceremony was performed last Tuesday at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, with Msgr. Joseph Casey officiating. A breakfast followed at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Smyth are to spend their honeymoon in England.

Vanderbilt Heiress Weds by Civil Rites

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church was married again today. In the quietest of wedding ceremonies at the Manhasset, L. I., estate of her mother, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, the divorced wife of Frederick Cameron Church Jr. of Boston became the bride of Henry Delafield Phelps, a bond salesman of Providence, R. I.

MRS. H. D. PHELPS.

Only members of the two families and a few friends were on hand. The bride was given away by her brother, William K. Vanderbilt, who hurried home from Paris only the other day to be present at the ceremony.

Mr. Phelps' father, Edgar Morris Phelps of Newport, was best man and there were no bridal attendants and no ushers. Supreme Court Justice Lewis L. Fawcett performed the ceremony, which, civil in nature, was devoid of religious significance.

It had been rumored that Mrs. Church, who was reared in the Catholic faith, had tried to have the rota annul her marriage to Church so that her present marriage could be performed by a priest, but this report was never confirmed. Mr. Phelps and his family are Episcopalians.

Mrs. Church is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Vanderbilt and of Mr. William K. Vanderbilt, who married Mrs. Rosemond Lancaster Warburton following his divorce, and she is a sister of Mrs. Earl E. T. Smith, who with her husband is on a world cruise with her father and stepmother.

Mrs. Church, like her mother, has her own stable, and is a frequent exhibitor at the horse shows held in various parts of the country.

The bride is a direct descendant of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of that family in this country, and a granddaughter of the late William K. Vanderbilt and the present Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, now living abroad. On the maternal side she is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Graham Fair of California. She is a niece of Mrs. Louis Jacques Balsan of Paris, the former Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, whose first husband was the present duke of Marlborough.

Connie Bennett and the Marquis Pause in City

Constance Bennett, billed in the movies as "the golden flame of the silver screen," followed her usual custom of remaining in bed while her private car moved through Chicago yesterday, prospective interviewers being given that explanation when they asked to see her.

Aboard the train, however, was the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray, ex-husband of Gloria Swanson.

More New Artists for Chicago Opera, Word from Gotham

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Paolo Marion of La Scala in Milan, is a new tenor to be heard for the first time in Chicago this season with the Civic Opera, it was said here today. The Chicago opera season, it was declared, will open on Nov. 2, the same night as the Metropolitan.

Other new singers in addition to those recently announced are said to include Iva Pasetti, Wilma Bonifield, Marie Buddy, Lydia Mihm, and Leola Turner, sopranos; Conchita Supervia, Louise Bernhardt, and Helen Ornstein, contraltos and mezzo-sopranos; Vittorio Damiani and Augusto Beufo, baritones, and Sergio Benoni, bass.

The Americans in this group are Bonifield, Buddy, Mihm, Turner, Bernhardt, and Ornstein. Miss Bernhardt won first prize in the contest of the American Federation of Music clubs this year. Miss Mihm, Miss Turner, and Miss Ornstein won European scholarships awarded by the Chicago Civic Opera company, through which each received two years of training abroad.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. E. Gann will be the guest of honor at a bridge luncheon to be given by the Republican Women's league of the District of Columbia next Monday at the Wardman Park hotel. Mrs. Gann will go to Pittsburgh to be the honor guest at the meeting of the Republican Women's clubs of western Pennsylvania Sept. 25.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hard will announce on Sunday the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Gerard Kersopp Lake of New York. Mr. Lake is a son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Kersopp Lake of Cambridge, Mass. Dr. Lake is professor of ecclesiastical history at Harvard university. The wedding will take place early in October.

BRITISH BISHOP HERE MONDAY WITH YANKEE CHURCH PARLEY GROUP

Dignitaries and laity of the Episcopal church on their way to the general convention in Denver, Colo., will spend a day in Chicago on Monday and will be entertained at a luncheon given by the Church club of Chicago at the Hotel Sherman.

Heading the list of guests will be the Rt. Rev. Michael Bolton Furse, lord bishop of St. Alban's, England, who will be the principal speaker. Among other speakers will be George W. Wickersham, former United States attorney general and chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission. Mr. Wickersham is a delegate to the convention from New York.

Representing Mayor Cermak on the program will be Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, and Bishop George Craig Stewart. The latter has just returned from Europe and will speak on behalf of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago. Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson will represent the Chicago churchwomen.

100,000 Attend Movie Carnival in Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Headed by Harold Lloyd, film comedian, a galaxy of Hollywood's foremost movie luminaries marshaled into a mobile electrical extravaganza, paraded tonight into Olympic stadium before more than 100,000 spectators.

With five hundred other members of the movie colony in "ringside" seats, it was 'the greatest collection of screen talent ever exposed en masse to the public gaze.

Home Made Blocks May Afford Hours of Joy for Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

For the inexperienced mother it is necessary to stress again and again, the importance of grading children's toys to suit their ages. Many a crying spell or tantrum, much irritability and apparent lack of perseverance are traceable to the fact that toys are too difficult for a child's degree of manual skill and for his judgment. The following letter points this up:

"I was especially interested in your article about the little boy who cried when he couldn't build with his complicated set of blocks. My oldest boy was 2 last December and among the toys that he received at Christmas were two sets of toys. He could make a wheel or some small thing with one, and pile the logs of the latter, but that was all, and he soon lost most of the parts of both sets. I didn't realize then that he was too young to use them, but I do now.

"Maybe this will interest you. My husband had some strips of wood seven-eighths of an inch thick and two inches wide. He cut out some blocks [about 75 blocks in all] about 15 blocks 2 inches square; 35 blocks 4 inches by 2 inches and ¾ inches thick of course; and the rest were 8 inches by 2 inches. The two older boys [they are four and nearly three now] play with them almost continually. They make streets for their little dime store machines to run on; stairs, bridges, and simple buildings. I have never seen any blocks in the stores that are like these for small children.

"All the children who play with mine ask them to bring their blocks and trucks out in the yard, so it is plain they all enjoy them."

The part of this letter devoted to the description of the blocks I think is especially valuable. We too have made our own blocks and found it successful. Just be sure that they are sawed absolutely true.

All-Day-Round Clothes Show Parisian Touch

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is getting in step with the business woman and creating clothes that can see the day around in chic. Over here the tendency of the big dressmakers is to divide and subdivide styles into about as many hours as there are in the day, but the avant garde couturiers realize that, no matter how many different types of clothes they concoct, women generally wear simple practical clothes all-day-round.

Lucien Lelong is one to devise these practical outfits, and one of them is shown in our sketch. For the girl who can have just one coat, the one sketched couldn't be bettered. It is made of wool with an indefinite pattern in green and black, so that it looks right for early morning and just as good for afternoon. The black astrakhan fur trimming helps this. It is applied in a wide collar that may be closed to the neck, as shown, or worn open in big revers.

It is also used to widen the sleeves from elbows to wrists, with a narrow band across the top of the sleeves and a belled piece at the back. The cut of the coat is straight in effect, but slightly flared below the hip pockets. A belt of self-material holds the waistline.

Under this is worn the simplest of green crêpe frocks, with a cut that proclaims it the handiwork of a great dressmaker. At the V-neckline there is a white piqué collar, notched half way down. And a white piqué belt adds supplementary daintiness. This kind of frock is worn from gray dawn to gray dusk in Paris.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Reaching for the Chicken.

I recently attended a large family reunion. I was not acquainted with all present. Thinking I would look around for more food and seeing a plate of fried chicken, I reached over and took a piece, and just as I went to reach for a piece for my mother a member of the party I was with informed me that part of the table represented an entirely different group, another reunion. Food Talk

What creatures of habit we are! A few years ago such a drink as tomato juice was unknown. Now, in almost every household you encounter it at breakfast, luncheon, or dinner.

Mrs. K. and Mrs. S. W. M. have written me requesting a recipe they can apply to fresh tomatoes. The one given below may be made from either fresh or canned tomatoes, so you can have tomato juice in your home the year 'round.

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL.
1 pint of tomato juice
½ tsp. of pepper
½ tsp. of salt
½ tsp. of sugar
3 tsps. of lemon juice
4 drops of tabasco sauce

For fresh tomatoes: Skin tomatoes and rub through a sieve to obtain the juice. For canned tomatoes the same method of crushing and straining the tomato is used. Then put the ingredients together in a glass jar or bottle and shake thoroughly. Keep in the refrigerator and serve chilled or with ice cubes. Garnish with tiny wedges of lemon.

Tomato juice as an introduction to a meal performs miracles with a lagging appetite. It is frequently substituted for orange juice on the breakfast menu and proves an equal of the latter in nutriments. Children who prove difficult to feed or those who are ever ravenous enjoy a cool glass of tomato juice. When you make it for them, some of the condiments should be omitted such as the tabasco sauce and pepper.

Tomato juice seasoning is variable and may be added to or subtracted from according to the likes and dislikes of your own family.

FINNAN HADDIE RABBIT.
1 tbsp. of butter
1 tsp. of cornstarch
¾ cup of sweet milk
1 cup of cheese
¼ tsp. of salt
¾ tsp. of mustard
1 cup of flaked finnan haddie [cooked or canned]

Melt the butter, add the cornstarch, and when it is smooth add the milk slowly. Stir and cook two minutes. Add the cheese cut in small pieces; stir until the cheese is melted and add the fish. As soon as it is heated serve on toast or waffles.

RICE BAVARIAN CREAM.
1 tbsp. of gelatin
¼ cup of sugar
1 cup of cream or evaporated milk
¼ tsp. of salt
½ cup of cold water
1 tsp. of vanilla
1 cup of cooked rice

Soak the gelatin in cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Mix the sugar, salt, vanilla, and rice together; add the gelatin and beat well. Cool. When it begins to thicken, add the whipped cream. Turn into a wet mold or pile in individual glasses. Serve with chocolate sauce. Yield: Six servings.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The slenderizing lines of this dress will be becoming to the matronly figure, and the new skirt with its clever diagonal lines helps to reduce hip width. The cross-over bodice has an applied band trimming, giving a flat line becoming to the larger figure. Printed silk crêpe, crêpe satin, and Canton faille crêpe are smart suggestions.

The pattern, 3173, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting and ⅛ yard of 3 inch wide lace.

EICHER FAMILY POSSESSIONS SOLD AT AUCTION

Dog Stays with Woman Who Befriended It.

The household effects of the slain Eicher family went on the auction block yesterday at their former home in Park Ridge as the public administrator prepared to close up the estate. In the presence of 400 neighbors and friends of Mrs. Asta Eicher and her three children, the articles left behind by Harry Powers when he looted the place were put up for sale.

The highest price of the afternoon was $250, paid for an eight piece willow ware china set. A monogrammed set of 95 pieces brought only $17. Dolls, boxing gloves, small dresses, twelve suits of boy's clothing, 25 chairs, 10 tables, more than 300 books, a set of Danish scenes worked in needlepoint by Mrs. Eicher, and a number of oil paintings, also her own work, went to purchasers crowding the rooms. Some bought mementoes of their old friends, others out of curiosity, as souvenirs, and still others because of real values offered.

Dog Stays with Friend.

There was a burst of applause when "Doody," the children's small bulldog, was turned back to Mrs. A. N. Newhall of Park Ridge, after bidding for him had reached $10. Mrs. Newhall had kept the dog since the day Powers took the children away with him to their deaths in West Virginia.

Simultaneously with the auction, a list of thirty-three women in the Chicagoland area arrived in Chicago, to be checked for possible further information about the activities of Powers.

Names from Magazine.

The names were taken from a copy of "Cupid's Columns," a matrimonial magazine published by Henry Jashn, 944 East Fourth street, St. Paul. Included among the 200 advertisements it contained was one from Miss Ella Belle Strothers, Powers' sister-in-law.

A copy of "Cupid's Columns" of Dec. 20, 1927, was turned over to Sheriff W. B. Grimm of Clarksburg, containing Miss Strothers' appeal for letters from men "of ample means," for matrimonial purposes only. Miss Strothers also had joined the Wedding Bells club of Boston.

LETTERS TO CHILDREN

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A letter in purple ink, found among Harry F. Powers' effects by city police today, reveals the ghastly story of how the mail order Romeo, after luring Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, to her death, used the mother's name to draw her three children to destruction.

Comparison with other specimens of Mrs. Eicher's handwriting proves that the letter is either a forgery or that it was written by the mother under conditions of great mental stress, police say. Whichever may prove to be the case, the hand of Powers is seen behind the letter. Either he composed it himself or Mrs. Eicher, locked in a dungeon room of the Quiet Dell garage, wrote the letter at Powers' dictation.

Postmarked from Clarksburg.

The letter is postmarked from Clarksburg at 9:30 p. m., June 28, 1931, proving that Mrs. Eicher was in this city on or before that date. Three postcards also discovered by officers today, were sent by Mrs. Eicher to her children June 26 from Zanesville, O., at 11 p. m. This indicates, officers say, that Mrs. Eicher and Powers stayed overnight in Zanesville and came to West Virginia the next day.

The full text of the letter to Grethe Eicher is as follows:

"Grethe, darling:

"Mr. Pierson is coming after you children. I have told him what to do, dear, so you can do as he says.

"I will wait for you here and when you get here, we can all go to our new home. Love. MOTHER."

Postcards to Children.

Three postcards sent from Zanesville, O., were addressed to Mrs. Eicher's three children and are written in black ink, whereas the letter of June 28 is written in purple ink. The messages on the cards are as follows:

Card addressed to Miss Grethe Eicher:

"Darling—

"Mother is lonesome for you, next time you go along. Love.

"MOTHER."

Card addressed to Master Harry Eicher:

"My boy—

"How I wish you were with me, mother worrys over you—darling. Pierson misses you. MOTHER."

Card addressed to Miss Annabelle Eicher:

"Sugar—

"Will be so glad to have you kick me again; I miss you. Love.

"MOTHER."

Sister-in-Law's Advertisement.

An advertisement inserted by Miss Eva Belle Strother, Powers' sister-in-law, in "Cupid's Columns" follows:

"517—Clarksburg, W. Va., refined American lady of the highest class, desires correspondence for matrimony only. Age 44; ht. 5-4; wt. 110; brown hair, blue eyes, very intelligent, good cook and housekeeper and a good business woman. Have a piano and considerable means. Will marry as soon as suited. File Bankruptcy Action Against Auto Dealers

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy naming Charles Lange & Bros., auto dealers at 2626 Milwaukee avenue, was filed in the United States District court yesterday by the law firm of Keesler, Tobin & Miller. Three minor creditors with claims totaling $3,000 were responsible for the petition, it was said. The lawyers said the firm has $210,000 in mortgages it cannot meet, five pieces of property in default, and has had two foreclosures entered against it recently.

THRICE ARRESTED

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Beatrice Kirk, daughter of Walter R. Kirk, wealthy soap manufacturer, was arrested three times yesterday for speeding, each time by the same officer, Chief of Police Frank Druba of Libertyville. "I arrested her for going 65 miles an hour," he said. "The first time I stopped her, the second time she boomed by my motorcycle at the same speed and I gave her another slip, but the third time she did the same thing I decided to take her to the station." The young woman will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. C. Hoskins in Libertyville this afternoon. She was set at liberty on a total of $90 in bonds.

FRANCE SHOWS MAC ARTHUR NEW WARFARE STYLES

U. S. Chief Sees Sham Battle of 50,000.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RHEIMS, France, Sept. 11.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the American army, came back to the front today to study at first hand the changes in the art of war which have occurred in the 13 years since he was a combat leader himself at Champagne, Aisne, and other actions not far from these parts.

Long before daylight he will be out among the rolling hills which border the Aisne river where, since Thursday, 50,000 French troops, divided into approximately equal armies, have been pitted against each other in a sham battle. He will accompany Gen. Maxime Weygand, brilliant strategist who during the war was Marshal Foch's chief of staff and who today is commander in chief of the French forces.

Transport Troops by Plane.

By all accounts, the battle which Gen. MacArthur and Gen. Weygand will watch tomorrow will have something revolutionary to show in the way of military tactics. It is reported here that as a decisive phase of the maneuvers there will be attempted large scale movements of troops by transport airplanes — the first time this has been done in Europe on a real wartime scale.

In addition Gen. Weygand will exhibit to his American guest the whole bag of military tactics which European generals think foreshadow the strategy of the next war, when and if fought. The most modern weapons known to military science will be employed in the battle. There will be tanks, motorized machine guns and artillery, and hitherto untried chemical and mechanical engines, particularly motorized gas spraying apparatus, to which the French attach great importance.

Will Test Mechanical Defense.

A second series of maneuvers which start Monday after a day of rest is expected to be even more interesting and spectacular. In these maneuvers, instead of having two armies of equal size confronting each other, there will be a demonstrotion of how a small body of 5,000 troops backed by mechanical arms and a large air force can slow down if not stop the advance of an attacking army ten times its size.

Gen. MacArthur arrived here from Cherbourg accompanied by his aide, Capt. Thomas Davis. They had been met at Cherbourg by Brig. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, military attaché at the Paris embassy, and his assistants. Gen. MacArthur and his aides motored to Rheims, where they put in some time poring over maps with Gen. Claudel.

$125,000 Fire Destroys Calumet Chemical Plant

Investigation was begun yesterday into the cause of the fire which destroyed the plant of the D. G. Chemical company, Inc., 610 West State street, Calumet City. The damage was estimated at more than $125,000 by F. L. Lofgren, 6042 Kenwood evenue, president of the company. He said there was no insurance. Three one story brick structures and the office building were destroyed. The origin of the blaze, which started early yesterday morning, was not determined. Huge drums of lacquer and chemicals exploded spectacularly as the fire departments of Calumet City and Hammond fought the flames for four hours.

Tells Judge He Planned Suicide for Two Years

Morris Tercher, 26 years old, 2219 North Rockwell street, pondered over suicide for two years before he tried to drown himself on Thursday night in a lagoon in Humboldt park, and was stopped by a policeman, Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey was told yesterday. Tercher explained he was heavily in debt as a result of gambling losses and he wanted his creditors to have the proceeds of a $5,000 life insurance policy. A charge of disorderly conduct was dismissed when he promised to make no more attempts on his life.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 11.—The White Sox began their drive for the American league pennant at the Yankee stadium this afternoon when they swept a single header with the Yankees, 3 to 1, before a yawning multitude of 1,500 customers.

BILLY SULLIVAN.

The White Sox were unable to gain on the Red Sox, who are in eighth place and in the midst of a one game pennant drive of their own, as the Boston team won from the Tigers. However, the White Sox maintained their lead of one and one-half games over the Red Sox and it is probable that a dramatic showdown between the ambitions of the two clubs will occur in the crucial series between the two Sox, the White and Red, which starts in Boston Sunday.

The Going Must Get Tough.

The White Sox by the subtlest strategy saved their sprint for the championship until September when the leaders would have worn themselves out making the pace, and at the present writing are only a matter of some 43 games behind the Athletics and coming along with a rush. The Athletics are not only exhausted from defending the lead, but are suffering badly from leg fractures, internal injuries and nerves; so it is possible that the White Sox will make history in their current swing around the eastern zone of the American league.

The Athletics are not money players and it is doubtful that they can hold together in the face of a determined challenge from the White Sox, who do not begin to play their best until the going is hardest. If they should fall on this tour it will only mean that the going has not been made hard enough to inspire them to put forth their best fighting efforts. The going is pretty hard, to be sure, but they may like it just a little tougher, in which case they might continue to lie back of the pace and let the leaders exhaust themselves some more.

LOTT TO MEET VINES IN FINAL OF U. S. TENNIS

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Two sets down at one time and the sets rapidly playing out on him, Ellsworth Vines Jr., lanky Pasadena youngster, proved his fighting heart today by coming back to defeat Frederick J. Perry, British ace, in five furious sets and enter the finals of the golden jubilee national tennis tournament.

As a result of his refusal to accept defeat, the 19-year-old coast star to morrow will have his chance at the title relinquished today by John Hope Doeg, the Newark left hander, who took a crushing beating from George Lott Jr. of Philadelphia in the other semi-final, 7-5, 6-3, 6-0.

Vines, playing erratically, looked like anything but a future champion as he dropped the first two sets to Perry, but recovered himself to play good tennis in the third and then became a whirlwind toward the last. The final score was 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

12,000 Watch Play.

The final set saw the crowd of 12,000 in a constant uproar as Vines, increasing his pace, served with terrific speed and drove one placement after another by the wilting Perry. So effective was his play that he ran up a lead of five-one in games before Perry checked the onslaught and won a pair. Then the coast stripling, just to clinch the argument, sent over a series of fast shots that broke Perry's service and closed the match.

Their spectacular struggle recompensed the gallery for Doeg's disappointing showing against Lott. Apparently spent by his hard-earned victory over Frank Shields yesterday, the Newark southpaw gave the Philadelphian but feeble opposition after the opening set. He couldn't hold even his famed cannon ball service against the calm, sure-stroking Lott and never looked like a winner. He did not score a single placement in the final set as Lott put on the finishing touches.

Perry Seems Winner.

Victor over Vines in the international team matches last week, Perry gave every indication he would repeat as he ran off the first two sets. He was playing a steady, conservative game from the base line and letting the American drive them out. Vines looked his worst in the second set, when he lost his service twice and drove 21 balls out of bounds.

The turning point came in the fifth game of the third set when, after each had won two games on service, Vines suddenly began getting his fierce drives in the court and broke Perry's delivery. Gaining confidence, he continued to shoot them past the Englishman and ran out the set.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Recent mention was made in your column of a former building on the site of the present Monadnock block. It was a one story frame structure occupied by the Merchants Parcel Delivery company, the first package delivery company organized in Chicago, or anywhere else, to deliver packages for 10 cents. It was at 93-100 West Jackson street. I was one of the officers.

We started the company in 1881 before Dearborn was opened through to Van Buren street. La Salle was known in those days as Pacific avenue, nicknamed "Biler" avenue. We occupied the whole block, using the front for an office and the rear for a warehouse and sorting station, keeping our wagons on a lot in the rear and our horses in the basement.

We sold our lease to Aldis, Aldis & Norcott, a firm which came from England and engaged in the real estate business. It represented the Brooke estate of Boston and built the present Monadnock block. We moved in 1892 into a large warehouse as 341-349 South La Salle, built for us by Lazarus Silverman, one of the first private bankers in Chicago.

Achievement.

Though yet the turnstiles click,
And teams that won the year before
Again have turned the trick.

The Cubs have dropped to fourth again
When I thought they'd be on top;
And in spite of all the hopeful talk
The Sox have been a flop.

I really must confess
That I think the recent season
Has been a great success.

The reason for my cheerful mood
May not be clear to all—
But after years of watching game
I caught a stand foul ball. Wilyum.

"Comeback" Champions.

Former Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey and former Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard are going through the motions of "building up" by upsetting "setups" in their comeback campaigns. On the theory that both need the purse from a major engagement, none may begrudge them their decision. Otherwise, one would prefer to remember achievements of their prime.

In the second Tunney fight here in Chicago, that of the "long count," Dempsey nearly disproved the sport adage, "They can't come back." It was a remarkable exhibition. But that was four years ago. Dempsey hardly can have improved physically since. Jack's popularity is such, however, that he would be a drawing card if fans thought he was in anything approaching condition.

Looking back for a parallel to the second Tunney-Dempsey bout, we find that Jim Corbett, after losing his title to Bob Fitzsimmons in 1897, made a "comeback" effort three years later against Jim Jeffries, who had taken the crown from Fitz. For 22 rounds Corbett evaded and outpointed Jeff. Then with a decision and the title in sight he received a body blow in the 23d round which ended title dreams and produced knockout dreams.

PANSY WALKER'S RUSH CAPTURES WACKER DRIVE

BY FRENCH LANE.

It's too bad Pansy Walker, the fleet filly from the Three D stable of Texas is not in the $5,000 Steger handicap to be run at Lincoln Fields this afternoon. A year ago Pansy romped home in this stake after running one of the fastest miles of the season.

Yesterday she won the Wacker Drive purse, feature on the day's Lincoln Fields program. And she won it by five lengths in a way to indicate she might have repeated in the Steger today had she been eligible.

However, it will be a long time before those that trailed her home yesterday will forget how she smothered them with her speed when she started running in the stretch.

Wins by Five Lengths.

Fast Martha Jones and such a fleet fellow as Eskimo had been leading Pansy Walker in the earlier stages. Cheers also was up there for a time and Pansy was back in fourth place.

As they rounded the turn, the leaders went a trifle wide. They left an opening wide enough for Pansy Walker to skim through. When she started her rush forward she left no doubt about who was going to win the race. She stepped far away from the others and pulled out into a lead of five lengths toward the finish. Then she took things easy.

She was ridden by the youngster P. Dyer. Martha tried desperately to catch Pansy Walker, but it was to no avail although she saved second money. Justinian was third. Pansy ran the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5. She had been a top heavy favorite and paid $3.50 for a two dollar ticket.

Long Shots Score Three Times.

The first one came after the running of the 2 year old race which opened the program. At the end of a six furlong contest, Memorandum, a daughter of In Memoram, was a head in front of Anita's Pal with Catherine Fox, the favorite, running third. Memorandum paid $66.48 to win, $27.60 to place, and $10.38 to show.

The long shot players who didn't get rich on that one had another chance in the Forest Park purse, also a dash of six furlongs for 2 year olds, which was third on the program. This time the long shot was the juvenile, Brave and Bold, owned by Walter J. Salmon of New York.

He was meeting the best field he had ever faced and it wasn't any wonder the so called wise players deserted him, leaving only a few long shot sharpshooters to root him home.

Two Spills Mar Program.

The little long shot group cheered long and loud when Brave and Bold paid $51.58 to win, $15.34 to place, and $7.68 to show. Chatter Queen was the favorite. In the sixth race Morocco, paying $47.78, further enriched the get rich quick gentry.

Spills came in both the first and second races. Brush Down fell with Jockey Earl Pool soon after the start of the first. In the second race Volta Maid stumbled early in the struggle, sending her rider, J. Gianelloni, sprawling into the dusty track. Pool was injured so severely he was unable to ride later in the afternoon.

Maneikis, Please Write Stagg; You Have Broken Arm

Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago has a message of importance for Walter Maneikis, one of his tackle prospects, if he can locate the player. Coach Stagg wants to tell Maneikis that he has a broken arm.

Maneikis more than a week ago fell downstairs in the dark while visiting in Michigan and on Tuesday returned to Chicago. Meeting Mr. Stagg, he informed the Maroon coach that the fall had sprained his wrist.

On the latter's advice, however, Maneikis went to the student health service and had an X-ray taken. The plates when developed showed a fracture, but efforts to locate Maneikis since have been unsuccessful and the tackle is unaware of the seriousness of the injury.

SIREN CAPTURES FIRST RACE FOR LUTZ Q TROPHY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Siren, the Karas brothers' smart sloop from the Chicago Yacht club, wooed the winds off Jackson Park harbor yesterday with just the right kind of a dance to win the first race in the tenth annual series for the Lutz trophy, competition which is restricted to Q boats. Princess, owned by Ed Jedzrykowski and Carl Kallgren of the Jackson Park Yacht club, and Intruder, property of John and James O'Rourke, also from the home port, finished second and third, respectively.

S. B. King's Chaperon, another Jackson Park representative, was disqualified for crossing the starting line a bit too hastily, but sailed the full distance.

Siren, which captured the racing prize in the 331 battle to Mackinac island in July, is seeking her third straight victory in the Lutz series, and appears to be in a fair way of succeeding. Prior to the start of the race yesterday te experts ashore allowed that the north side boat should win the opening race, what with the prevailing light airs, and Skipper Ole Karas made no mistake about taking her to the front and keeping her there to the finish.

Rivals Have Good Chance.

Siren hasn't won the Lutz cup yet, however, since Princess and Intruder are both former winners of the trophy and still have plenty of opportunity to beat or at least tie the Karas entry in the two remaining races. Today's argument will be decided on a windward and leeward basis, granting that the winds freshen, and the final race tomorrow will be sailed over a triangular course.

Princess, Intruder and Chaperon were considerably embarrassed at the starting line yesterday, each being a bit too eager to be under way, while the cautious Siren hung back astern at a respectful distance. Chaperon's crew apparently didn't realize the situation, for she headed out into the lake in pursuit of Siren. Princess and Intruder meanwhile turned back for a proper start, and in so doing almost came to simultaneous grief. The former cut across Intruder's bow, and they jostled each other momentarily, Princess losing some of her complexion during the scuffle. They finally got away, however, with Princess having the advantage.

Siren Gets 4 Points.

Siren's time for the 12 miles journey was 1 hour 45 minutes and 12 seconds. Princess turned the course in 1:47:49, while Intruder was clocked in 1:51:50. Siren now leads in the point standing with 4 to Princess' 3 and Intruder's 2.

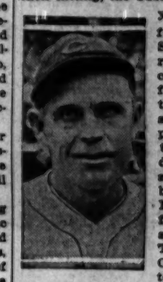
Bases on balls—Smith, 3; Dudley, 5. Struck out—Smith, 4; Dudley, 2. Wild pitch—Dudley. Umpires—Magerkurth and Reardon. Time—1:58.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Although not exactly vicious in their hitting, the Cubs did just enough yesterday to furnish Robert Smith with the runs he needed to chalk up his fourteenth victory of the season. The runs appeared one at a time in three different innings and served to bowl over the Phillies, 3 to 1, for the second straight time. That gave the Chicagoans a 13 to 8 edge on the season with a chance that the record can be improved in the final between the two teams today.



BOB SMITH.

Smith, who works cautiously and usually succeeds despite no apparant abundance of stuff on the ball, could be coaxed into yielding only five hits. And the Phils are notorious for the power of their attack. The hit total in itself is impressive enough, but the performance as a whole is doubly so when you consider that three of the safeties were crowded into one inning. After that the only real trouble Smith encountered was brought on by misues in his defense.

Herman's Bat Helps.

Young Herman, the $50,000 second baseman from Louisville, was prominent with his bat, even though the cunning Clise Dudley was an all around annoyance. The youngster singled once, doubled once and walked once. The double was the most valuable of his contributions. It became a run, thereby breaking a 1 to 1 tie, when Hornsby, in response to a welcoming hand from the thousands of women guests, ripped off a single. Herman drove in the previous Cub tally with a fly ball. These two were enough to win, but just to keep their record clear the Phils made the Bruins a present of one in the eighth.

Phil Collins, the butcher boy proprietor who never gives the Cubs a bargain, will pitch against them in the final today. Guy Bush will endeavor to make Phil's appearance a failure.

Phils First to Score.

The Phils grabbed a temporary one run lead in the third, but actually did enough with their bats to deserve thrice that amount. Mallon opened the inning with the first hit off Smith,

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Such a roar of welcome as met Gallant Fox in the Realization last year, or Twenty Grand a few months ago in the Belmont, swept through the stands and clubhouse at Belmont Park today when a much more humble thoroughbred, the Brookmeade stable's Helianthus, won the Parole purse after a great show of courage.

Helianthus, driven into favoritism at 5 to 5, won by a head to thunderous cheers after he had run away three-eighths of a mile at top speed, and then unseated his jockey and covered another mile and a half at varying speeds before he finally was gotten to the post.

Odds Go to 5 to 1.

The delay at the barrier was nineteen minutes, and as long as 5 to 1 was laid by bookmakers on the lawn against the horse which had gone to the post at 5 to 5. There were few takers, for Helianthus certainly looked to be a spent horse after his two runaways.

However, Helianthus took all that knowlton and Priory had to offer, and still had a little left. His time for the six furlongs over the main course was 1:11 2-5 and he carried 105 pounds.

Wheatley Stable Wins Two.

The Wheatley stable accounted for a double, and F. Ambrose Clark's Golden Star II. for the Hunters steeplechase, which was the richest event of the day.

The veteran trainer, Jim Fitzsimmons, sent the 2 year old Unique out to win in the Tanya purse, and followed it immediately with the 3 year old Impish in the Elkwood purse.

INDIANA BOXING BOARD SELECTS STATE CHAMPIONS

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Suspension of Tracy Cox, Indianapolis junior lightweight, for failure to carry out a contract to fight Lew Massey, Philadelphia, at Terre Haute this month, was held in abeyance until Sept. 25 by the state athletic commission of Indiana at a meeting here today.

The commission today named state champions in every class but the bantam, featherweight, and lightweight divisions. They will be determined in elimination contests to be held within the next few weeks.

Flyweight—Happy Atherton, Indianapolis.
Junior lightweight—Tracy Cox, Indianapolis.
Junior welterweight—Mean Baumgartner, Fort Wayne.
Welterweight—Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis.
Middleweight—Red Slaughter, Terre Haute.
Light heavyweight—Roy Wallace, Indianapolis.
Heavyweight—Jack Redman, South Bend.

The lightweight state title, it was held, rested between Willard Brown, Nick Ellenwood, Glen Nidy, and Jock Malone.

A. A. U. CHAMPS ENTER TRACK AND FIELD MEET HERE

Several champions will compete in the Central A. A. U. championship track and field meet on Sept. 26 at Ogden park, according to entries received to date.

Among those entered is Levi Casey, who holds the national hop, skip and jump record. Casey also will compete in one or two other events, possibly weight lifting. Casey will wear the Illinois Athletic club colors.

Entries close Sept. 22. Entries can be made with Racine Thompson or Johnny Behr, in care of the Illinois Athletic club.

PRO MEDALIST WILL GET ALEX SMITH TROPHY

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Establishment of the Alex Smith Memorial medal, in memory of the famous Scotch golf professional, who died a year ago last April in Baltimore, was announced today by a group of his friends.

The medal will be awarded each year for the next eight years at least to the medalist in the Professional Golfers' association qualifying rounds. The first one will be awarded this year to the low qualifier at Providence, R. I., in the P. G. A. tournament starting Monday.

LOGANSPORT ELEVEN WINS.

MEMORANDUM began fast, kept up close under energetic riding, and, going determinedly in the final drive, wore down the leaders, but was unable to draw away. ANITA'S PAL, a forward factor throughout, saved much ground and held gamely. CATHERINE FOX, probably much the best, broke slowly, was forced back at the far turn, and closed with a rush. DOLLY'S BABY had speed, but weakened in the final drive. PARTIES showed a fair effort. GOLDEN LIGHT quit. EVER FAITHFUL had a rough trip. RAPID BIRDIE had early speed. BRUSH DOWN lost her rider when in close quarters at the half mile pole.

BARON KING broke fast, but was unable to keep up, rallied improved speed after reaching final five-sixteenths, and racing to the front on extreme outside, came away fast in the stretch and won easily. RAHWAY, early in the race, was in close quarters at final turn, and, while unable to withstand the winner, rushed on fairly well. HAMILTON raced forwardly, lost some ground entering the stretch, and weakened after moving up boldly in the drive. THOR AS BETH, in the stretch duel, was finishing fast. HIDOVER, in a tangle shortly after the start, was going well in final stages. MISS ROSEDALE had early speed. FIALA quit. CHARM dropped out of it at the turn.

Time, :23 4-5, :47 2-5, 1:13 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Brave and Bold, $51.58 straight, $15.34 place, $7.68 show; Chatter Queen, $8.32 place, $2.70 show; Marmion, $3.50 show. Winner trained by S. W. Ward. Jr. Price. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:18. At post 3 minutes.

BRAVE AND BOLD began fast, drew clear slowly in opening quarter, saved ground thereafter, and, responding on request, was under steadying restraint. CHATTER QUEEN met slight interference at the start, saved much ground at the stretch turn, and closed well under strong riding, but failed to get up. MARMION, never far out of it, raced wide, and, under severe pressure, DARK BEGAN, gamely, and closed ground. LATE DATE, forced far out of it, made up ground steadily the final three-eighths. MISS TULSA weakened slightly in the final drive. CEE TEE raced wide. VOLTA MAID lost her rider shortly after the start.

CAIUS, having his best speed, raced into the lead on the inside, made the early pace under good rating, and weakened suddenly in the final sixteenth. Bill Looney played BILL LOONEY'S game, but saved much ground, was under steadying restraint first three-quarters, and closed gamely under strong pressure, but could not get up. SAN PRESTO, a forward factor throughout, lost some ground and held on well. BETON raced wardly and saved much ground. PAL BIRD had no mishap. BROAD AXE could not improve his position. VERMICULITE lacked belated speed. KULAMAN quit. LADY VA VA was up close when she bore out badly at the far turn.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,500. Allowances. Three year olds and up. Net value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50.

PANSY WALKER, much the best, was pinched back approaching the turn, suffered slight interference then, but responded when opening the stretch drive smartly and, coming through on the inside, quickly disposed of MARTHA JONES, winning in hand. Latter had fine speed, bore out slightly when entering the stretch, and, while no match for the winner, ran gamely. JUSTINIAN, never far out of it, moved up strongly entering the stretch, but hung in the drive. CHEERS had speed, but weakened. DOUBLE HEART lost some ground. ESKIMO dropped out of it after a quarter.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse $1,300. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Net value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :24, :48 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:39 3-5, 1:54. Two dollar mutuels paid: Morocco, $47.78 straight, $12.26 place, $6.36 show; Aye Ready, $36.10 place, $17.12 show; Master Ace, $4.24 show. Winner trained by E. McCuan. Start bad. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:30. At post 2½ minutes.

MOROCCO, improved, and, close from opening quarter, slowly wore down GENGHIS KHAN after reaching the stretch and, drawing clear, held AYE READY safe. Latter began slowly, raced wide while bettering his position, and stood the drive gamely. MASTER ACE, well up for three-eighths, dropped back slightly at the far turn and closed some ground in the stretch, where he was allowed to swerve repeatedly. BEARINGTON, blocked at the far turn, suffered interference in the stretch. GENGHIS KHAN weakened badly after showing the most speed to the stretch. MY DAN had an advantage at the start, but quit after three-quarters. STOP GAP quit.

Time, :24 1-5, :47 3-5, 1:13, 1:39. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dunmore, $4.90 straight, $3.46 place, $2.82 show; Ladrone, $8.42 place, $5.46 show; Santa Sophia, $5.46 show. Winner trained by S. W. Ward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:21. At post 1½ minutes.

DUNMORE, occasionally shaken up during the opening half mile, began closing up ground after reaching final three-eighths, gained rapidly after coming to outside in the stretch, and, disposing of leaders, won easily, but pulled up sore. LADRONE, badly outrun for seven-eighths, closed with a rush. SANTA SOPHIA, in inside opening seven-eighths, bumped the winner in trying to get to outside in the stretch, and closed well when clear. KING PIN weakened in the final drive. BLUE CLOUD had good speed to the stretch. LILLIAN T. was weakly ridden.

Kinney Direct Paces Mile in 1:59¾ to Win

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Faster than two minute speed featured the close of the Grand Circuit meeting at the Indiana state fair today as Kinney Direct triumphed in the $1,500 Lockerbie Hotel race.

The Kansas City gelding won the first heat in a blanket finish with Winnipeg and Calumet Adam in 1:59¾, and took the next in 2:00½, but broke near the finish of the last and finished fourth. Winnipeg triumphed in this heat with Calumet Adam second.

Laconic turned in his third victory of the meeting by winning the second and third heats of the 2:18 pace after trailing Aquilla Earl in the first. Today's summaries:

GOPHERS TO PLAY FIVE MAJOR FOES AT HOME IN '32

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Five major opponents to be played on the home field in 1932, ranging from a newcomer to two traditional foes, will feature what is undoubtedly the most attractive home football schedule ever played by a University of Minnesota team.

Purdue, Nebraska, Northwestern, Mississippi, and Michigan will be engaged by the Gophers on Memorial Stadium field. Only two conference opponents, Iowa and Wisconsin, will be played away from home next season. South Dakota State will open the eight weeks' campaign Oct. 1.

Home fans will see two favorites, Purdue and Nebraska, return to the schedule, and one stranger in the Mississippi team. Purdue played at the stadium last in 1928. The Boilermakers were defeated, 15 to 0.

Nebraska comes back to the Gopher schedule after an absence of 13 years. The two teams met last in 1919, when they battled to a 6-6 tie on old Northrop field.

BOOTH GOES TO HOSPITAL FOR A MINOR OPERATOIN

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—A sensation was caused today by the report that Capt. Albie Booth of the Yale football eleven had gone to the New Haven hospital for an operation. While it was admitted by Yale athletic officials that Booth visited the hospital, it was stated emphatically that the operation was of the mildest possible nature, that he left the hospital as soon as it was over, and that he would report for the fall football campaign and receive the candidates at Yale field on Sept. 15, when the squad will assemble. Yale athletic officials said tonight that they did not know what caused Booth to visit the hospital.

JIM M'MILLEN LOSES; SHOULDER IS FRACTURED

Walter Thayer, Ex-Railroad Head, Dies on Golf Course

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Walter Thayer, a member of a prominent Philadelphia family and for many years an official of the Pennsylvania railroad, was stricken by heart disease here today while playing golf and died.

FLORALS MEET SQUARES.

The Duffy Florals will play the Logan Squares at Shewbridge field tomorrow in a double header that will have an important bearing on the Chicago semi-Pro league championship.

Argentine Polo Team Battles Roslyn Today

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special]—Four hard riding caballeros from the Argentine, who have had an amazing season in the United States with the exception of the loss of one series against Old Aiken in Chicago, will point toward the goal to which they have been traveling for two years at Meadowbrook tomorrow afternoon.

A polo game of international championship class is expected when Santa Paula meets Roslyn in the second game of the open championship tournament. Play for the national title is just a week away and a lot depends on tomorrow's game.

In facing Roslyn on international field, the gauchos will meet what polo followers agree to be the fastest all-Yankee four in the tournament: Miss Phipps, sensational No. 1; Cecil Smith, the eight goal star from Austin, Tex.; Harold E. Talbott Jr., a Long Island seven goaler, and J. C. (Cokie) Rathborne, who rode against the Argentines at Onwentsia, make up the Roslyn quartet. Smith and Talbott played against Santa Paula in games at Detroit and are familiar with the opponents' style of attack.

Alfredo Harrington, tall, dashing South American; Juan and Jose Reynal, quiet spoken brothers, with the renowned Manuel Andrada or possibly Andres Gazzotti at back, make up the Santa Paula team. Gazzotti is a daring, reckless rider who will follow the ball right into the stands, and he will be in the fight tomorrow if Andrada's strained wrist does not limber up in time for the match.

Thomas Nelson, master of horse of the Santa Paula string, has the Argentine mounts in fine condition. Harrington's famous Florelle, which to considers priceless; Pampero, Arcana, Canaria, and Leubuco, among the best from the Pampas, all will be ridden.

Roslyn's string numbers many famous Long Island polo ponies. Among the best known is Jupiter. He will be ridden by Phipps.

JUDGE DISSOLVES INJUNCTION; DOG TRACK IS CLOSED

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 11.—(AP)—The dog track "war" ended suddenly today when Judge Jesse R. Brown of Alton dissolved his temporary injunction which blocked foes of the Madison Kennel club for more than ten days in efforts to stop the races and betting. The dogs and electric rabbit did not run tonight as a result.

The judge's action followed an appeal made yesterday by Judges Louis Bernstauter and Henry Miller, the other two justices in the circuit, to Gov. Emmerson to intervene.

PIRATES SQUARE SERIES WITH 3-2 WIN OVER GIANTS

French Pitches and Bats Team to Victory.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The Pirates squared their series with the New York Giants by winning today's game, 3 to 2, behind the effective pitching of Larry French. French was opposed by Roy Parmelee, who also was in fine form.

Each allowed eight hits, but French saved his own cause by singling in the eighth inning to score Piet with the winning run. The Giants had tied the score in their half of the eighth on a single by Bill Terry and a double by Travis Jackson. Score:

ROBINS BEAT REDS, 8-3.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn Robins took full advantage of errors by the Reds today to win, 8 to 3. Brooklyn got away to a big lead in the fifth when Silas Johnson walked Watson Clark and three hits and a sacrifice followed.

A two base error by Stripp in the sixth gave the visitors two more runs. Clark shut out the Reds for six innings and was safe when they got to him in the seventh. Score:

MASTRO, WIFE ESCAPE AUTO INJURY; 1 HURT

Earl Mastro, featherweight fighter, and his wife were endangered last evening when their automobile collided with another car at School and Paulina streets. C. A. Boavee, 51 years old, 3705 Wayne avenue, the driver of the other automobile, was injured, and William M. Cooke, 3709 Kildare avenue, a passenger, was shaken up.

Mastro and Cooke lifted the injured man into the boxer's sedan. Mastro then drove to the Illinois Masonic hospital where he ordered physicians to give every attention to Boavee. Police questioned Cooke and Mastro at the hospital.

Mastro and his wife live at the Wellington Arms hotel, 2970 Sheridan road. They were driving home when the accident occurred.

JEM SMITH OF BARE KNUCKLE ERA DEAD AT 68

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Jem Smith, one of the greatest old time bare knuckle prize fighters and twice the champion of England, died today aged 68. He was of the days when prize fighting was illegal and contests had to be held in all sorts of unlikely places to evade the police.

Smith's greatest battle was in 1857 when he fought the American, Jake Kilrain, for $10,000 and the championship of the world. They went 106 rounds on an island in the River Seine in France, but darkness fell and they agreed to call it a draw.

Cubs Buy Henry; Wins 21 Games for Minneapolis

Dutch Henry, who has gone through more than a few major league entrances and exits, is going to attempt another comeback. William Veeck, president of the Cubs, announced yesterday that the veteran had been purchased from the Minneapolis club of the American association. Henry's record for the season is 21 wins and 19 defeats. His last big league job was with the White Sox in 1930 when he compiled 17 trimmings against two victories. The Sox has obtained him on waivers from the Giants.

BACK IN FORM

Triple Play Helps Lyons Beat Yanks

for the successful beginning of what seems to be a determined campaign to land the team in the world series. He yielded eleven hits, but they were sufficiently well spaced to preclude scoring until the sixth, when Earl Combs hit a home run into the right field bleachers.

Babe Ruth hit into a triple play in the first inning after Combs had singled and Sewell had walked. Sullivan tagged Combs at third and threw to Kerr, catching Sewell at second. The Babe was not running very fast and he was nipped at first by about the same distance that Monday beats Friday, which struck some of the customers as a dirty Yankee trick. It was the second triple play the Sox have executed this year. They need only two more now to set a new all time major league record.

Some of the patrons apparently had come to the wrong place, mistaking the Yankee ball yard for a solarium, as there were several nudists sprawled out, face down, in the bleachers, with their undershirts removed, taking the sun. This is not permitted at the municipal bathing beaches in New York, and a number of respectable citizens in the bleachers passed most of the time with their gaze averted or with their eyes shut. A sense of outrage against this indecency was plainly manifest among the better patrons and a number of the gentlemen got up and left.

Merit Ought to Count Some.

Mr. Perry Grogan, chief telegraph operator, drew up a petition which was signed by all present in the press coop, warning the management that the baseball writers and telegraphers were not dramatic critics after all.

It was the sense of the attendance that nudity of itself is unattractive and that while it may be all right for a gentleman to open his shirt slightly at the neck, exposure of the whole torso is shocking in the extreme and to be opposed by press and pulpit.

There was some argument to the effect that the White Sox are mathematically out of the American league pennant competition, having deferred their pennant drive too long, but it probably will be found that the Athletics jumped the gun to lure them over the line and disqualify them. Certainly the White Sox have not fallen victims of any such ruse as they positively have not jumped the gun, and if they carry on their drive to a successful conclusion and are denied the pennant by some mathematical trick that will simply be another dirty Yankee trick. Anyway, if merit is not to count in the pennant race but only mathematics, then perhaps it would be a good thing to abandon baseball games altogether and decide the championships in some accountant's office.

You Get a General Idea.

In the excitement of the pennant drive your correspondent sent a note down to Mr. Donie Bush, grand old man of the wonder team, asking him for an outline of his life story and, unfortunately, your correspondent's data regarding the scoring of the runs were on the other side of the note. But as nearly as memory preserves the incidents, the Sox scored their first run when Lu [Am I?] Blue, the Chicago first baseman, popped to Lazzeri at second who dropped the—choice of three synonyms—apple, tomato, or onion, for an error. So Blue was not only safe, but took second.

Then Blue went to third on something Sullivan did. It was an infield out of some kind. And he scored on Jolley's long fly.

In the third, Grube and Lyons singled and [Is He?] Blue scored Grube with a fly to right.

Henry Johnson had been pitching for the Yanks during all this struggle, but when they put on their finishing rally for the third run in the eighth, the Sox faced a pitcher named H. G. Wells. Is it necessary to give the names and addresses of all the people who took part in the scoring of this run? If not then, Blue hit a single, advanced on Sullivan's bunt and scored from second when Byrd in right field fumbled Fonseca's single.

In conclusion it should be stated that Lu is not at all Blue. The pennant drive continues with a double header tomorrow.

Sox Challenge for City Series and Cubs Accept

The White Sox and the Cubs will meet in the opening game of the city series at Wrigley field, probably on Sept. 30. This was announced yesterday by President William Veeck of the Cubs in accepting the challenge of the south siders.

Final details for the series, the 18th post-season affair, will be announced following a conference of officials of the two clubs with Commissioner Landis early next week. The series will be, as usual, under the supervision of the commissioner.

The official challenge was made over the telephone by Secretary Harry Grabiner of the Sox and was accepted by President Veeck. The Cubs, although they have been more successful in recent years, have won only six of the 17 series. The Sox have taken ten, while one ended in a tie.

The series will be the best four out of seven games.

The Cubs will have only three outfielders, Kiki Cuyler, Dan Taylor, and Vince Barton, eligible to play. Mike Kreevich, a recent addition from the Western league, reported too late. Billy Herman, however, arrived in time and will be permitted to oppose the Sox.

ALLEN FORGETS BRUISES; RIDES TWO WINNERS

Jockey C. E. Allen, victim of a hold-up and kidnaping on Wednesday night near Chicago Heights, didn't show any marks of rough treatment at the hands of the bandits when he returned to the saddle at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

His first effort since the robbery was on Brave and Bold in the third race yesterday. It didn't look as if his ribs were cracked or his back bruised or his legs injured when he kicked the colt home under a rousing ride at odds of nearly 25 to 1.

Allen's next mount was on Vermiculite, in the fourth race. He was out of the money, though he kicked and hammered Vermiculite all the way over the mile trip, and had him up much closer than usual at the finish. Then he climbed into the saddle on Justinian, in the fifth race, and finished third on a horse that was badly outclassed.

His last mount of the day was on Dunmore, favorite in the last race. He brought the old plater up from behind and won handily.

There have been few better riding exhibitions in Chicago this season.

Schaaf Starts Drill Today for Griffith

Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, matched with Tuffy Griffith at the Chicago Stadium on Sept. 23, advised Stadium officials yesterday he would start training at Wenthan, Mass., today.

Schaaf went to Wenthan, where Jack Sharkey, half owner and co-manager of Schaaf, has a camp, immediately after his three round knockout of Roberto Roberti in Boston Thursday night. Sharkey is training there for his fight with Primo Carnera.

To Take Road with Sharkey.

Schaaf expects to go on the road with Sharkey today and tomorrow, then do light exercise along with the American champion until Wednesday, when he promised to start training at a local gymnasium.

Griffith, meanwhile, has repaired to the north woods to rough it for a week, before he returns here to complete his boxing in preparation for the bout, through which he hopes to scale the heights to title contendership again.

Ernie's in Condition.

Schaaf, in his communication, pointed out he needed little work since he has just had two good fights. Like Stribling, the Boston German dislikes the tedium of gym work and elects to keep in condition by active competition.

Five days after his fight with Griffith he fights again in Boston, where he has been matched by the Madison Square Garden corporation with Napoleon Dorval, a heavyweight who has been more or less snubbed by the elite of the division. Schaaf will meet him over the ten round route.

SIMMONS, KLEIN REGAIN LEAGUE BATTING LEADS

Al Simmons went back into the major league batting lead yesterday and Chuck Klein reached the top of the National league, although neither of them played. Simmons gained a few fractions of a percentage point over Babe Ruth when Ruth went to the plate just once and hit into a triple play.

While Klein remained out of action, Virgil Davis failed to connect in four attempts and dropped to third in the National league list at .340. Bill Terry held his mark at .342 with one hit in four times up. The standing:

	G	AB	R	H	Pct.
Ruth, Yankees	129	482	135	183	.3797

MEETS TUFFY

Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, is quite a dude, but not in the ring, as eight straight knockouts attest. He meets Tuffy Griffith at the Stadium Sept. 23.

SITTON, FORMER MAJOR PITCHER, TAKES OWN LIFE

Valdosta, Ga., Sept. 11.—(AP)—C. V. Sitton of Brunswick, Ga., former major league baseball pitcher, was found shot through the heart near here today. A coroner's jury said it was suicide.

Sitton, who 15 or 20 years ago pitched for Cleveland, Cincinnati and St. Louis, was found dead near the grandstand at the old fair grounds here by a searching party. Friends became alarmed when he failed to return after going for an automobile ride.

MacFayden, Red Sox Beat Tigers, 5-0

Boston, Mass., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—Danny MacFayden set the Detroit Tigers down with three hits today and the Boston Red Sox won the second game of the series, 5 to 0. Boston got to Collier in the third, fourth and fifth innings for most of their hits. Sullivan, who relieved him, checked the attack.

Johnson was the only Detroit man to reach third base. He tripled with one out in the sixth inning. Score:

YORK HIGH TO OPEN SEASON AT ARGO SEPT. 19

York High school, 1930 football champion of the West Suburban league, will open its season with a practice game at Argo on Sept. 19. Only five letter men from last year's championship squad returned. They are Cash, tackle; Smotherman, end; Voelz, center, and Cunningham and Shipp, backs.

Voelz probably will be shifted to tackle this season. New players include Kelleher, Harris, Ramsey, Conran, Robbins, Meskan, and Leuschke. The schedule follows:

Sept. 19—Argo at Argo.
Sept. 26—West Aurora at York.
Oct. 3—Maine at Maine.
Oct. 10—West Chicago at West Chicago.
Oct. 17—Hinsdale at York.
Oct. 24—Downers Grove at York.
Oct. 31—Open.
Nov. 7—Riverside at York.
Nov. 14—Glenbard at Glenbard.

Greller, Chicago Swimmer, Wins Toronto 3 Mile Event

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Don Greller of Chicago today won a three mile swim for men who participated in this year's marathon, defeating Eli Radakovitch of Duquesne, Pa., by a narrow margin. Isadore Spondor of Port Colborne, Ont., was third.

Margaret Ravior of Phidalelphia won the three mile swim for women by a margin of 20 yards over Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong of Detroit.

Miss Ravior, who won the ten mile swim for women here two weeks ago, swam along on even terms with Leah Riley of Keansburg, N. J., for three-quarters of the way. Near the finish she pulled ahead easily, while Mrs. Armstrong forged ahead to take second place from Miss Riley.

Miss Ravior's time was 1:31:45 3-5. The victory brought her a cash prize of $300.

Wilson Packs Up and Starts Auto Trip to His Home

Hack Wilson, the Cubs' home run hero of 1930, but now banished for continued violations of the rule against anything more potent than soda pop, packed his belongings and started for home yesterday. Accompanied by his wife and child, he is making the journey to Martinsburg, W. Va., by auto.

When he makes his next appearance at Wrigley field, where he was an outstanding individual for almost six seasons, it will be in the uniform of a foreign team. The Cubs officials will make no attempt to pass him along on waivers, but will endeavor to trade him during the coming winter.

Hack, to the last, insisted he hadn't been a bad boy. He said that Hornsby, during spring training, told him he could take a drink if he felt like it but should be in bed by midnight. Hornsby admits this much, but Hack pulled out to much rope by persistent disregard of the midnight curfew. The fact that he berated all the Cubs officials and some of the players in front of half the team and several newspapermen also hurried his finish as a Wrigley employé.

Hack admitted that he couldn't get going during the year, and didn't know the reason. The club is reported to have had him examined by specialists early in July and the latter claimed to have found that the one time home run king's vision was faulty.

Under baseball law Wilson was privileged to appeal his suspension to the baseball commissioner, but he preferred not to take this step.

O'BRIEN BIDS FOR TACKLE JOB ON DE PAUL ELEVEN

Johnny O'Brien will be one of the few sophomores in the regular football lineup of De Paul university this season, according to Coach Eddie Anderson. O'Brien already has made a strong bid for a tackle position.

He is destined to fill the vacancy left by the graduation of Bill Stotts. O'Brien is a 176 pounder and stands 5 feet 11 inches. He attended St. Philip High of the Chicago Catholic league.

Jim Condon, a former Lindblom boy, also a sophomore, has been showing promise at full back and may alternate with Ted Jablonski and Art McGivern. Eddie O'Brien, former De La Salle player, is trying for one of the half back jobs.

Maywood Prep Stars Show Well in Augustana Drill

ST. PAUL GETS 2 YANK HURLERS FOR SALTZGAVER

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The New York Yankees today announced the outright release of Pitchers Roy Sherid and Lou McEvoy to the St. Paul American Association club in part payment for Second Baseman Jack Saltzgaver. The latter will report to the Yankees next spring.

Sherid, who won five and lost five for the Yanks in the spring, was out of action for a month because of sickness, and then was optioned to Montreal. McEvoy was optioned to Hollywood in July but was returned last month.

CUBS WIN, 3 TO 1, AS SMITH HOLDS PHILS TO 5 HITS

Herman's Bat Helps Bob Hurl 14th Victory.

a double which the wind blew over Dan Taylor's head. Friberg succumbed to a called third strike and on Dudley's fly to right, Mallon dashed to third. He scored on Brickell's scratch single past Smith. Bartell beat out a hit to English and a more or less intentional pass to Hurst filled the bags. Taitt, the former White Sock, left his three mates stranded when he flied to D. Taylor.

A walk to Hartnett at the start of the home third gave the Cubs something to work on, and as a consequence they came up with a run of their own. Smith's bunt moved Gabby to second. Friberg skidded over close to third to grab English's grounder, but the throw to first wasn't good enough to prevent Woody from beating it for a hit. Herman flied to Arlett and Hartnett ran home after the catch. Then Cuyler singled to left, but Hornsby flied out to the same spot.

Herman Doubles and Scores.

The Cubs got started on a rally in the fourth, but didn't go through with the job. With one out, D. Taylor singled to right and Grimm punched a one-baser through short. Then Hartnett fanned and Smith lined to short. But they did better in the fifth. Herman doubled into the left field corner and Cuyler walked. Hornsby slammed a single into left and Herman registered. Barton flied out and D. Taylor walked to load the bases, but Grimm popped to Hurst.

Blundering by his mates forced extra labor on Smith in both the sixth and seventh, but he was equal to the emergency. English pegged low on Taitt with one out in the former inning. Smith nailed the next pair. Starting the seventh Hornsby's peg on Mallon's grounder pulled Grimm off the bag. Koster batted for Friberg and walked. Dudley bunted, but Smith picked it up and pegged to Hornsby in time to force Mallon at third. Brickell forced Dudley, putting Koster on third. Then a double steal was attempted and Koster was out at the plate, Hartnett to English to Hartnett.

Smith Does His Bit.

Smith did his share toward increasing his lead in the eighth. His mates didn't subscribe to the idea, but the Phils did. Smith doubled off the left field wall after Hartnett had popped to Mallon. Bob dashed over to third while Davis was groveling around in the dust trying to recover a wild pitch. English ran his string to the limit and forgot to swing when a perfect third strike drifted across. Herman followed with a bounder to short and Brickell's throw, not being exactly perfect, was dropped by Hurst. Smith scored on the error.

WHEAT IS SOLD TO GERMANY ON 3 YEAR CREDITS

7,500,000 Bu. Will Bring U. S. $3,750,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The federal farm board today sold 7,500,000 bushels of wheat to Germany on three year credits, thereby closing its third deal in wheat during the last thirty days.

DR. VON PRITTWITZ UND GAFFRON. [Acme Photo.]

The sale contract was signed in the office of Chairman James C. Stone of the farm board by Mr. Stone and Ambassador Friedrich W. von Prittwitzund Gaffron of Germany, whose government, while not the direct purchaser of the wheat, guaranteed payment by the national purchasing agency in Germany which contracted for the grain.

Payment Is Guaranteed.

The purchaser of the wheat was the Deutsche Getreide Handelsgeseilschaft of Berlin. The payment for the wheat, guaranteed by Germany, is to be made on Dec. 31, 1934, with interest at 4½ per cent. The definite price to be paid could not be ascertained today, as the contract specified a base price on the basis of yesterday's quotations, which were about 49⅛ cents a bushel. However, several grades are to be taken, some of which range higher in price, and other factors entered into the contract which are expected to make the price considerably in excess of $3,750,000.

Another important feature of the contract was that American ships are to be guaranteed one-half of the haulage, despite the fact that Germany pays all freight charges, including those within the United States, for transportation of the grain to eastern seaboard routes.

Protest in Brazil Sale.

Omission of this guarantee caused a storm of protest after the farm board traded 25 million bushels of wheat to Brazil for 1,050,000 bags of coffee, but omitted to make this stipulation.

Speculation as to the amount of wheat actually owned by the farm board was largely dispersed today when a well informed authority revealed that in April the board held 254 million bushels. Calculations on the basis of known deals showed that the farm board, after substracting the wheat sold to Germany, will have 194,500,000 bushels.

Sale Also Made to China.

The largest wheat sale was that to Brazil of 25,000,000 bushels. Two weeks ago 15,000,000 bushels were sold to China on credit. Also the farm board has been selling 5,000,000 bushels a month in the United States for the last three months, making a total of 15,000,000 bushels. This business in the last three months accounted for sales of 55,000,000 bushels, to which was added that sold to Germany today, which makes a total of 62,500,000 bushels sold from the hoard collected by the farm board through its Wheat Stabilization corporation in an unsuccessful effort to stabilize prices.

COTTON STATES NOT YET AGREED ON RESCUE PLAN

Texas and Oklahoma Oppose "Holiday."

Austin, Tex., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Another blow to the Gov. Long "No cotton in 1932" plan was struck late today when Gov. R. S. Sterling indicated he would not approve a cotton holiday bill if passed by the Texas legislature.

Gov. Sterling said he had conferred, directly or indirectly, today with the governors of all cotton growing states and found only one who favored the Long plan.

The Texas executive said he had been told today by Gov. Murray of Oklahoma that Oklahoma was absolutely against the Long plan. At a mass meeting in one of the large Oklahoma growing counties only six of 600 farmers present favored the Long plan, Gov. Murray reported.

House Unfavorable.

The Texas house of representatives today refused to instruct a special subcommittee to report back two definite bills, one of which embodies the plan of Gov. Long of Louisiana for a complete halt of planting in 1932. The other bill includes a cotton acreage reduction plan.

A. J. Johnson, chairman of the legislative subcommittee, said tonight the committee had finished its work on a cotton acreage reduction bill. It would restrict cotton acreage in Texas to one-third the cultivated area in 1932 and prohibit planting acreage to cotton in successive years. A penalty of $25 per acre for acreage planted in cotton in violation of the law would be assessed with venue in the county where the farm was located.

The bill provides that unless states producing three-fourths of the cotton enact laws calling for similar or greater reductions, the penalty and forfeiture provisions would be void.

Arkansas for Long Plan.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Gov. Harvey Parnell tonight sent a telegram to Gov. Ross Sterling pleading for speedy enactment by the Texas legislature of the Long plan for a cotton holiday in 1932 and assuring him the Arkansas legislature would enact a similar law immediately after its passage by the Texas general assembly.

South Carolina for Long.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood said tonight that Texas "can save the cotton situation" by "completely prohibiting cotton planting in 1932." The governor, who favors the Long plan, has called a special session of the South Carolina legislature for Monday.

ROBBERS' VICTIM DIES OF WOUNDS; NAB 2 SUSPECTS

Two prisoners were held at the Lawndale station early this morning for investigation in the murder of Fred Sedlacek, 23 years old, 3134 West 25th street, who died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of bullet wounds received Sept. 4 while resisting robbery in the candy store of his father, Joseph Sedlacek.

The prisoners are Leo Churchman, 26 years old, of no address, and Jerry Matejka, alias None, 27, of 2240 South Turner avenue. The storekeeper says that Matejka resembles the bandit who wounded his son. Walter Faber, 16, of 2443 South Kedzie avenue identified Churchman as the man who ran into the alley in the rear of the Sedlacek store after the shooting.

Matejka was arrested yesterday afternoon. Churchman was seized late last night in an alley in the rear of 424 South Oakley boulevard. He attempted to shoot Detective Dennis Kehoe with an automatic pistol, but the gun jammed. Kehoe fired four shots at Churchman without hitting him.

WIN BATTLE TO OPEN STREETS IN CEMETERY LAND

Property owners in the vicinity of Devon and Western avenues won a victory in their long controversy with the Rosehill Cemetery corporation yesterday when the board of local improvements ordered three streets opened through a tract of land which the cemetery corporation has proposed developing as an addition to its grounds.

The action was taken in the face of an injunction issued by Judge Kickham Scanlan in 1920, restraining the city from interfering with the new burial grounds. B. F. Lindheimer, chairman of the board of local improvements, asserted that the injunction restrains the city from laying paving or sewers through the plot, whereas the action yesterday was merely an ordinance opening the streets.

The land in controversy lies across Peterson avenue, north of the present cemetery. The streets ordered opened were Glenlake and Irving avenues and Leavitt street.

PAINTERS VOTE FOR BEER AND SIX HOUR DAY

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 11.—Resolutions urging amendment of the Volstead act, enactment of unemployment insurance and adoption of the six hour day were unanimously passed by the painters' state conference here today. The measure asking a return of real beer said it would "create a demand for work, aid the farmers and be of service to humanity."

In opening the convention two delegates from Chicago local unions were thrown out because of communistic affiliations. J. Hecker and O. Vogel were the pair whose credentials were not accepted.

All present officers were reelected. They are: Ben Feeney, Peoria, president; Thomas O. Lee, Chicago, first vice president; Ed A. Levy, Decatur, second vice president; Walter Price Jr., Champaign, third vice president; Matthew Hartlein, Chicago, secretary-treasurer; J. Van Dyke, Chicago, Harry McCloskey, Rock Island, and Frank Sweger, Ottawa, trustees.

Thomas Conway Funeral to Be Held Today

Funeral services for Thomas Conway, one of the pioneers of the Englewood district, will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from the Holy Cross church. Mr. Conway lived at 6221 Evans avenue. He died on Thursday of heart disease at the age of 75 years. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. Mr. Conway was in the plumbing business for many years. He was one of the first master plumbers to sign for the eight hour day. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ann Conway, and two sons, Thomas G. of New York, and Charles E. of Los Angeles.

John E. Nelson Leaves $300,000 to 3 Children

MAYOR TAKES A HAND IN TAG DAY QUARREL

Makes Promise of Strict Regulation.

In endeavoring to settle a dispute yesterday over what organizations should be permitted to participate in next Monday's tag day under the auspices of the Chicago Federated Charities, Mayor Cermak promised strict regulation of tag days in the future and fewer of them.

The dispute, in which thirty men and women argued with each other and the mayor in his office, started when a delegation representing several organizations which are not members of the Federated Charities requested the mayor for permission to tag on Monday.

Woman Cites Ordinance.

Their plea was opposed by Miss L. Ellen Babcock of the Federated Charities. She pointed to a city ordinance that requires all organizations tagging under the federation's auspices to obtain the approval of the Chicago Association of Commerce. She said the petitioning groups had not obtained the commerce body's approval.

Several members of the delegation charged that 17 of the 45 organizations in the federation have not been approved by the Association of Commerce. Miss Babcock placed the blame for this on members of the city council. Some of the aldermen, she said, had forced the federation to admit several organizations to membership by threatening to hold up the annual tag day.

"There is no need for this controversy," said the mayor. "You should be able to compromise your difficulty in some way because if the matter goes to the city council the aldermen may throw all tag days overboard.

Will Regulate Tag Days.

"Before I am through with this matter I'm going to give the city a better tag day ordinance. I am going to regulate tag days, and there will be few of them."

At the mayor's suggestion the various delegations promised each to appoint a committee of two to meet with Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, and Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th], chairman of the subcommittee on tag days, to iron out, if possible, the dispute before Monday.

Later, at a session in the finance committee rooms, an agreement was reached to permit the South Side Catholic Social Center and Day Nursery and the Helpers of Holy Souls, the petitioning organizations, to participate in the tag day. Each of these organizations was given 44 corner locations and contribution boxes. John A. Richert, chief of the finance staff, acted as arbitrator.

ROBBER SUSPECT SHOT BY POLICE WHEN HE FLEES

Anton Wentzel, 34 years old, of 1414 Walton street, an alleged bandit, was shot twice and probably fatally wounded early this morning in a chase by Policemen Leon Czajka and Walter Schwass of the North Racine avenue station at Cornell street and Milwaukee avenue. The policemen saw him as he was running after Alex Docjka, 1424 Walton street, and Joseph Boedek, 1344 Walton street. They asked the latter why they were running and the two men shouted that their pursuer was a robber.

Schwass and Czajka started after the man and fired six shots. The fugitive dropped with bullets in the upper back and below the heart. He identified himself as Wentzel. Docjka and Boedek identified him as the man who tried to rob them. The police had been summoned to the neighborhood in another robbery by John Wojta, 1427 Huron street, a cab driver.

$95,000,000 U. S. GREAT LAKES PROGRAM TOLD

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Col. E. M. Markham, United States division engineer for Cleveland, today told the Great Lakes Harbors association that the federal government has a $95,000,000 program for development of the great lakes during the next nine years and that $10,000,000 worth of the improvements are under contract this year.

Col. Markham answered remarks made yesterday by Dr. Roy S. MacElwee, Cambridge, Mass., harbor engineer, who denounced the government for what he termed discrimination against the great lakes in distribution of funds.

Missouri Woman Ends Life with Poison Here

Miss Genevieve Bury, 52 years old, who registered from Kirkwood, Mo., ended her life with poison yesterday in her room at the Y. W. C. A., 830 South Michigan avenue. Beside her body was found a note addressed to E. Schwaver, Kirkwood, Mo. It said: "Dear Edna: After yesterday morning, and the children's attitude towards me, I fear this is the only way out. I am too old to make a new start." The police believe that the children mentioned are "Edna's," but were unable further to identify the dead woman last night.

U. S. KEEPS OUT OF CHINA-MEXICO "EXPULSION" ROW

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—The state department announced today that it has informed the Chinese ambassador here that this government will take no steps to intervene in the current dispute between Mexico and China arising out of the expulsion of Chinese from the Mexican states of Sonora and Sinaloa.

Latest information, the department said, indicates that the situation is not quite as bad as the Chinese government appears to believe. The recent extension of the time in which to leave granted to the Chinese has given them a chance to dispose of their possessions, department officials said.

The state department feels, it was said, that the best interests of all three countries would be served if our good offices were not offered.

J. W. SPALDING, BROTHER OF A. G., DIES, AGED 75 YRS.

New York, Sept. 11.—[Special.]—J. Walter Spalding, one of the founders of A. G. Spalding & Bros., died today while taking a nap in his summer home at Monmouth, N. J. He was 75 years old, but had been active in business to the end, although in recent years he spent much time at Florence, Italy. Mr. Spalding was born at Byron, Ill. He was educated in Rockford, Ill., and began life as a barker, but two years later joined his brother, A. G. Spalding, in establishing the sporting goods house which for more than half a century has maintained stores in New York and Chicago. He is survived by two sons, H. Boardman Spalding and Albert Spalding, the violinist.

$500,000 ESTATE LEFT IN WILL OF CHARLES PHELAN

The late Charles Phelan, former president of the American Asphalt Paint company, 844 Rush street, left an estate of $500,000, it was revealed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Mr. Phelan died on Aug. 13.

Most of the estate was left in trust to the widow, Mrs. Margaret Phelan, 306 East Chestnut street. A few minor bequests were made to relatives and friends. At the widow's death the trust will be placed in the hands of Grover M. Hermann, a friend and business partner of Mr. Phelan. At the latter's death the money will be given to a New York hospital.

John F. Smith, Executive of Swift & Co., Is Dead

John Fraser Smith, 67 years old, for the last thirty years head of the refinery department of Swift & Co., died yesterday after a long illness at his home at 6740 Oglesby avenue. He first entered the employ of the company in 1894. His widow, Mrs. Bertha Spaeti Smith, survives. Funeral services will be held at the home at 4 p. m. tomorrow, with burial in Oakwoods cemetery on Monday.

Wife Sticks to Story of Husband's Death.

The old man and the young boy grew more intangible as the hours passed and their actions aboard the Penguin and in the canoe, while ferrying back and forth, more inexplicable.

As for the crime itself, the binding hand and foot of Collings and dumping him overboard in true pirate fashion, there was no motive. He had complied with the gunmen's request to take them to obtain aid for a third companion, said to be wounded. The apparently mythical third party vanishes from the story at this point and is not heard of again.

Prosecutor Believes It All.

Nevertheless, District Attorney Elvin H. Edwards of Nassau county declared at the end of the day that he placed full credence in Mrs. Collings and that "she is not under suspicion." She was permitted to go home for the night.

"I believe her story," Mr. Edwards said, "fantastic as it seems. After a night's rest she is coming back to Mineola and we will question her further."

The highly prized dairy, it developed, was a log of the yacht and contained nothing of importance.

In all of today's questioning only two important new facts were turned up. One was that Mrs. Collings believes she saw her husband floating in the water after he had been tossed overboard and the other a description of the two thugs and a more detailed account of the indignities she suffered from the gray haired pirate.

"I know I saw my husband in the water," she told Mr. Edwards. "I saw him floating and heard him crying, and his hands were tied."

It was then, she told the police, that she tried to throw the pneumatic mattress overboard.

Her Revised Narrative.

Mrs. Colling's revised narrative described one of the invaders as a gray haired man of fifty, poorly clad and pleasant spoken. The other was a youth of seventeen or eighteen, very tall and thin, and apparently frightened and nervous.

Mr. Edwards related the story as told to him by the yachtsman's wife. After relating the incident of throwing the mattress overboard, Mr. Edwards continued:

"Then the two men ordered her into the canoe and started paddling. They finally came to a place which she thought might be Bayville, L. I.

"The young man seemed scared and wanted to get out of the affair. After words with his older companion he got out and waded about 200 feet to the shore.

"Then the older man attempted to offer certain indignities to Mrs. Collins but she says he did not persist. He paddled on to a motor boat anchored in Oyster Bay harbor and put Mrs. Collings in it.

Gives Her Blankets.

"He opened a duffle bag and gave her four blankets, which may prove most important clews. One was marked 'Charles Hotel.' Two of the others were plaid steamer rugs of very fine material."

Did Mrs. Collings put up a fight? Mr. Edwards was asked.

He answered that she had not at any time. "She was so worried about her husband that her whole mind centered on that," said the prosecutor.

SOCIAL ARBITER AT WHITE HOUSE GETS A NEW JOB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—[Special.]—James Clement Dunn, former White House and state department social arbiter, today assumed the office of chief of the division of international conferences. This new division is an offshoot of the division of international conferences and protocol, the state department having decided that its social work and its task of handling international conferences was growing too large for one man to handle alone.

JAMES C. DUNN. [Acme Photo.]

The increased participation by the United States in international conferences abroad and in this country played a considerable part in the decision to create a new division which would take care of the arrangements for American participation in such gatherings.

Bread eastern demand blocked a threatened break in the hog market yesterday and prices moved to an unevenly higher level instead.

Outsiders took 50 per cent of the fresh receipts, shipments from here totaling 6,000, the largest for Friday since April 24. However, enough hogs were left for local consumption to cause an easier close and a few buyers of medium and weighty stock succeeded in shaving quotations some ed their purchases.

The extreme top moved up 5c to $6.70, while the general average for the whole day showed a 10c gain at $5.75. Pigs and underweights that were almost unsalable a few days ago came up 25@50c yesterday and show gains of 50@75c and in spots $1.00 in two days. The proportion of packing grades in receipts lately is smallest of the season and several large shipping orders for 300@350 lb sows have been on the market the last two days, boosting the suitable kinds 25@50c since Wednesday.

Although packers report a fair movement of the cured meats during this week, the extremely hot weather has seriously impaired the wholesale market for fresh meats, and pork in particular. Fresh loins dropped to the lowest levels since early in July on yesterday's trade, the top lightweight loins at 21c being 7c lower than on the corresponding day in 1930. Early in August light loins were bringing the same prices as in 1930.

September Hogs at $6.50.

Heavy grades of hogs sold at $6.50 on the futures market yesterday, contracts calling for delivery before the middle of the month, or before next Tuesday. There were buyers for contracts for the last half of the month at the same figure, but no offers to sell were made. Sellers delivered 19 carloads of September hogs to buyers yesterday. Mediums for December delivery were offered at $5.85 and bid $5.10, while heavy grades for the same month were offered at $5.25.

The 1,500 cattle available yesterday changed hands slowly on a featureless trade, most of the scattered sales holding about in line with the general trade the previous day. No top notchers arrived, but fancy yearlings are still quoted upwards to $10.00 and slightly above on the strength of the $10.15 sales Thursday. The best cattle offered yesterday averaged 1,203@1,247 lbs, and sold at $9.25. Cows and heifers showed little change.

Calves held firm again. Country demand for stockers and feeders was not quite so brisk and tendency in fleshy feeders ruled lower yesterday. The demand since Aug. 1 has been unusually broad, but previously this year, buying of replacement stock was lightest in many years.

Lambs in Demand.

A wave of buying on eastern account is sweeping through all leading lamb markets in the middle west and prices ruled strong to higher yesterday against increasing supplies. Shipments from Chicago to eastern slaughtering points Wednesday and Thursday totaled 13,341, the largest since early last March.

Lambs apparently are attractive at $7.50@7.75, and, according to some in the trade, the market is not likely to go extremely low regardless of the fact that a record crop is expected to be marketed before Nov. 1. "Tops" from 12,000 range lambs sold yesterday at $7.00@7.75, the seconds going for slaughter at $6.00, while country buyers were eager to pay $5.50@5.75 for good feeders. Aged and yearling sheep were steady.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 26,000 to 43,000. J. M. Waters marked 26,000, F. M. Sherwood and F. Knutsen 31,000, A. G. Welhener, G. W. Chanler and J. A. Bunyan 32,000, R. Waterbury and H. Wolfe 33,000, R. Trullinger and P. Allen 34,000, C. Southwick, R. B. Ellis, H. Pattison, J. T. Brown, W. G. Olson, and M. J. Berkery 35,000, H. S. Turner 37,000, and M. L. Johannessen 43,000.

MILLIONS READY FOR BUILDING, SURVEY SHOWS

Insurance Firms Willing to Lend Vast Sums.

Millions of dollars are held by insurance companies ready to be placed on well selected real estate, according to the fourth annual outline of the real estate loan policies of 121 risk concerns just completed by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, made public yesterday. This indicates the association points out, the continuing favor with which such companies regard realty investment.

"There has been no change in the policies of these companies during the past year that would show any lessening interest in real estate," the survey states. "The majority continue to loan up to 50 per cent of the value of almost any type of property, including farms, and the table of maximum amounts loaned shows some larger totals than appeared on last year's survey.

"Several companies lend from $200,000 to a half million dollars on commercial and large apartment buildings, and one company will finance office buildings up to a million dollars. The reports of the companies indicate that millions of dollars are ready to be placed on well selected real estate."

Only Survey of Its Kind.

This survey, which is not made by any other person or organization, so far as it is known, is prepared by the mortgage and finance and brokers' divisions of the national realty body. It is claimed that the members find this data immensely valuable in their work of arranging realty loans.

Twenty-three more companies reported this year than last. All but a few lend on all usual types of properties which include detached single family homes, duplex homes, two apartments, larger apartments, combination apartment and store buildings, office buildings and farms.

Of the 121 companies reporting, 118 will use their funds for loans on single family homes. The next most popular investment is the duplex, or two family dwelling. Ninety-two place loans on this kind of structure. Seventy-nine of the companies loan on "two apartments"; sixty on larger apartments; sixty-five on combination store and flat buildings; eighty-seven on commercial buildings, and sixty-nine take farm loans.

Loan on Churches.

Ten of the companies loan on churches, one of these companies lists sums up to $100,000 being available for church building financing; ten loan on industrial property; three take branches and plantations; two take lodges; one takes country clubs; one takes unimproved city property, and one takes real estate bonds when guaranteed by a surety company.

Some limit loans on certain types of property to 40 per cent, two limit certain types to 20 per cent, but sixteen give 60 per cent, and two loan 66 2-3 per cent. Two lend 66 per cent on "larger" apartments.

The amounts loaned vary from $3,000 accepted by one company on single family detached houses to the million dollar figure on office buildings listed by one company. Ten thousand dollars for single detached homes is listed most often as the maximum advanced for this class of property. Several companies lend $15,000 on such homes, one company lends $75,000 on single family homes, and one company will loan $95,500 on one-family structures.

Length of Loans Vary.

One company has half million loans on commercial buildings, another will lend $400,000; one company will lend a half million on a large apartment building, and another has $200,000 loans for this purpose. Several companies state that there is no limit to the amount they will lend on any usual type of property.

The length of the loans varies from one year, under which one company operates, to sixteen years, by seven companies. Five year loans are the greatest number of those listed by five companies, seventy of them extending beyond that time. Thirty-four give credit for that time. Twenty-five years are given by three give fifteen years.

CHICAGO LIST ADVANCES FIRST TIME IN WEEK

U. S. Radio Gains Nearly Four Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Relieved of some of the selling pressure which has been forcing prices down for days the Chicago market yesterday staged the first general advance this week. In most instances the price improvement was moderate, but the strength was fairly evenly distributed among all classes of stocks.

The day's corporate news and trade developments contained nothing to account for the turn in the market. The reversal in the trend was attributed to conditions within the market itself. A letup in the liquidation gave stocks a chance to recover a small part of their recent losses.

Is Out in Front.

U. S. Radio was out in front in the advance. The stock broke away to gain nearly 4 points, crossing 25 on a good volume of buying. Transactions in the issue involved over 22,000 shares. It is reported that the firm will announce a new set in the next few days, which officials believe will add materially to the company's business. Rumors that the eastern group which has been interested in the stock have withdrawn their support are said to be without foundation.

Some delay in the listing of the issue by the New York exchange has been caused by the fact that the company did not have available a twelve months' audited income statement, but the firm is now furnishing such a report and the final approval is expected shortly. The company's fiscal year ended July 31. Results of the second half have not been made public, but the company made an enviable record in the first six months of the fiscal period.

Utilities Share Advance.

Improvement generally ranged from a fraction to a point or so. The utilities, with one or two exceptions, shared in the advance. The weakness in this group in New York, however, was a retarding factor. Middle West was easier during the day, but recovered from its low price to finish unchanged. Insull was slightly higher, but the second preferred issue was off 1½ to a record low price of 68.

Kalamazoo Stove slipped off to a new low price following the announcement of the omission of the quarterly dividend of 62½ cents. The company explained that the action was taken to maintain the present cash position. Not all the dividend news was unfavorable, however. Directors of Bath Packing company declared a dividend of 50 cents. The payment had not been made in the previous quarter. The company's stock edged up a fraction on light trade on the action of directors.

Acme Steel company stock was placed on a $2 annual basis against $2.50 formerly through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. The dividend is payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 21.

Trading Is Broadened.

Printing company shares were more active. Lincoln Printing was up a point and Hall held around its previous price. The Hall company's Chicago plant will increase its monthly output by 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 magazines monthly, it was learned. Beginning with the October issue, the Chicago plant will print the western editions of several magazines of the MacFadden publications which were formerly printed in the east.

RUBBER FIRMS PLEDGE SELVES TO HOLD WORKERS

Responding to a resolution adopted unanimously by directors of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, Inc., which recommended that all rubber manufacturers maintain their present number of employés, even if a reduction in hours becomes necessary, rubber companies of the Akron, O., district have issued formal statements pledging their support to the program.

The rubber manufacturers giving their support to the resolution include Goodyear, Goodrich, Falls, Selberling, and India. This group, embracing factories in Akron, Cuyahoga Falls, Barberton, and Mogadore, employs members of a large portion of the families in the Akron district.

LEADING BANKERS REPORTED PLANNING REALTY BOND AID

New York, Sept. 11.—(AP)—It was stated in important Wall street banking circles today that the formation of a committee of leading bankers for the protection of holders of defaulted bonds, particularly real estate issues, was receiving serious consideration.

A report that William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust company, would head the committee, was described as premature. It was said no committee has yet been selected.

There have been repeated rumors in Wall street that some such action might be taken, since Mr. Potter, together with other New York bankers, conferred with President Hoover and Eugene Meyer Jr., governor of the federal reserve board, on Aug. 26.

According to estimates attributed in Wall street to Washington, the amount of bonds in default is well over $1,000,000,000. Because bondholders are not well organized, it is felt in some quarters that their interests are not receiving the best possible attention.

The bankers who accompanied Mr. Potter to Washington were Charles S. McCain, chairman, and James T. Lee, vice president of the Chase National bank, and George D. Davison, president of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company. Mr. Lee is an authority on real estate financing.

YACHT ON WHICH LONG ISLAND SOUND TRAGEDY WAS RE-ENACTED. The cruiser Penguin, from which Benjamin P. Collings disappeared and on which Mrs. Collings yesterday retold her story, pointing out where incidents related occurred. The pneumatic mattress shown is one which Mrs. Collings threw overboard when she heard splash that told husband's fate. [TRIBUNE Photo.] (Story on page 1.)
